BETTER THAN WALKING. With strikebound traffic in New York almost at a standstill, salesman Bert Alexander uses a horse to make his rounds in midtown Manhattan. After the Transit Authority refused to request release of the jailed Transport Workers Union leaders and asked the court to fine the union $322,000 daily, quick settlement seemed remote. Immediate Settlement Slim

Small Gain Seen In Transit Talks

NEW YORK (AP) A mediator reported "some small gain" today in negotiations to end New York's crippling subway and bus strike.

But there appeared little prospect of immediate settlement as the city completed a full week of snarled traffic, jangled nerves and severe economic loss.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller received a promise from President Johnson Friday that federal help would be provided for individuals and small businessmen hit by the strike.

The mediator, Sylvester Garrett, made his assessment of the strike talks as they recessed early today after a 16-hour session.

The talks resume later today.

"I would say there has been some progress — some small gain," said Garrett, one of three special mediators assigned to the dispute.

Just before last midnight, Mayor John V. Lindsay, left City Hall where he had been in touch with the negotiations and retired to his quarters at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt, in midtown Manhattan, is about 10 blocks from the Hotel Americana, site of the negotiations between the Transit Authority, headed by Joseph E. O'Grady, and the two striking AFL-CIO unions, the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Workers.

Neither side would comment after the long session Friday night and early today, but both had expressed pessimism Friday.

TWU Vice President Douglas L. MacMahon, the union's chief negotiator, accused the TA of trying to break the union by refusing to release TWU president Michael J. Quill and eight other union officials from jail.

Quill, who collapsed after the nine were jailed for civil contempt Tuesday, was reported improving at Bellevue Hospital. The union officials were arrested for contempt in refusing to obey a state court injunction against the strike.

O'Grady asked the State Supreme Court to assess the striking unions $322,000 a day in damages for every day of the strike.

"As a result, negotiations are now at a standstill," MacMahon said.

Plans Campaign In Chicago

King Aims Rights Drive At Financial Institutions

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says that financial institutions will be prime targets in a massive civil rights campaign he plans to bring to Chicago.

King, winner of the Nobel Peace prize, announced Friday the opening of a drive he called "the first significant Northern freedom movement ever attempted by major civil rights forces."

King said banks, loan companies, mortgage companies and insurance firms are high on the list of "massive action" targets in the city. Financial institutions were one of 12 problem areas sketched by King.

King accused some money handling institutions of charging higher interest rates to Negroes than to whites. He said many refused to finance real estate transactions in slum and transitional communities where Negroes live.

The Rev. James Bevel, direct action leader of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference said a "black island" has been deliberately created in Chicago by the Chicago Real Estate Board, banks, and saving and loan institutions.

Bevel appeared before a panel of newsmen on a radio show recorded for broadcast Sunday on WLS in Chicago.

"Chicago is maintaining an internal colonial system," he said, adding that slum areas in which Negroes are forced to live are geographically outlined by real estate operators and lending institutions.

Both King and Bevel said their words were the prelude to a three-step action program they hoped would result in the mobilization of 100,000 unemployed Negroes ready to demonstrate, "whenever the occasion seems tactically important."

Such occasions, said a spokesman for Al Raby, convenor of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations would be allowed to "ferment up" from members of the mass organization he hopes will be formed in the next two months. King said gangs were a potential source of available civil rights manpower.

City Crews Salt, Ash Slick Thoroughfares

Three city street crews were called out early this morning to salt and ash city streets made slick by the combination of snow and extreme cold.

The crews were summoned at 2 a. m. by W. M. Laughlin, street superintendent, after he was advised by police that the streets were slippery.

Ashes were spread on the hills and salt used on downtown streets to remove the light accumulation.

"We probably would have been plowing if it had continued to snow as heavily as it did around 4," Laughlin said.

U.S. Jets Hit Hard At Reds' Supply Routes

Hammering Laos Sectors, Checking Men, Equipment

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Jets are hammering hard at Communist supply routes through Laos to check men and equipment that North Viet Nam is speeding south while its own territory is immune, informed sources said today.

"To do any less would be madness," one source said. "We simply cannot let the Communists arrive in South Viet Nam with all that stuff intact."

With the pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam in its 16th day, another terrorist incident startled Saigon. A bomb demolished a sidewalk peddler's stall in front of the My Canh floating restaurant, where two powerful explosions last June 25 killed 43 persons, including five Americans, and wounded nearly 100.

Damage was minor in this case, however, and authorities on the scene reported only three casualties — one policeman and two passersby received slight scratches. Diners dived to safety under the tables.

Security officers speculated that the terrorists intended the blast to lure people around the scene as targets for a second and bigger explosion, but something went wrong with their planning.

"They didn't deliver the second bomb," one said.

Vietnamese police sources disclosed 19 persons have been arrested in three terrorist incidents over the past five weeks.

In the Laotian phase of the war, informed sources said up to 300 U.S. planes are operating daily, dropping nearly 1,000 tons of bombs and rockets on Communist water-borne traffic and trucks moving down newly constructed roads.

North Viet Nam has been spared air raids since Dec. 24 after President Johnson ordered a bombing pause in an attempt to get peace negotiations started on the Vietnamese war.

Photo reconnaissance planes continue to seek out Communist troop movements and missile installations in the north.

Condition Of Reaneys Reported Unchanged

The conditions of Mr. and Mrs. James Reaney of 3034 Gilson Ave., injured in an auto accident Thursday night, were reported unchanged today at Providence Hospital, Beaver Falls.

Reaney, 65, a retired executive of the First National Bank, still was listed in "guarded" condition and his wife, Adaline, 64, was reported "fair."

Pennsylvania state police at the Chippewa Barracks are continuing their investigation into the mishap, which involved the Reaney car and a tractor-trailer.

Viet Nam Peace Drives Pressed On Two Fronts

Extend Halt In Bombing, Japan Asks

Would Mean Chance To Get Own Peace Drive Off Ground

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato was reported today to have asked the United States to extend its halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam until at least Jan. 22 to give Japan's own peace drive a chance to get off the ground.

Japanese newspapers said that Sato made the request to roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman during their meeting Friday.

Harriman was quoted as replying that the length of the moratorium depends on whether the Communists show any signs of abating their offensives in the south or otherwise recognize the American goodwill gesture.

The Jan. 22 date was selected because this is the "Tet," or lunar New Year, during which there may be a cease-fire in the ground fighting.

The Japanese peace campaign, encouraged by Harriman and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey during his visit here 10 days ago, is likely to begin with Foreign Minister Etsusaburo Shiina's talks in Moscow with Soviet leaders.

Shiina leaves for the Soviet capital next Saturday. On Monday, Sato will see Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov, presumably to brief him on the Japanese objectives.

Japan's aim is to urge the Russians to see what they can do to bring the North Vietnamese to the conference table.

There has been no confirmation from either American or Japanese sources that Sato asked for the extension of the bombing lull.

Aside from a brief statement, neither side has said anything for publication.

Harriman, who has almost circled the globe in his search for a peace opening to Hanoi, leaves Sunday for Canberra, Australia.

A Communist Chinese broadcast charged Friday that U. S. planes had bombed North Viet Nam on Wednesday night. The Defense Department immediately denied it.

Beaver Man Serious From Stab Wounds

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police said a Beaver County man was hospitalized in serious condition today with stab wounds of the abdomen.

They reported that Frank McMullen, 59, of Beaver stabbed himself Friday night with a kitchen knife in the basement of Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s store on the city's North Side.

He was reported in guarded condition at Allegheny General Hospital.

Police said they could not immediately determine a reason for the stabbing. An investigation is continuing.

Swaney Site Favored By Trades And Labor

The East Liverpool Trades and Labor Council has endorsed the Swaney Airport area as the site for a new county airport.

Joseph Winters, secretary-treasurer, said 25 delegates voted unanimously to endorse Swaney after discussing the proposed location for about an hour at a meeting Wednesday night in the old IBOP building.

Swaney was chosen as the best location to help provide facilities for use of industries locating in this area, Winters said.

Hanoi Needs China Okay?

Fact-Finders Say North Viet Looks More To Peking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's fact-finding team believes that as the Vietnamese war escalates, Communist North Viet Nam becomes more dependent on Red China.

As a result, it said, the likelihood increases that Hanoi will not be able to negotiate a settlement without at least the tacit consent of China.

"In fact, that point may already have been reached," the team said in a report released Friday night.

Mansfield and four Senate colleagues also warned that the Viet Nam fighting ultimately could engulf the entire Asian mainland in general war and that chances for a just, negotiated settlement are slim.

Mansfield, Democrats Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Daniel K. Inouye of Hawii and Republicans J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware and George D. Aiken of Vermont returned last month from a 35-day, 30,000-mile tour which took them to 12 countries and the British colony of Hong Kong.

They visited South Viet Nam Dec. 2-4, and reported the general situation there is much the same as a year ago, despite the major U.S. troop buildup.

"What was controlled then by the Viet Cong is still controlled by the Viet Cong," they said. They fixed Communist Viet Cong control of the South Vietnamese population at 22 per cent and said 18 per cent live in contested areas.

The senators returned to the United States prior to President Johnson's multi-nation campaign to bring Communist North Viet Nam to the negotiating table. Nonetheless they touched on the part other countries might play in settling the Vietnamese war.

"Many nations," they said, "are deeply desirous of an end to this conflict as quickly as possible.

"Few are specific as to the manner in which this end can be brought about or the shape it is likely to take.

"In any event, even though other nations, in certain circumstances, may be willing to play a third-party role in bringing about negotiations, any prospects for effective negotiations at this time (and they are slim) are likely to be largely dependent on the initiatives and efforts of the combatants."

North Viet Nam has repeatedly downplayed the U.S. peace offensive, while South Viet Nam, through U.S. Ambassador Vu Van Thai, has said the effort is designed "to create the conditions to show we are ready in sincerely seeking a settlement."

President Johnson was scheduled to get a report today from one of his special envoys in the peace offensive. G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, has just completed a one-week flying trip throughout Africa.

Another diplomat, Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman is still in the Far East.

The Mansfield report triggered little reaction Friday night.

President Johnson already had heard directly from Mansfield, and the White House said there would be no comment.

Urges Godoy To Cancel Exile Orders

Armed Forces Chief Says No Dominican Rebellion

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Armed Forces Minister Francisco J. Rivera Caminero says his troops are not rebelling but they want President Hector Garcia-Godoy to cancel orders sending top military men abroad.

"This is not a coup d'etat and we are not interested in taking control of the government," he told newsmen after a long meeting with Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Garcia-Godoy ordered 34 top officers of the regular armed forces and the former rebel troops into diplomatic exile Thursday. The regular army immediately moved in on the Presidential Palace and sealed all major highways into the capital.

For a time it looked like a coup was in the making, but Rivera Caminero announced Friday he would obey the president and take up his appointment to the Dominican Embassy in Washington.

Friday night he changed his mind and said: "The armed forces, from top to bottom," now agree that the presidential order would endanger military institutions and expose them to Communist penetration.

Besides Rivera Caminero, those ordered abroad included Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, leader of the rebels in last April's revolt, and other central figures involved in the bloody uprising.

"We are hopeful," Rivera Caminero said, "that the president will reconsider a decision we regard as contrary to the best interest of the fatherland."

Caamano Deno declined to see newsmen and no other rebel sources were available to comment on the presidential order.

Garcia-Godoy issued his order against a background of pressure from the rebels to remove the top regular force chiefs following a battle in Santiago Dec. 19 between regular army troops and rebel forces. A dozen men were killed and the rebels said the regulars were to blame.

An investigation ordered by Garcia-Godoy did not fix the blame but he implied in a radio and television speech last week that both sides were at fault.

He then announced he was sending a number of officers of both factions abroad. When the rebels learned the list did not include the chiefs of the armed forces, they put new pressure on the president and he revised his list to include top men of both factions.

Garcia-Godoy was backed up by the political committee of the Organization of American States.

The committee, which includes Bunker, said Garcia-Godoy's action was in keeping with the institutional act that serves as a constitution for his provisional government.

In Washington the OAS called an emergency meeting for this morning, apparently to review developments.

Picked Up, Dumped Out

Four Held At Steubenville In Area Youth's Robbery

Three Wellsville men and an East Liverpool juvenile are being held in Jefferson County Jail at Steubenville on an open charge in connection with the alleged strong-armed robbery of a 17-year-old Empire youth.

The victim was Norman Cunningham, who said he was picked up in a car by the four and robbed of his money and personal belongings.

Cunningham was brought to the Wellsville fire station Friday night about 10 by a resident of the Mills Rd. off Route 213.

He told authorities he had been waiting for a bus in the north end of Toronto when four men came along in a car and offered him a ride.

Cunningham said after he got in, the four robbed him and then drove him onto a dirt road off Route 213, where they dumped him out of the car. He went to the nearby home of Joe Newlin Jr. of the Mills Rd. who drove him to the fire station.

Cunningham could provide only a meager description of the men. He said the car was a two - tone Pontiac.

Jefferson County sheriff deputies and Toronto police were notified immediately.

Shortly after midnight, Patrolman Charles Amato of Wellsville noticed a car fitting the general description. There were four men inside and he picked them up for questioning.

The four denied any knowledge of the incident while un-

Sen. Reams Proposed For Governor Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, described as a "new sun" on the Ohio political horizon, has been proposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by party members wanting to keep the nomination from former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Reams, an announced candidate for lieutenant governor whose father represented Toledo in Congress as an independent, was advanced by fellow Senator Charles J. Carney of Youngstown for the top spot on the Democratic ticket.

"New suns should rise in Ohio," Carney said in describing Reams as a likely prospect to sidetrack DiSalle's possible comeback bid.

Reams said he is "available" for a shift in candidacy from Lieutenant governor to governor if the party's steering committee approved.

Pope Ready To Attempt 'Any Means'

Says Even Beyond Usual Protocol To Achieve Just Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today he was willing "to attempt any means, even beyond usual protocol" to achieve a just peace among nations.

The Pope made the statement, renewing his dramatic personal campaign for peace in Viet Nam, to diplomats from 55 countries. They were gathered in the Vatican's Consistorial Hall to give him their New Year's greetings.

The pontiff did not explain what additional steps he proposed to take since his telegraphed New Year's pleas for negotiation to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon.

"God is our witness that we are ready, on our part, to attempt any means, even beyond usual protocol forms, at any time that we think the (Roman Catholic) Church can usefully bring to the leaders (of governments) the weight of its moral authority in order to maintain and promote a just peace among men and among peoples," the Pope said.

The Pope said this was a "doubtless temporal task" but "is undertaken and carried out through means appropriate to our function, and for a spiritual aim: the health of society and the true well being of mankind."

Pope Paul said the experience of the past years confirmed that the Church's mission of peace and its activity in modern life "does not fall on indifference." "This mission," he said, "is awaited and heard in large areas." The Pope said the proof of this was the large echo from his speech to the United Nations last October and "more recently our interventions in favor of peace in Viet Nam."

He was referring to his New Year's appeals telegraphed to Red Chinese leader Mao Tzetung, Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam and Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state of South Viet Nam.

Mercury Due To Drop Even More Tonight

As was inevitable, winter weather has arrived locally and in the district.

With some snow on the ground and the temperature reading 14 in the business area at 6 a.m. —and lower in the outlying sections — wind - punctuated cold weather swept in overnight.

And tonight it will be even colder, with the weatherman predicting temperatures of from 8 above down to zero.

Fair and not quite so cold is the official word for Sunday.

Snow flurries also are mentioned locally, with a heavy fall looming in the Lake Erie region, where from 3 to 5 inches are likely.

Bitter Cold Covers Third Of Country

By The Associated Press

A mass of bitterly cold Arctic air covered one-third of the country today, sending temperatures again to 30 degrees below zero.

Zero or below temperatures were reported over wide sections from the northern Appalachians southwestward to northern Missouri, then in a sweeping arc upward to Idaho.

The early morning's lowest reading was 30 degrees below zero at Hibbing, Minn. Some reporting points in northern Iowa had readings around -20.

The Mansfield report triggered little reaction Friday night.

President Johnson already had heard directly from Mansfield, and the White House said there would be no comment.

Armed Forces Chief Says No Dominican Rebellion

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Armed Forces Minister Francisco J. Rivera Caminero says his troops are not rebelling but they want President Hector Garcia-Godoy to cancel orders sending top military men abroad.

"This is not a coup d'etat and we are not interested in taking control of the government," he told newsmen after a long meeting with Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Garcia-Godoy ordered 34 top officers of the regular armed forces and the former rebel troops into diplomatic exile Thursday. The regular army immediately moved in on the Presidential Palace and sealed all major highways into the capital.

For a time it looked like a coup was in the making, but Rivera Caminero announced Friday he would obey the president and take up his appointment to the Dominican Embassy in Washington.

Friday night he changed his mind and said: "The armed forces, from top to bottom," now agree that the presidential order would endanger military institutions and expose them to Communist penetration.

Besides Rivera Caminero, those ordered abroad included Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, leader of the rebels in last April's revolt, and other central figures involved in the bloody uprising.

"We are hopeful," Rivera Caminero said, "that the president will reconsider a decision we regard as contrary to the best interest of the fatherland."

Caamano Deno declined to see newsmen and no other rebel sources were available to comment on the presidential order.

Garcia-Godoy issued his order against a background of pressure from the rebels to remove the top regular force chiefs following a battle in Santiago Dec. 19 between regular army troops and rebel forces. A dozen men were killed and the rebels said the regulars were to blame.

An investigation ordered by Garcia-Godoy did not fix the blame but he implied in a radio and television speech last week that both sides were at fault.

He then announced he was sending a number of officers of both factions abroad. When the rebels learned the list did not include the chiefs of the armed forces, they put new pressure on the president and he revised his list to include top men of both factions.

Garcia-Godoy was backed up by the political committee of the Organization of American States.

The committee, which includes Bunker, said Garcia-Godoy's action was in keeping with the institutional act that serves as a constitution for his provisional government.

In Washington the OAS called an emergency meeting for this morning, apparently to review developments.

Picked Up, Dumped Out

Four Held At Steubenville In Area Youth's Robbery

Three Wellsville men and an East Liverpool juvenile are being held in Jefferson County Jail at Steubenville on an open charge in connection with the alleged strong-armed robbery of a 17-year-old Empire youth.

The victim was Norman Cunningham, who said he was picked up in a car by the four and robbed of his money and personal belongings.

Cunningham was brought to the Wellsville fire station Friday night about 10 by a resident of the Mills Rd. off Route 213.

He told authorities he had been waiting for a bus in the north end of Toronto when four men came along in a car and offered him a ride.

Cunningham said after he got in, the four robbed him and then drove him onto a dirt road off Route 213, where they dumped him out of the car. He went to the nearby home of Joe Newlin Jr. of the Mills Rd. who drove him to the fire station.

Cunningham could provide only a meager description of the men. He said the car was a two - tone Pontiac.

Jefferson County sheriff deputies and Toronto police were notified immediately.

Shortly after midnight, Patrolman Charles Amato of Wellsville noticed a car fitting the general description. There were four men inside and he picked them up for questioning.

The four denied any knowledge of the incident while un-

Sen. Reams Proposed For Governor Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, described as a "new sun" on the Ohio political horizon, has been proposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by party members wanting to keep the nomination from former Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Reams, an announced candidate for lieutenant governor whose father represented Toledo in Congress as an independent, was advanced by fellow Senator Charles J. Carney of Youngstown for the top spot on the Democratic ticket.

"New suns should rise in Ohio," Carney said in describing Reams as a likely prospect to sidetrack DiSalle's possible comeback bid.

Reams said he is "available" for a shift in candidacy from Lieutenant governor to governor if the party's steering committee approved.

Pope Ready To Attempt 'Any Means'

Says Even Beyond Usual Protocol To Achieve Just Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said today he was willing "to attempt any means, even beyond usual protocol" to achieve a just peace among nations.

The Pope made the statement, renewing his dramatic personal campaign for peace in Viet Nam, to diplomats from 55 countries. They were gathered in the Vatican's Consistorial Hall to give him their New Year's greetings.

The pontiff did not explain what additional steps he proposed to take since his telegraphed New Year's pleas for negotiation to Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon.

"God is our witness that we are ready, on our part, to attempt any means, even beyond usual protocol forms, at any time that we think the (Roman Catholic) Church can usefully bring to the leaders (of governments) the weight of its moral authority in order to maintain and promote a just peace among men and among peoples," the Pope said.

The Pope said this was a "doubtless temporal task" but "is undertaken and carried out through means appropriate to our function, and for a spiritual aim: the health of society and the true well being of mankind."

Pope Paul said the experience of the past years confirmed that the Church's mission of peace and its activity in modern life "does not fall on indifference." "This mission," he said, "is awaited and heard in large areas." The Pope said the proof of this was the large echo from his speech to the United Nations last October and "more recently our interventions in favor of peace in Viet Nam."

He was referring to his New Year's appeals telegraphed to Red Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung, Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny and President Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam and Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state of South Viet Nam.

Mercury Due To Drop Even More Tonight

As was inevitable, winter weather has arrived locally and in the district.

With some snow on the ground and the temperature reading 14 in the business area at 6 a.m. —and lower in the outlying sections — wind - punctuated cold weather swept in overnight.

And tonight it will be even colder, with the weatherman predicting temperatures of from 8 above down to zero.

Fair and not quite so cold is the official word for Sunday.

Snow flurries also are mentioned locally, with a heavy fall looming in the Lake Erie region, where from 3 to 5 inches are likely.

Bitter Cold Covers Third Of Country

By The Associated Press

A mass of bitterly cold Arctic air covered one-third of the country today, sending temperatures again to 30 degrees below zero.

Zero or below temperatures were reported over wide sections from the northern Appalachians southwestward to northern Missouri, then in a sweeping arc upward to Idaho.

The early morning's lowest reading was 30 degrees below zero at Hibbing, Minn. Some reporting points in northern Iowa had readings around -20.

Guilford Dam Work Slated

LISBON — The state of Ohio is studying ways to repair the concrete facing on the earth-fill dam at Guilford Lake State Park.

State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon received word of the project in a conversation with Melvin J. Rebholz, Chief of the Division of Parks in the State Department of Natural Resources.

The concrete, exposed to a depth of several feet since the water level has been lowered for the winter, is badly cracked and twisted.

Wetzel said he recalls that the concrete facing was applied during zero weather 33 or 34 years ago.

He said $80,000 has been allocated for Guilford Lake State Park for the two - year period, which began last July 1. Repairs will be made to blacktop roads, with some additional blacktopping also planned.

Wetzel said the state soon will begin purchase of land to expand Beaver Creek State Park and will provide parking areas, toilets, wells and trails.

The state has $650,000 allocated for the Beaver Creek park. Wetzel said $450,000 of that amount will be spent this biennium, most of it for land.

Judge Orders Fine And Jail

LISBON — A Salineville man was sentenced Friday to 10 days in the County Jail and fined $150 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Paul W. Miller, 43, pleaded no contest before Judge J. L. MacDonald. The judge refused to suspend the jail sentence because of a previous conviction against Miller.

In other court action, Harry H. Johnson, 27, of Wellsville was fined a total of $15 on two traffic charges—$10 for a speeding charge and $5 on a charge of failure to transfer a registration of a motor vehicle.

Donald K. Evans, 53, of Canton, was fined $15 on a charge of crossing a yellow line.

Four motorists were fined $10 each on separate charges. They were Kenneth G. Crawford, 19, of Lisbon R.D. 2, failure to stop in an assured clear distance; John H. Cosma, 56, of W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, operating left of center on a curve; Edward I. Baker, 19, of Salineville, excessive speed for road conditions, and Kenneth C. Spore, 56, of Wellsville, failure to stop in an assured clear distance.

Paul D. Louk, 20, of Center St., Lisbon, was fined $5 each on two counts of operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Fined $5 each were George Faluba, 45, of Lisbon R.D. 4, unlawful turn in a hazardous zone; Virgil Wickersham, 53, of Kensington R.D. 1, operating an unsafe vehicle; and George Drovolic, 20, of Lisbon R.D. 4, speeding.

Robert W. Leishman, 30, of Salineville forfeited a $25 appearance bond on a charge of being found in a state of intoxication. Forfeiting a $15 appearance bond was Charles Shearer, 30, of Ravenna, charged with operating a motor vehicle left of center.

Juvenile Courts Challenged Over Boy's 'Sentence'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A petition challenging the right of Pennsylvania's juvenile courts to "sentence" a youngster has been filed in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court.

The petition filed Friday seeks the release of Paul Kleitz, 18, of Pittsburgh on grounds his confinement violates the due process clauses of the federal and state constitutions.

Judge Henry Ellenbogen said the outcome could have a far-reaching impact on the state's juvenile courts. He called it an "extremely important" test case.

An attorney representing Kleitz, A. Richard Nernberg, said the teenager was sentenced in Juvenile Court in Pittsburgh in 1964 to an indefinite term on charges of "participating in statutory rape, minor thefts and truancy." He is confined at the State Correctional Institution at Dallas in Luzerne County.

The petition contends Kleitz was sentenced as a criminal without benefit of trial or lawyer by a court that has no power to sentence.

Usually, juvenile court proceedings are informal. The court has power to confine youngsters for purposes of education and rehabilitation.

Judge Ellenbogen ordered officials of the correctional institution to show cause why Kleitz should not be released.

Ohioville Council Acts In Property Tax Again

Ohioville Council authorized re-enactment of the borough's property tax, filled two Municipal Auhtority posts and organized committees Thursday night in the borough building.

Sam B. Wilson, solicitor, was authorized to prepare ordinances for the re-enactment of the 7-mill property tax.

Council reappointed Dr. Vern Watson to a five-year term on the Ohio Township Municipal Water Authority. His term had expired Dec. 31.

Carl Colbath was appointed to serve the two - year unexpired term of George Daniels Sr., who resigned to serve on Council. Daniels won the council seat in the general election.

Council also appointed Mrs. Marjorie Kidder to serve the two - year unexpired term of Olen C. Gibson as auditor. Gibson resigned to serve on the Western Beaver County School Board, a position he won in the general election.

At the Feb. 3 meeting, Council will appoint a new member of the borough planning commission.

In other business, Council authorized Daniel C. Baker, borough engineer, to advertise bids for slag and oil to be used in repair of the borough roads. Repair of the roads will begin next summer.

Increase In Receipts Shown By Postal Branch At Calcutta

Continuing development of the Calcutta area and greater use of the Calcutta postal branch were reflected in receipts of the office for last year, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

Located in the Potters Lumber Co. in St. Clair Plaza, the office had receipts of $17,471 last year, a gain of $6,407 over the 1964 total of $11,064, the postmaster said.

In making comparisons, Brown noted that all facets of the branch operation were above the 1964 levels. Last year 3,852 parcels were handled against 3,439 in 1964 and insured parcels rose from 2,336 in 1964 to 2,995 last year.

There were 2,465 money orders issued at the branch against 2,236 in 1964 and patrons cashed 150 money orders last year against 125 in the previous year.

Brown pointed out more patrons are using the branch because more parking space is available than at the downtown office, and most of the same services are available.

Although there are no deliveries or box rental service at the branch, all mail and parcels deposited are brought into the main office daily to make the necessary dispatches.

"I can only predict greater increases this year," the postmaster declared, pointing out the branch now sells stamps, envelopes, cards, accepts regular and insured parcels, processes registered and certified mail, handles international parcels, and writes and cashes money orders.

Meeting Set On Jail Break

The Beaver County Prison Board will hold a special meeting Monday at 10:30 a.m. in Court Room One to review the investigation report of the "walk-away" escape of Robert Dourlain From County Jail Dec. 19.

The committee which investigated the escape is comprised of a representative from the State Department of Justice, the Bureau of Correction, Sgt. Elmer Barkay of the Pennsylvania state police and John Krzton, chief of the Beaver County detectives.

The report which will be presented to the prison board was drawn up by Arthur T. Prasse, chairman of the Commission of Correction.

Members of the prison board are Beaver County Justices Ralph Scalera and John Sawyer; Robert J. Masters, district attorney; Sheriff John Hineman Jr.; Controller James F. Trees, and County Commissioners James E. Ross, Eli G. Corak and Arthur W. Pettibon.

Dourlain, who was sentenced to Western State Penitentiary on a charge of "assault with attempt to ravish" of a Beaver Falls girl, is still at large. He was due for transfer to Western Penitentiary the day of his escape.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Commonwealth Court granted Friday 14 Allegheny County school districts permission to delay imposition of state-mandated reorganization plans until the court can rule on pending appeals.

The petition of Stowe Twp. was denied by Judge James S. Bowman.

The following districts were granted stays: Munhall, Edgewood Borough, North Braddock Borough, Etna Borough, Millvale Borough, Bellevue Borough, Sharpsburg Borough, Oakmont Borough, West Homestead Borough; East Deer-Frazer Union, Neville Twp., Moon Twp., Union, Reserve Twp., and West Deer Twp.

DeGaulle Takes Office For New 7-Year Term

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle formally took office today for another seven - year term as president of France in a brief and austere ceremony in the Elysee Palace.

The ceremony — a striking contrast to presidential inaugurations in America—lasted only seven minutes and was witnessed by less than 50 persons.

The occasion marked the end of De Gaulle's initial term, which began Jan. 8, 1959, and the beginning of the new mandate won in a popular election Dec. 19. This was the first direct presidential election in French history — De Gaulle's first election came from a restricted electoral college.

Increase In Receipts Shown By Postal Branch At Calcutta

Continuing development of the Calcutta area and greater use of the Calcutta postal branch were reflected in receipts of the office for last year, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

Located in the Potters Lumber Co. in St. Clair Plaza, the office had receipts of $17,471 last year, a gain of $6,407 over the 1964 total of $11,064, the postmaster said.

In making comparisons, Brown noted that all facets of the branch operation were above the 1964 levels. Last year 3,852 parcels were handled against 3,439 in 1964 and insured parcels rose from 2,336 in 1964 to 2,995 last year.

There were 2,465 money orders issued at the branch against 2,236 in 1964 and patrons cashed 150 money orders last year against 125 in the previous year.

Brown pointed out more patrons are using the branch because more parking space is available than at the downtown office, and most of the same services are available.

Although there are no deliveries or box rental service at the branch, all mail and parcels deposited are brought into the main office daily to make the necessary dispatches.

"I can only predict greater increases this year," the postmaster declared, pointing out the branch now sells stamps, envelopes, cards, accepts regular and insured parcels, processes registered and certified mail, handles international parcels, and writes and cashes money orders.

DeGaulle Takes Office For New 7-Year Term

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle formally took office today for another seven - year term as president of France in a brief and austere ceremony in the Elysee Palace.

The ceremony — a striking contrast to presidential inaugurations in America—lasted only seven minutes and was witnessed by less than 50 persons.

The occasion marked the end of De Gaulle's initial term, which began Jan. 8, 1959, and the beginning of the new mandate won in a popular election Dec. 19. This was the first direct presidential election in French history — De Gaulle's first election came from a restricted electoral college.

Meeting Set On Jail Break

The Beaver County Prison Board will hold a special meeting Monday at 10:30 a.m. in Court Room One to review the investigation report of the "walk-away" escape of Robert Dourlain From County Jail Dec. 19.

The committee which investigated the escape is comprised of a representative from the State Department of Justice, the Bureau of Correction, Sgt. Elmer Barkay of the Pennsylvania state police and John Krzton, chief of the Beaver County detectives.

The report which will be presented to the prison board was drawn up by Arthur T. Prasse, chairman of the Commission of Correction.

Members of the prison board are Beaver County Justices Ralph Scalera and John Sawyer; Robert J. Masters, district attorney; Sheriff John Hineman Jr.; Controller James F. Trees, and County Commissioners James E. Ross, Eli G. Corak and Arthur W. Pettibon.

Dourlain, who was sentenced to Western State Penitentiary on a charge of "assault with attempt to ravish" of a Beaver Falls girl, is still at large. He was due for transfer to Western Penitentiary the day of his escape.

7 Cars Derailed

Hancock Wreck Tied To Slippery Highway

The Hancock County sheriff's office reported one auto accident resulting from the slippery roads Friday night.

Gordon Rowlett, 18, of Weirton was traveling west on Kings Creek road south of New Cumberland when his 1964 convertible skidded and hit the adjoining embankment, causing $300 damage.

A passenger, Miss Gloria Lauerman, 17, also of Weirton, sustained a laceration of the shoulder and received treatment at Weirton General Hospital.

Enraged Man Killed After Slaying Three

CHICAGO (AP) — A young man, apparently enraged over car - repair bills, killed three auto salesmen with a sawed-off shotgun Friday and was threatening two women employes when shot and killed by a police offier.

Police said Donald Jackson, 24, entered the Fohrman Motors, Ltd., salesroom through a rear door and walked around a partition where he saw Albert Sizer, 65, a salesman, standing. He shot Sizer in the head, they said.

One of the owners, Sidney Fohrman, 52, heard the gunfire and ran out of his glass-partitioned office. Jackson shot him in the head and then ran into an inner office and shot Edward Forhamn, 43, Sidney's brother and co-owner of the business, police said.

Other employes running from the building flagged down Det. Roland Charles, 36, and his partner, York Anderson, who were riding by.

"We stopped the car and ran around the back of the place," Charles said. "Anderson drew his gun and walked in one direction and I drew mine and walked in another."

The intruder spotted Charles and fired at him with a Luger pistol he was carrying in addition to the sawed-off shotgun.

"I ducked," Charles said, "and sneaked around a partition and came up in the front of the showroom." The policeman said he saw Jackson threatening two women employes in the cashier's office with the shotgun.

Charles said:

"He told them he was going to kill them. Both women were crying hysterically and fell to the floor. "As Jackson looked up I shot him in the head."

Police Commander Frank Flanagan said Jackson recently purchased a used car from Fohrman and had an accident with it. He said Jackson visited the auto showroom several times in recent weeks, quarreling over repair bills and demanding his money be refunded.

"Apparently he got into an argument with somebody here and returned today with a shotgun," Flanagan said.

Besides the shotgun and pistol, Jackson wore a belt containing 25 shotgun shells and carried two plastic bags full of shells, police said.

Arson Blamed In School Blaze

Fires In New Orleans Hit Skyscraper, School

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Flames gnawed the heart out of the 13th floor in a massive old skyscraper downtown while another midnight fire — blamed on arson — devastated a suburban public school today.

Firefighters quenched the blaze that heavily damaged three floors in Hibernia Bank Building in a two-hour battle that emptied cars and nearby bars of curious hundreds.

The fire at McDonogh No. 26 Elementary School, just across the Mississippi River, raged out of control into the dawn.

"It definitely was arson," said Chief Leo Rose. "Some people living across the street heard explosions. When we got here the doors were wide open and a tower of flames leaped 30 feet into the air."

Damage to the 12th, 13th and 14th floors in the 355-foot high bank building, the city's tallest until four years ago, was estimated at $75,000 by Fire Supt. Arthur J. Heyd, who added, "But it'll be much more than that."

Up to 100 firemen went scrambling to each blaze.

Fire Chief Nicholas Martello collapsed at the downtown fire. It was not determined immediately whether it was caused by smoke inhalation. He has a heart condition.

The fire at the two-story brick school, built in 1926, was believed to have started in the principal's office. A new adjoining cafeteria was saved.

The principal, Miss Lillian Walker, said about 450 children attended the school.

"I don't know what will be done about their classes," she said.

Confrontation By Whites Feared

Demonstrators Planning New March In Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — Demonstrators plan another march today in Tuskegee where a Negro city councilman says he fears a protest march by Negro students may result in a confrontation with angry whites.

"If we can get by Saturday without bloodshed, I think we will be able to settle down and make some progress," Dr. Stanley Hugh Smith said Friday.

Smith, one of two Negroes on the five-member City Council, warned of a possible confrontation if Tuskegee Institute students demonstrate again today.

The protest would be the fourth by students since Samuel Younge Jr., 21, an institute student active in civil rights work, was shot to death Monday night.

Smith, an institute professor of sociology, said the students are supported "for the first time by a significant number of adult Negroes." About 150 persons marched in a demonstration Friday which officials said was without incident.

Mayor Charles Keever said city officials are concerned about demonstrators "getting on private property." He said city officials would probably take some action on this problem, but he did not indicate what the action would be nor when it would be taken.

City officials have continued to meet with students and institute officials and also federal mediators in hopes of meeting Negro demands and still satisfying white townspeople.

Smith said white residents are disturbed by the demonstrations and the increasing demands for racial equality.

Canton Driver Cited When Car Kills Boy

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A North Canton boy was killed Friday when a car jumped a curb at a shopping center.

Police said Donald S. Kessler, 6, was the victim. The driver, Clarence Poulain, 47, was charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and second degree manslaughter, police said.

Soviet Group Begins Talks In North Viet

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet delegation led by Alexander N. Shelepin began talks in Hanoi today with a North Vietnamese group headed by President Ho Chi Minh.

The nature of the talks was not disclosed in a brief dispatch from Hanoi by the official Soviet news agency, Tass.

Shelepin arrived in Hanoi Friday with a group that includes the deputy commander of Soviet strategic rocket forces and a military production expert.

He said in reply to a welcoming speech that the Soviet Union is striving "to render comprehensive support and assistance to the Vietnamese people who are fighting against U. S. aggression."

Shelepin told a crowd in downtown Hanoi that "the cause for which the Vietnamese people are fighting is a righteous cause. It will triumph, and (the Soviet Union) wishes this to happen as soon as possible."

Shelepin said his visit would contribute to closer relations between the Soviet and North Vietnamese Communist parties, governments and peoples.

"This is why we came here and we shall not spare efforts in this."

The statement seemed to support speculation here that wooing Hanoi closer to Moscow and away from Peking in the bitter Russian-Chinese competition for influence in the world Communist movement was a main purpose of the expedition.

Shelepin, 47, reputedly the No. 2 man in the Communist party, noticeably did not pick up a theme from the welcoming speech of Pham Van Dong, premier of North Viet Nam.

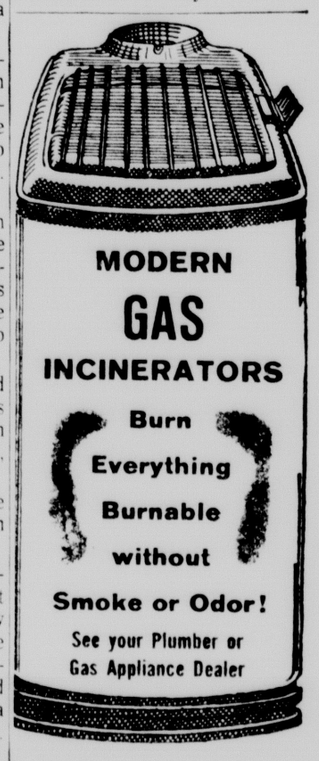

Pham accused the United States of a "false so-called 'peace-seeking' campaign in order to condition public opinion to new, extremely dangerous steps on the road of escalation."

Hancock Wreck Tied To Slippery Highway

The Hancock County sheriff's office reported one auto accident resulting from the slippery roads Friday night.

Gordon Rowlett, 18, of Weirton was traveling west on Kings Creek road south of New Cumberland when his 1964 convertible skidded and hit the adjoining embankment, causing $300 damage.

A passenger, Miss Gloria Lauerman, 17, also of Weirton, sustained a laceration of the shoulder and received treatment at Weirton General Hospital.

Enraged Man Killed After Slaying Three

CHICAGO (AP) — A young man, apparently enraged over car - repair bills, killed three auto salesmen with a sawed-off shotgun Friday and was threatening two women employes when shot and killed by a police offier.

Police said Donald Jackson, 24, entered the Fohrman Motors, Ltd., salesroom through a rear door and walked around a partition where he saw Albert Sizer, 65, a salesman, standing. He shot Sizer in the head, they said.

One of the owners, Sidney Fohrman, 52, heard the gunfire and ran out of his glass-partitioned office. Jackson shot him in the head and then ran into an inner office and shot Edward Forhamn, 43, Sidney's brother and co-owner of the business, police said.

Other employes running from the building flagged down Det. Roland Charles, 36, and his partner, York Anderson, who were riding by.

"We stopped the car and ran around the back of the place," Charles said. "Anderson drew his gun and walked in one direction and I drew mine and walked in another."

The intruder spotted Charles and fired at him with a Luger pistol he was carrying in addition to the sawed-off shotgun.

"I ducked," Charles said, "and sneaked around a partition and came up in the front of the showroom." The policeman said he saw Jackson threatening two women employes in the cashier's office with the shotgun.

Charles said:

"He told them he was going to kill them. Both women were crying hysterically and fell to the floor. "As Jackson looked up I shot him in the head."

Police Commander Frank Flanagan said Jackson recently purchased a used car from Fohrman and had an accident with it. He said Jackson visited the auto showroom several times in recent weeks, quarreling over repair bills and demanding his money be refunded.

"Apparently he got into an argument with somebody here and returned today with a shotgun," Flanagan said.

Besides the shotgun and pistol, Jackson wore a belt containing 25 shotgun shells and carried two plastic bags full of shells, police said.

New Councilmen Given Facts By Retired Member

James F. Cunningham, who left office a week ago as Second Ward councilman, sent a letter Friday to all members of the new Council outlining data on unfinished projects and investigations in which he participated for their use in the current biennium.

Cunningham furnished detailed data on:

Proposed purchase of new parking meters, which he termed "one of the major problems facing you."

A request to vacate a half-block section of Farmers Alley south of E. 3rd St. in the vicinity of a new motel as a way of providing additional parking space for the new enterprise.

A suggestion to provide a car allowance for Harold Cartwright, assistant city engineer.

Nine More From District Sign For Duty With Navy

Nine district men signed for Navy duty during December, according to Chief Electrician's Mate Theodore Horokowski, who is in charge of the recruiting station at City Hall. They are:

East Liverpool — Paul Michael Samberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Samberson of 1624 Cleveland Ave. Samberson attended high school here.

Chester — Robert Neil Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Taylor of 334 Indiana Ave. Taylor is a 1963 graduate of Chester High School.

Wellsville — James Edwin Boyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle C. Boyce of 936 Center St. Boyce is a 1965 graduate of Wellsville High School.

Salem — Jay Dennis Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Crawford of MC 1, Georgetown Rd., and James Raymond Mathey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Mathey of R. D. 1. Crawford is a 1964 graduate of Salem Senior High School and Mathey a 1963 graduate of West Branch High School.

New Waterford — Richard William Shearer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Shearer of R.D. 1. Shearer is a 1964 graduate of Beaver Local High School.

Alliance — Raymond Michael Hoebeke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Hoebeke of R.D. 4 Hoebeke is a 1963 graduate of West Branch High School.

Arson Blamed In School Blaze

Fires In New Orleans Hit Skyscraper, School

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Flames gnawed the heart out of the 13th floor in a massive old skyscraper downtown while another midnight fire — blamed on arson — devastated a suburban public school today.

Firefighters quenched the blaze that heavily damaged three floors in Hibernia Bank Building in a two-hour battle that emptied cars and nearby bars of curious hundreds.

The fire at McDonogh No. 26 Elementary School, just across the Mississippi River, raged out of control into the dawn.

"It definitely was arson," said Chief Leo Rose. "Some people living across the street heard explosions. When we got here the doors were wide open and a tower of flames leaped 30 feet into the air."

Damage to the 12th, 13th and 14th floors in the 355-foot high bank building, the city's tallest until four years ago, was estimated at $75,000 by Fire Supt. Arthur J. Heyd, who added, "But it'll be much more than that."

Up to 100 firemen went scrambling to each blaze.

Fire Chief Nicholas Martello collapsed at the downtown fire. It was not determined immediately whether it was caused by smoke inhalation. He has a heart condition.

The fire at the two-story brick school, built in 1926, was believed to have started in the principal's office. A new adjoining cafeteria was saved.

The principal, Miss Lillian Walker, said about 450 children attended the school.

"I don't know what will be done about their classes," she said.

Confrontation By Whites Feared

Demonstrators Planning New March In Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — Demonstrators plan another march today in Tuskegee where a Negro city councilman says he fears a protest march by Negro students may result in a confrontation with angry whites.

"If we can get by Saturday without bloodshed, I think we will be able to settle down and make some progress," Dr. Stanley Hugh Smith said Friday.

Smith, one of two Negroes on the five-member City Council, warned of a possible confrontation if Tuskegee Institute students demonstrate again today.

The protest would be the fourth by students since Samuel Younge Jr., 21, an institute student active in civil rights work, was shot to death Monday night.

Smith, an institute professor of sociology, said the students are supported "for the first time by a significant number of adult Negroes." About 150 persons marched in a demonstration Friday which officials said was without incident.

Mayor Charles Keever said city officials are concerned about demonstrators "getting on private property." He said city officials would probably take some action on this problem, but he did not indicate what the action would be nor when it would be taken.

City officials have continued to meet with students and institute officials and also federal mediators in hopes of meeting Negro demands and still satisfying white townspeople.

Smith said white residents are disturbed by the demonstrations and the increasing demands for racial equality.

Canton Driver Cited When Car Kills Boy

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A North Canton boy was killed Friday when a car jumped a curb at a shopping center.

Police said Donald S. Kessler, 6, was the victim. The driver, Clarence Poulain, 47, was charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and second degree manslaughter, police said.

Soviet Group Begins Talks In North Viet

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet delegation led by Alexander N. Shelepin began talks in Hanoi today with a North Vietnamese group headed by President Ho Chi Minh.

The nature of the talks was not disclosed in a brief dispatch from Hanoi by the official Soviet news agency, Tass.

Shelepin arrived in Hanoi Friday with a group that includes the deputy commander of Soviet strategic rocket forces and a military production expert.

He said in reply to a welcoming speech that the Soviet Union is striving "to render comprehensive support and assistance to the Vietnamese people who are fighting against U. S. aggression."

Shelepin told a crowd in downtown Hanoi that "the cause for which the Vietnamese people are fighting is a righteous cause. It will triumph, and (the Soviet Union) wishes this to happen as soon as possible."

Shelepin said his visit would contribute to closer relations between the Soviet and North Vietnamese Communist parties, governments and peoples.

"This is why we came here and we shall not spare efforts in this."

The statement seemed to support speculation here that wooing Hanoi closer to Moscow and away from Peking in the bitter Russian-Chinese competition for influence in the world Communist movement was a main purpose of the expedition.

Shelepin, 47, reputedly the No. 2 man in the Communist party, noticeably did not pick up a theme from the welcoming speech of Pham Van Dong, premier of North Viet Nam.

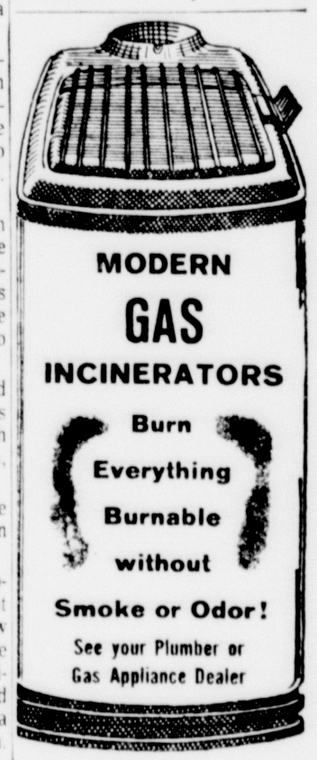

Pham accused the United States of a "false so-called 'peace-seeking' campaign in order to condition public opinion to new, extremely dangerous steps on the road of escalation."

Switching On The Stabilizer

A lot of breath is being wasted on speculation about the second session of the 89th Congress. Will it be as "fabulous" as President Johnson said it was at the end of its first session?

Of course it won't.

What could it do for an encore that would match medicare, voting rights, housing, the poverty program, removal of gold backing, a new farm law, tax cuts and educational aid — to mention a few high spots of its 1965 action?

Once in a great while, Congress finds itself in a situation devoid of opposition for opposition's sake. It happened early in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt when all he needed to do was have assistants draw up proposed laws and submit them to Congress for automatic passage —the "rubber stamp Congress."

It happened then because a landslide at the polls had signified to legislators there was no political future for them in resisting a popular newcomer's proposals.

IT HAPPENED in 1965 because another landslide had revealed to holdover members of Congress and all newly elected members that Lyndon B. Johnson was riding an unprecedented high tide of popularity. The resistance to John F. Kennedy that had threatened to stall his leadership and put him through another "squeaker" election in 1964 had crumbled under the skillful pressures applied to legislators and then to the electorate by his successor.

It will not happen to President Johnson again.

The momentum of 1965 is gone now.

The nation is waiting to see what happens to the Johnson administration's domestic program.

The poverty program is in trouble. The medicare program when it goes into operation is going to confront so many people with so many problems it will be an administrative nightmare.

The proof of the pudding is at hand for the domestic program.

THE GRITTIEST moment of truth is looming ahead for the Johnson administration in decisions on foreign affairs. The United States unexpectedly and annoyingly found itself in 1965 trying to line up allies in no mood to be lined up. They were mistrusting the United States, not trusting it.

The undeclared war in Viet Nam is the prime topic for discussion as Congress reconvenes. Senators and representatives belatedly are going to do what should have been done before — reach an agreement with the administration on what the United States wants to accomplish in Southeast Asia.

There is mistrust at home as well as abroad.

The U.S. Congress is traditionally the stabilizer of public affairs. It confirms the aims of executive leadership, questions them, or denies them outright.

The 89th Congress in its first session was in a confirming mood; that was the political climate a year ago.

The climate today is different. Congress is in a questioning mood, reflecting a change in the popular mood. It is not impossible that Congress might even be in a denying mood before the year is out.

Mr. Johnson will not have political carte blanche again. He is among a very few presidents who ever had it at all.

Only One More Garrison

Remembering that two U. S. divisions are still standing guard in Korea to maintain the truce which ended gunfire there in 1953, Americans would be foolish to expect sudden real solution to the military problem in Viet Nam.

The only settlement that can be hoped for would end the violent phase of the war by slow degrees. The war itself would continue, as it has continued in Korea, where there is no peace, only a cessation of shooting — an indefinite cold war.

As in Korea, this would strike some Americans as a shameful concession to the enemy. They would chide the truce-makers. They would suggest there was something cowardly and half-treasonable about stopping a shooting war short of unconditional surrender.

Their point of view would not prevail.

The American people as a whole would be happy to settle for anything in Viet Nam that would bar Communist aggression from shooting its way to conquest in Viet Nam. That is the only way it can get aynwhere. No country ever adopted Communism as a matter of conviction.

There is no distinct battle line to stand on for maintenance of a truce in Viet Nam, so the United States would have to settle for possession of its coastal strong points. These would enable it to maintain a powerful garrison in conjunction with strong points in Thailand.

It is being denied by government spokesmen that the United States went into Viet Nam for the purpose of establishing a military outpost. It didn't go into Korea with that in mind, either. It didn't intend to set up a powerful outpost in Britain, or Japan.

But that was the net effect of actions taken for other reasons.

It would be the net effect in Viet Nam if the shooting were brought to a halt. Americans may be sure this is not being ignored by the people on the other side.

No matter how confident they are of taking over Asia in the long run, they cannot be happy about seeing another U. S. garrison in Asia — one in Korea, one in Japan, one in Okinawa, one in the Philippines, now, perhaps another in Viet Nam. There once was still another, in Afghanistan, but that one was traded away in a deal with the Soviet Union over a garrison it was setting up at the time in Cuba only 90 miles away from the continent of North America.

Agreement By Consensus

Everybody breathed easier when word went out from the White House that the Johnson administration saw nothing wrong in the principal of U.S. Steel's proposal for a $2.75 boost in structural steel, with a small reduction in cold-rolled sheets thrown in.

It did raise the question whether if Bethlehem Steel had proposed a boost of $7.50 a ton, instead of $5, and U.S. Steel then had proposed a compromise of $3.75 there would have been the same happy ending.

What happened is another example of President Johnson's old-pro political formula of agreement by consensus.

The philosophical overtones of agreement by consensus are thought-provoking.

Agreement by consensus is another way of saying agreement by consent. That, in turn, is another way of saying that in a society of equals, in which no one has a right to dictate terms to anyone else, the most important method to master is how to bring two sides to a disagreement together — how to get them to consent.

The objective is not to settle issues on a basis of right and wrong but how to settle issues — period.

President Johnson, the old-pro politician, is noted for special talent in settling issues. Agreement by consensus is his stock in trade.

His efforts to keep dollar devaluation from accelerating cannot be completely successful; he knows that. But if he can keep price and wage boosters from getting all they ask for — if he can persuade them to settle for a fraction — he will be doing as well as any president can be expected to do. He will be carrying out his statutory duty to protect the purchasing power of the American people.

The only trouble is that everybody finally will learn what labor unions learned long ago — to ask for twice as much as they hope to get and settle for half that much, plus a few sweeteners thrown in for good measure.

It's still inflation or dollar devaluation, whichever sounds better.

He Would Add Class

By Truman Twill

The golden retriever has gone back to New Hampshire, and all is serene at the Twillery. This time there were no fights between the distinguished visitor and the resident mutts.

This is reassuring because the retriever is scheduled to take up residence at the Twillery while his master and mistress go abroad for a year. He may have sensed something like this was coming, because he made himself at home as if he never had lived anywhere else.

He hadn't been in the house five minutes until he went to the cupboard door where the dog biscuits were a year ago and looked hopeful. The biscuits had been moved to a new location, but he remembered.

He remembered the creek, the marsh and the tin-can dump on top of the hill.

He remembered the two resident dogs that are still alive, and he may have had some passing thoughts about his sworn enemy that is no longer there. Scars on his legs and head testify to the ferocity of their encounters.

But he renewed old acquaintance with the Rottenwollie and the All Breeds Champ and slipped easily into the relationship he had with them before—guarded friendliness for the Rottenwollie, frosty aloofness to the All Breeds Champ. The retriever is four times the size of the champ, but both are males and the big fellow is taking no chances.

Dogs work out their problems if let alone. The retriever and his enemy the German shepherd would have worked out their difficulties in time. One would have beaten the other into compliance with reality, and that would have been the end of it.

But humans kept pulling them apart at the moment of decision, yelling at them, scolding them for being dogs, wondering why dogs can't be more like people—sweet, reasonable, judicious—the way people are in wars of extermination, reigns of terror, battles to the death and so on ad extinctum.

We are looking forward to the long visit that will start this year. Jason of the Golden Fleece (that's the golden retriever's name) is likely to become a permanent resident, on the wishful supposition that his home away from home ultimately may mean more to him than his home, which has not stayed put longer than a year at a time anyway.

He would add class to our menage, and it could use some.

In a household that cannot claim a single member of the D.A.R., a registration certificate in the A.K.C., or even an original birth certificate, a registered golden retriever would be Numero Uno. Class would tell. Rank would have its privileges.

We refugees from the gas chamber and the salt mines would have to do our best to make him happy. It would be our muttish obligation to nobility.

Odd Facts

The average automobile travels 100 miles forward for every 100 feet that it is "backed up." Paradoxically, however, the number of accidents that occur while a car is in reverse just about equals the number going forward.

College students are making better scholastic records than their fathers did. The over-all averages of students since the end of World War II are from three to 10 points higher than the averages of students 30 years ago.

More people emigrate from the United Kingdom than from any other country in the world. In the latest year of which there is record there were 95,000 emigrants.

Orphan In The Storm

Inside Story On The Strike

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

There are various quills. One is in Mayor John Lindsay's back. Another is in his hair. Still another is in durance not so vile. In this week that was — which will be remembered onto the presidential elections of '68 and '72 — those quills have cost the city, state and nation more than half a billion dollars.

Victor Riesel

I report now, not so much on a transit strike but as a prelude to history. When the story is fully told it will be seen that paralysis came to this heartbeat city of the nation and the world quite needlessly. It would not have happened if Mike Quill, leader of the union which stretches from New York subways to the moon project and atomic tunnels of Jackass Flats, Nev., had not decided to play both the dragon and St. George at the same time — to kill off a new-Republican aspirant for the White House.

There was, for example, the moment Quill threw his body, martyr-like, to the sheriff's legions. The inside story of the moves toward the second act curtain should be told, and I will.

Justice Abraham Geller, the Supreme Court jurist who sentenced Mike Quill to jail, did not want Mike Quill to go to prison.

THE JUDGE positively delayed execution of sentence for 13 hours (overnight) to give the union leader's lawyers time to rush to the Appellate Division for a stay. Through the night the counselors worked. But Mike Quill called them off.

John Lindsay did not want Mike Quill to go to jail. His conversations were secretly made and who am I to report the details of a man wrestling with justice and his conscience and making his position clear to the judiciary as he did. Suffice it to say, he attempted to avert the jailing.

His closest labor allies, the masters of political sophistication and strategy, Dave Dubinsky, the pins and needles chap, and Alex Rose, who knows where to apply or not to apply the political hatpin when needed and not needed, did not want Mike Quill jailed.

Both talked at considerable length with the new mayor early in the week. As labor leaders, they sought to prevent the imprisonment of another labor leader. As union chiefs, they wanted to end the massive paralysis brought on by the man-made stroke inside the nerve center of the world's biggest transit system—costing working people an estimated $10 million daily in lost wages.

AS STRATEGISTS who had supported the latter-day Republican, they did not want the man whom they had helped set on a national political trajectory appear to be responsible for the first jailing of a strike leader in recent times.

Thus nobody inside the drama wanted Mike in jail — except Mike.

When it appeared that there might be a stay he put on a Sean O'Casey bit by telling the good judge who had tried to help him privately, to drop dead.

It was corn — but not alien corn. Despite the agony of the city, nightly on the verge of angry riots, the bulk of the metropolitan labor movement backed him. Not a single significant labor leader, aside from Dubinsky and Rose, attempted to end the costly strike or even spoke out against it.

Neither publicly nor privately did the bulk of the labor leaders speak. There was, for example, a private luncheon in the behind-the-screen Radio City apartment of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. This gathering was held at 1 p.m. right at the height of the subway strike on Jan. 3.

To the roast beef-laden table, in response to "Dear Harry," "Dear Louis," "Dear Ray," etc, etc, letters personally signed "Nelson," came such prestigious figures as Harry Van Arsdale, leader of one million workers in the Central Labor Committee, and Ray Corbett, head of the two million-member state AFL-CIO federation. There were about 12 such men in all, sitting with the governor and his counsel and staff.

YET THE SEETHING, transport-less city was hardly discussed. One would have thought the transit strike had hit New Laguna.

The labor leaders did not ask the governor to offer the funds needed by the city to make a fair settlement. They talked of air pollution and mental health. It was all very quiet and polite. Since they did not ask, Mr. Rockefeller did not move. Nor did the city.

Apparently upmanship was the mood of the day and week. The new Mayor Lindsay would have to have his come-uppance.

At least, the labor leaders were being honest. They are tough bargainers and they wanted the city, the state and the nation to be aware of it.

Mike Quill's passionate play made certain of that.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

Caring for others is a virtue seldom seen anymore. But during the four weeks of the Seventh - day Adventist Church's 62nd annual World Service Appeal, East Liverpool area residents have demonstrated again their concern for fellow men everywhere.

Public response to the church's appeal has been gratifying. With volunteer solicitors and the use of already existing organizational channels, the appeal is conducted with no overhead expense.

On behalf of the East Liverpool Seventh-day Adventist Church, I wish to thank area residents for their generous support of the appeal just completed.

Public Employes

By David Lawrence

Workers Need More Consideration

How could the transit strike in New York City be satisfactorily settled? Putting aside all the emotional outbursts, name-calling and irresponsible actions that have occurred, the question, after all, is whether the demands of 33,000 human beings for better working conditions are being given proper consideration.

David Lawrence

There are two sides to almost every labor dispute. Unfortunately, the workers' side is too often beclouded by the injudicious action of labor leaders either seeking to perpetuate themselves in office or to indulge in some form of exhibitionism.

The best thing that could happen to solve the problem would be for the union leaders to send the men back to work after receiving assurance from the mayor of New York City that a special tribunal would be set up to examine all the demands and to render a decision based upon equity and fair play.

Certainly transit workers who see other employes of the city government getting better wages in less strenuous jobs feel that they are the victims of discrimination. Standards could be set up for all city government employes, so that there would be a wider knowledge among the workers themselves as to the basis for compensation.

It's acknowledged, for example, that some of the transit workers are being paid less than is being received by other employes in comparable jobs. This is not the kind of thing that can be settled by a strike or by a show of economic force or other coercive tactics. When a city government is involved, it represents the people—not only those who live within the borders of the city but those who come daily from outlying areas to do their work.

BY SETTING UP a special tribunal to study the whole question of the pay of employes of the City of New York, Mayor Lindsay would be taking a constructive step. Those who work for a city government are entitled to as much consideration as employes who are outside the government, and in recent years there has been substantial progress made by the federal government itself in improving its wage scales. These long have been neglected. Government employes have not fared as well over the years as have persons in private employment.

While some differentials are inevitable, the gap has been too wide in many instances. The transit strike in New York City accentuates this defect in the compensation system for government employes.

When all is said and done, the employers in a city are the citizens of the municipality. They are the ones who must pay the taxes, and there has not been enough information given them as to the importance of setting up adequate wage scales in order to get efficient service.

WHILE PRIVATE COMPANIES must make a profit and pay a fair return on investments, federal, state and city governments have an obligation also—to see that taxes do not go too high, that budgets are balanced and that the government has every right to expect that its employes will be competent and that they will give to their jobs the continuing efficiency that is expected from them.

The entire method of fixing compensation by federal, state or city governments is far different from that which occurs in private employment. Hence, tribunals must be set up to watch the wage problem carefully as it affects the employes. The cost of living, for example, is going up, and the purchasing power of the dollar is diminishing. It has gone down 10 per cent in only a few years. So there must be some responsibility exercised by government to see that the hardships being felt by its employes are relieved by some corresponding benefits in the salary scale.

THE LESSON that the New York City strike teaches is that very little can be settled by violence or by economic coercion. The leaders in the Transit Union unwittingly have succeeded in drawing attention to the fact that unions would not be necessary if there were a responsible system for fixing the compensation of employes in many of our city governments.

Switching On The Stabilizer

A lot of breath is being wasted on speculation about the second session of the 89th Congress. Will it be as "fabulous" as President Johnson said it was at the end of its first session?

Of course it won't.

What could it do for an encore that would match medicare, voting rights, housing, the poverty program, removal of gold backing, a new farm law, tax cuts and educational aid — to mention a few high spots of its 1965 action?

Once in a great while, Congress finds itself in a situation devoid of opposition for opposition's sake. It happened early in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt when all he needed to do was have assistants draw up proposed laws and submit them to Congress for automatic passage —the "rubber stamp Congress."

It happened then because a landslide at the polls had signified to legislators there was no political future for them in resisting a popular newcomer's proposals.

IT HAPPENED in 1965 because another landslide had revealed to holdover members of Congress and all newly elected members that Lyndon B. Johnson was riding an unprecedented high tide of popularity. The resistance to John F. Kennedy that had threatened to stall his leadership and put him through another "squeaker" election in 1964 had crumbled under the skillful pressures applied to legislators and then to the electorate by his successor.

It will not happen to President Johnson again. The momentum of 1965 is gone now.

The nation is waiting to see what happens to the Johnson administration's domestic program. The poverty program is in trouble. The medicare program when it goes into operation is going to confront so many people with so many problems it will be an administrative nightmare.

The proof of the pudding is at hand for the domestic program.

THE GRITTIEST moment of truth is looming ahead for the Johnson administration in decisions on foreign affairs. The United States unexpectedly and annoyingly found itself in 1965 trying to line up allies in no mood to be lined up. They were mistrusting the United States, not trusting it.

The undeclared war in Viet Nam is the prime topic for discussion as Congress reconvenes. Senators and representatives belatedly are going to do what should have been done before — reach an agreement with the administration on what the United States wants to accomplish in Southeast Asia.

There is mistrust at home as well as abroad.

The U.S. Congress is traditionally the stabilizer of public affairs. It confirms the aims of executive leadership, questions them, or denies them outright.

The 89th Congress in its first session was in a confirming mood; that was the political climate a year ago.

The climate today is different. Congress is in a questioning mood, reflecting a change in the popular mood. It is not impossible that Congress might even be in a denying mood before the year is out.

Mr. Johnson will not have political carte blanche again. He is among a very few presidents who ever had it at all.

Only One More Garrison

Remembering that two U. S. divisions are still standing guard in Korea to maintain the truce which ended gunfire there in 1953, Americans would be foolish to expect sudden real solution to the military problem in Viet Nam.

The only settlement that can be hoped for would end the violent phase of the war by slow degrees. The war itself would continue, as it has continued in Korea, where there is no peace, only a cessation of shooting — an indefinite cold war.

As in Korea, this would strike some Americans as a shameful concession to the enemy. They would chide the truce-makers. They would suggest there was something cowardly and half-treasonable about stopping a shooting war short of unconditional surrender.

Their point of view would not prevail.

The American people as a whole would be happy to settle for anything in Viet Nam that would bar Communist aggression from shooting its way to conquest in Viet Nam. That is the only way it can get aynwhere. No country ever adopted Communism as a matter of conviction.

There is no distinct battle line to stand on for maintenance of a truce in Viet Nam, so the United States would have to settle for possession of its coastal strong points. These would enable it to maintain a powerful garrison in conjunction with strong points in Thailand.

It is being denied by government spokesmen that the United States went into Viet Nam for the purpose of establishing a military outpost. It didn't go into Korea with that in mind, either. It didn't intend to set up a powerful outpost in Britain, or Japan.

But that was the net effect of actions taken for other reasons.

It would be the net effect in Viet Nam if the shooting were brought to a halt. Americans may be sure this is not being ignored by the people on the other side.

No matter how confident they are of taking over Asia in the long run, they cannot be happy about seeing another U. S. garrison in Asia — one in Korea, one in Japan, one in Okinawa, one in the Philippines, now, perhaps another in Viet Nam. There once was still another, in Afghanistan, but that one was traded away in a deal with the Soviet Union over a garrison it was setting up at the time in Cuba only 90 miles away from the continent of North America.

Agreement By Consensus

Everybody breathed easier when word went out from the White House that the Johnson administration saw nothing wrong in the principal of U.S. Steel's proposal for a $2.75 boost in structural steel, with a small reduction in cold-rolled sheets thrown in.

It did raise the question whether if Bethlehem Steel had proposed a boost of $7.50 a ton, instead of $5, and U.S. Steel then had proposed a compromise of $3.75 there would have been the same happy ending.

What happened is another example of President Johnson's old-pro political formula of agreement by consensus.

The philosophical overtones of agreement by consensus are thought-provoking.

Agreement by consensus is another way of saying agreement by consent. That, in turn, is another way of saying that in a society of equals, in which no one has a right to dictate terms to anyone else, the most important method to master is how to bring two sides to a disagreement together — how to get them to consent.

The objective is not to settle issues on a basis of right and wrong but how to settle issues — period.

President Johnson, the old-pro politician, is noted for special talent in settling issues. Agreement by consensus is his stock in trade.

His efforts to keep dollar devaluation from accelerating cannot be completely successful; he knows that. But if he can keep price and wage boosters from getting all they ask for — if he can persuade them to settle for a fraction — he will be doing as well as any president can be expected to do. He will be carrying out his statutory duty to protect the purchasing power of the American people.

The only trouble is that everybody finally will learn what labor unions learned long ago — to ask for twice as much as they hope to get and settle for half that much, plus a few sweeteners thrown in for good measure.

It's still inflation or dollar devaluation, whichever sounds better.

He Would Add Class

By Truman Twill

The golden retriever has gone back to New Hampshire, and all is serene at the Twillery. This time there were no fights between the distinguished visitor and the resident mutts.

This is reassuring because the retriever is scheduled to take up residence at the Twillery while his master and mistress go abroad for a year. He may have sensed something like this was coming, because he made himself at home as if he never had lived anywhere else.

He hadn't been in the house five minutes until he went to the cupboard door where the dog biscuits were a year ago and looked hopeful. The biscuits had been moved to a new location, but he remembered.

He remembered the creek, the marsh and the tin-can dump on top of the hill.

He remembered the two resident dogs that are still alive, and he may have had some passing thoughts about his sworn enemy that is no longer there. Scars on his legs and head testify to the ferocity of their encounters.

But he renewed old acquaintance with the Rottenwollie and the All Breeds Champ and slipped easily into the relationship he had with them before—guarded friendliness for the Rottenwollie, frosty aloofness to the All Breeds Champ. The retriever is four times the size of the champ, but both are males and the big fellow is taking no chances.

Dogs work out their problems if let alone. The retriever and his enemy the German shepherd would have worked out their difficulties in time. One would have beaten the other into compliance with reality, and that would have been the end of it.

But humans kept pulling them apart at the moment of decision, yelling at them, scolding them for being dogs, wondering why dogs can't be more like people—sweet, reasonable, judicious—the way people are in wars of extermination, reigns of terror, battles to the death and so on ad extinctum.

We are looking forward to the long visit that will start this year. Jason of the Golden Fleece (that's the golden retriever's name) is likely to become a permanent resident, on the wishful supposition that his home away from home ultimately may mean more to him than his home, which has not stayed put longer than a year at a time anyway.

He would add class to our menage, and it could use some.

In a household that cannot claim a single member of the D.A.R., a registration certificate in the A.K.C., or even an original birth certificate, a registered golden retriever would be Numero Uno. Class would tell. Rank would have its privileges.

We refugees from the gas chamber and the salt mines would have to do our best to make him happy. It would be our muttish obligation to nobility.

Odd Facts

The average automobile travels 100 miles forward for every 100 feet that it is "backed up." Paradoxically, however, the number of accidents that occur while a car is in reverse just about equals the number going forward.

College students are making better scholastic records than their fathers did. The over-all averages of students since the end of World War II are from three to 10 points higher than the averages of students 30 years ago.

More people emigrate from the United Kingdom than from any other country in the world. In the latest year of which there is record there were 95,000 emigrants.

Orphan In The Storm

Inside Story On The Strike

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

There are various quills. One is in Mayor John Lindsay's back. Another is in his hair. Still another is in durance not so vile. In this week that was — which will be remembered onto the presidential elections of '68 and '72 — those quills have cost the city, state and nation more than half a billion dollars.

Victor Riesel

I report now, not so much on a transit strike but as a prelude to history. When the story is fully told it will be seen that paralysis came to this heartbeat city of the nation and the world quite needlessly. It would not have happened if Mike Quill, leader of the union which stretches from New York subways to the moon project and atomic tunnels of Jackass Flats, Nev., had not decided to play both the dragon and St. George at the same time — to kill off a new-Republican aspirant for the White House.

There was, for example, the moment Quill threw his body, martyr-like, to the sheriff's legions. The inside story of the moves toward the second act curtain should be told, and I will.

Justice Abraham Geller, the Supreme Court jurist who sentenced Mike Quill to jail, did not want Mike Quill to go to prison.

THE JUDGE positively delayed execution of sentence for 13 hours (overnight) to give the union leader's lawyers time to rush to the Appellate Division for a stay. Through the night the counselors worked. But Mike Quill called them off.

John Lindsay did not want Mike Quill to go to jail. His conversations were secretly made and who am I to report the details of a man wrestling with justice and his conscience and making his position clear to the judiciary as he did. Suffice it to say, he attempted to avert the jailing.

His closest labor allies, the masters of political sophistication and strategy, Dave Dubinsky, the pins and needles chap, and Alex Rose, who knows where to apply or not to apply the political hatpin when needed and not needed, did not want Mike Quill jailed.

Both talked at considerable length with the new mayor early in the week. As labor leaders, they sought to prevent the imprisonment of another labor leader. As union chiefs, they wanted to end the massive paralysis brought on by the man-made stroke inside the nerve center of the world's biggest transit system—costing working people an estimated $10 million daily in lost wages.

AS STRATEGISTS who had supported the latter-day Republican, they did not want the man whom they had helped set on a national political trajectory appear to be responsible for the first jailing of a strike leader in recent times.

Thus nobody inside the drama wanted Mike in jail — except Mike.

When it appeared that there might be a stay he put on a Sean O'Casey bit by telling the good judge who had tried to help him privately, to drop dead.

It was corn — but not alien corn. Despite the agony of the city, nightly on the verge of angry riots, the bulk of the metropolitan labor movement backed him. Not a single significant labor leader, aside from Dubinsky and Rose, attempted to end the costly strike or even spoke out against it.

Neither publicly nor privately did the bulk of the labor leaders speak. There was, for example, a private luncheon in the behind-the-screen Radio City apartment of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. This gathering was held at 1 p.m. right at the height of the subway strike on Jan. 3.

To the roast beef-laden table, in response to "Dear Harry," "Dear Louis," "Dear Ray," etc, etc, letters personally signed "Nelson," came such prestigious figures as Harry Van Arsdale, leader of one million workers in the Central Labor Committee, and Ray Corbett, head of the two million-member state AFL-CIO federation. There were about 12 such men in all, sitting with the governor and his counsel and staff.

YET THE SEETHING, transport-less city was hardly discussed. One would have thought the transit strike had hit New Laguna.

The labor leaders did not ask the governor to offer the funds needed by the city to make a fair settlement. They talked of air pollution and mental health. It was all very quiet and polite. Since they did not ask, Mr. Rockefeller did not move. Nor did the city.

Apparently upmanship was the mood of the day and week. The new Mayor Lindsay would have to have his come-uppance.

At least, the labor leaders were being honest. They are tough bargainers and they wanted the city, the state and the nation to be aware of it.

Mike Quill's passionate play made certain of that.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

Caring for others is a virtue seldom seen anymore. But during the four weeks of the Seventh - day Adventist Church's 62nd annual World Service Appeal, East Liverpool area residents have demonstrated again their concern for fellow men everywhere.

Public response to the church's appeal has been gratifying. With volunteer solicitors and the use of already existing organizational channels, the appeal is conducted with no overhead expense.

On behalf of the East Liverpool Seventh-day Adventist Church, I wish to thank area residents for their generous support of the appeal just completed.

Public Employes

By David Lawrence

Workers Need More Consideration

How could the transit strike in New York City be satisfactorily settled? Putting aside all the emotional outbursts, name-calling and irresponsible actions that have occurred, the question, after all, is whether the demands of 33,000 human beings for better working conditions are being given proper consideration.

David Lawrence

There are two sides to almost every labor dispute. Unfortunately, the workers' side is too often beclouded by the injudicious action of labor leaders either seeking to perpetuate themselves in office or to indulge in some form of exhibitionism.

The best thing that could happen to solve the problem would be for the union leaders to send the men back to work after receiving assurance from the mayor of New York City that a special tribunal would be set up to examine all the demands and to render a decision based upon equity and fair play.

Certainly transit workers who see other employes of the city government getting better wages in less strenuous jobs feel that they are the victims of discrimination. Standards could be set up for all city government employes, so that there would be a wider knowledge among the workers themselves as to the basis for compensation.

It's acknowledged, for example, that some of the transit workers are being paid less than is being received by other employes in comparable jobs. This is not the kind of thing that can be settled by a strike or by a show of economic force or other coercive tactics. When a city government is involved, it represents the people—not only those who live within the borders of the city but those who come daily from outlying areas to do their work.

BY SETTING UP a special tribunal to study the whole question of the pay of employes of the City of New York, Mayor Lindsay would be taking a constructive step. Those who work for a city government are entitled to as much consideration as employes who are outside the government, and in recent years there has been substantial progress made by the federal government itself in improving its wage scales. These long have been neglected. Government employes have not fared as well over the years as have persons in private employment.

Ohio Pastors Wait Meeting

Area churches will be represented at the 47th annual Ohio pastors' convention, largest international gathering of pastors in the nation, Jan. 24-26 at the Veterans Memorial Building in Columbus.

The theme for the three-day meeting will be "The Church and the World in Dialogue."

The convocation is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches and is expected to attract some 2,500.

For the first time, the convocation also will feature a major musical dramatic production, "Hannah."

Music for the convocation will be provided by the College of Wooster Choir and the Ohio State University Men's Glee Club.

Dr. Harold E. Meyers, pastor of the Indianola Presbyterian Church of Columbus, is chairman of the affair.

Soloists Will Appear At Wellsville Church

Soloists will feature the program during morning and evening services Sunday at the Wellsville Church of the Nazarene.

At 10:45 a.m., Miss Joyce Westlake of Wellsville will sing. She won the talent phase of the recent Columbiana County "Junior Miss" pageant.

Mrs. Rom Prescott of East Liverpool will be soloist at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Services To Resume At Church Of Christ

Services will be resumed Sunday in the First Church of Christ here, after being held at Memorial Auditorium since August because of a renovation project.

The project is expected to be completed shortly, the Rev. E. C. Traylor said.

Ike Feels Fine, On Way To West Coast Vacation

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was on his way to Palm Desert, Calif., for his annual winter vacation today looking fit for a man who had suffered a heart attack in November.

"You look wonderful," he was told as he arrived from his Gettysburg farm and prepared to board a train here Friday.

'Thank you, I feel fine," he replied with a smile.

Eisenhower was accompanied by his wife, Mamie, and her uncle, Joel Carlson of Boone, Iowa.

Eisenhower, 75, suffered his attack in Georgia and was hospitalized nearly a month. He has been recuperating at his farm and was pronounced fit to travel after a two-day physical examination at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington.

As he walked the few feet to the train platform, he flashed his "V-for-victory" sign and exchanged pleasantries with some railroad workmen.

Three Courts Report 232 Criminal Cases

LISBON — There were 232 criminal cases filed during December in the county courts at Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon, according to a monthly report submitted by Carl L. Stacey, clerk of courts.

In addition, there were 87 civil cases filed in the three courts during the month. Fifty-five per cent of patrol cases and other fines paid to the county treasurer amounted to $1,861.50, while 45 per cent was paid the state totaling $1,273.50.

Court costs for both civil and criminal cases paid to the county treasurer came to $1,537, while sheriff, constable and city police fees paid totaled $432.40.

Record License Tags Set For Distribution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A record number of 5,021,753 pairs of 1966 license plates have been completed and are ready for distribution to motorists, state officials reported Friday.

The plates are red with white numerals, or just the opposite of the current tags.

The single tag total will run to 11,635,675. This does not include an estimated 80,000 dealer plates to fill new car needs.

Mother Of 14 Given Sentence For Neglect

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Ruby Mitchell, 35, who has 14 children ranging in age from 1 to 16, has been sentenced to six months in the workhouse for child neglect.

Municipal Judge Joseph A. Luebbers fined the widow $200 Friday. Testimony indicated she was away from home on three successive night, Jan. 3-5.

'Early Village' Urged As Tourist Attraction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An "Early Ohio Village," similar to Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., and Williamsburg in Virginia, has been proposed as a major tourist attraction in the new $10 million Ohio Historical Center at the state fairgrounds.

Fred J. Milligan, appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes to expedite completion of the center, made the plan known Friday and said he expects to confer with officials of the Ohio Historical Society and Ohio Expositions Commission to hear architects' first recommendations for the center.

At first, society officials talked of building one large structure with the $10 million they will receive from a bond issue passed last year. A second plan called for a group of specialized buildings.

Milligan said the "Early Ohio Village" would be the key feature of a third plan.

Ike Feels Fine, On Way To West Coast Vacation

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was on his way to Palm Desert, Calif., for his annual winter vacation today looking fit for a man who had suffered a heart attack in November.

"You look wonderful," he was told as he arrived from his Gettysburg farm and prepared to board a train here Friday.

'Thank you, I feel fine," he replied with a smile.

Eisenhower was accompanied by his wife, Mamie, and her uncle, Joel Carlson of Boone, Iowa.

Eisenhower, 75, suffered his attack in Georgia and was hospitalized nearly a month. He has been recuperating at his farm and was pronounced fit to travel after a two-day physical examination at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington.

As he walked the few feet to the train platform, he flashed his "V-for-victory" sign and exchanged pleasantries with some railroad workmen.

Three Courts Report 232 Criminal Cases

LISBON — There were 232 criminal cases filed during December in the county courts at Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon, according to a monthly report submitted by Carl L. Stacey, clerk of courts.

'Early Village' Urged As Tourist Attraction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An "Early Ohio Village," similar to Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., and Williamsburg in Virginia, has been proposed as a major tourist attraction in the new $10 million Ohio Historical Center at the state fairgrounds.

Fred J. Milligan, appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes to expedite completion of the center, made the plan known Friday and said he expects to confer with officials of the Ohio Historical Society and Ohio Expositions Commission to hear architects' first recommendations for the center.

At first, society officials talked of building one large structure with the $10 million they will receive from a bond issue passed last year. A second plan called for a group of specialized buildings.

Milligan said the "Early Ohio Village" would be the key feature of a third plan.

Eyes Congress Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Attorney Robert L. Van Heyde, who lost to U. S. Rep. Samuel Devine in the 1964 election, has announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the new 15th District covering the western half of Franklin County. Devine has not yet announced whether he will seek re-election from the 15th or the 12th District, covering the eastern half of the county.

Group Meets At Salineville

Mrs. Nelle G. Smith of 15 Victor St., Salineville, entertained 12 members of the Women's Missionary Council of the Assembly of God Church Wednesday at an all - day session.

Dinner was served at noon, followed by a brief devotional period with Mrs. Peggy Caccucci in charge.

The afternoon was spent in making quilts, comforts and stuffing toy animals. Mrs. Joyce Leek was a guest.

A group from Salineville attended a social gathering and dinner at the home of Danny Bridge of East Liverpool Monday night. They included Mr. and Mrs. William Hill Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daley, Mrs. Nelle Dalley, Clarence Laney and Miss Joyce Martin.

The 60th wedding anniversary of Hugh and Bessie Neil Fergason of West End was observed Sunday at the Perkins Pancake House in Alliance. Their children arranged the dinner.

They were married in the Methodist parsonage at Mechanicstown.

Mr. Fergason, 82 is a retired lumber man. His wife is 76. Both are active in the Methodist Church and also in Fox Township Grange activities.

They have a son, J. B. Fergason, and a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Barcus of West End. There are three grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Mrs. Ruby Shaff of West Main St., an instructor in the local elementary school, has returned from a 10-day visit with relatives in Barbourville, Ky.

Mrs. Louis Tobin and daughters and Mrs. Mary Jane Sherwood and children of East Liverpool spent Wednesday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Strabley of W. Main St.

Ten attended a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Nina Saltsman of the New Somerset Rd.

The meeting opened with group singing, followed with devotions by Mrs. Lena Crook and a program by Mrs. Virginia Hooper.

Mrs. Roberta Frampton, president, presided.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Florence Crook.

Meredith Won't Seek Democrat Post Again

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Harry Meredith, chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee for the past 12 years, says he will not seek re-election to the post in the May primary.

Meredith, 68, a Lima attorney, said Friday he plans to "devote all my time to reorganizing the Allen County Democratic Committee." He is a former Allen County chairman.

Jobless Falls, Employment Hits Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment fell last month to 4.1 per cent, the lowest in nearly nine years, while employment hit a record December level of 72.7 million, federal officials reported. They warned of budding labor shortages in some critical areas.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the bright employment picture and tightening labor market to the nation's record economic boom, the Viet Nam war buildup and federal job training programs.

Ross, at a news conference, said labor shortages in the coming year are likely to increase and the jobless rate go down further as the armed services soak up most of the increase in the male labor force.

Compared with a year ago, total employment was up 2.4 million and the number of unemployed was down 600,000 to approximately 2.9 million last month.

Ross said the departments of labor, defense and commerce, and other federal agencies are working out plans to make better use of the nation's manpower and soon will call in industry and labor union representatives to get their ideas.

People In News

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. John H. Glenn Jr., wife of the former astronaut, is reported doing fine at Methodist Hospital, where she underwent a major operation Friday.

Glenn, who made America's first orbital space flight in 1962, said the surgery had been planned for some time, but he wouldn't say just what it was.

Glenn is now a director of a soft drink firm.

LONDON (AP) — Actor James Mason, leaving London for Los Angeles Friday, got an affectionate farewell from an attractive dark-haired girl. They walked arm-in-arm, embraced, and kissed.

She refused to tell newsmen who she was, saying, "Ask Mr. Mason."

Later the actor said she was Leonarne Young, an actress and singer.

Mason was divorced 14 months ago from Pamela Kellino, who had been his wife for 22 years.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The daughter of the late actor Dick Powell has been granted a divorce after testifying that the small inheritance she said her father left her may have contributed to the breakup of her marriage.

"My father did not leave me a substantial inheritance and that may have had something to do with it," said Mrs. Charles Hayward, 27, in her divorce case in Los Angeles Friday. Her husband, 45, is a film stuntman.

She said Hayward had become sarcastic and withdrawn after Powell's death of cancer in January 1963.

Local Private Joins In German Exercise

Army Pvt. George A. Whitney, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herron, reside at 2128 Ohio Ave., participated in Exercise Victory Express, a recent nine - day field maneuver in Germany, with other members of the 56th Medical Battalion. The exercise covered 1,600 square miles and included more than 25,000 men and 6,000 vehicles.

An ambulance orderly in the battalion's 417th Medical Co. near Heilbronn, Whitney entered the Army in May 1965 and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He was stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., before arriving overseas in November 1965.

The 21-year-old soldier is a 1963 graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Plane Of Firestone Given To University

ATHENS, Ohio — A twin-engine Beechcraft has been delivered to Ohio University, the gift of David Morgan Firestone, vice president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada, Limited.

The seven - passenger plane, valued at $115,000, was formerly the personal aircraft of Firestone.

The aircraft will be used to help meet increased transportation needs of faculty and staff and will serve particularly as an aid in the expanded involvement of the university with its branch campuses.

Firestone is the son of Mrs. John Galbreath and the late Russell A. Firestone. He is the grandson of Harvey S. Firestone, founder of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SUSAN'S mother is a wonderful cook. She'll teach her little girl all about garnishes and dumplings and conserves . . . and about dozens of other skills that will help Susan to be a talented homemaker herself, one day.

WE pass our own store of knowledge on to our children because we want to make things easier for them in the future. They will need all the preparation we can give them in order to cope with a life that grows ever more complex.

ABOVE all, we owe our children the opportunity to learn about their best Friend, God. Awareness of His loving presence will give them confidence and courage whatever they do, wherever they go. Through regular church attendance, they can absorb the inspiring principles of Christianity . . . the most valuable recipes for modern living that exist.

Meredith Won't Seek Democrat Post Again

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Harry Meredith, chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee for the past 12 years, says he will not seek re-election to the post in the May primary.

Meredith, 68, a Lima attorney, said Friday he plans to "devote all my time to reorganizing the Allen County Democratic Committee." He is a former Allen County chairman.

Jobless Falls, Employment Hits Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment fell last month to 4.1 per cent, the lowest in nearly nine years, while employment hit a record December level of 72.7 million, federal officials reported. They warned of budding labor shortages in some critical areas.

Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the bright employment picture and tightening labor market to the nation's record economic boom, the Viet Nam war buildup and federal job training programs.

Ross, at a news conference, said labor shortages in the coming year are likely to increase and the jobless rate go down further as the armed services soak up most of the increase in the male labor force.

Compared with a year ago, total employment was up 2.4 million and the number of unemployed was down 600,000 to approximately 2.9 million last month.

Ross said the departments of labor, defense and commerce, and other federal agencies are working out plans to make better use of the nation's manpower and soon will call in industry and labor union representatives to get their ideas.

People In News

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. John H. Glenn Jr., wife of the former astronaut, is reported doing fine at Methodist Hospital, where she underwent a major operation Friday.

Glenn, who made America's first orbital space flight in 1962, said the surgery had been planned for some time, but he wouldn't say just what it was.

Glenn is now a director of a soft drink firm.

LONDON (AP) — Actor James Mason, leaving London for Los Angeles Friday, got an affectionate farewell from an attractive dark-haired girl. They walked arm-in-arm, embraced, and kissed.

She refused to tell newsmen who she was, saying, "Ask Mr. Mason."

Later the actor said she was Leonarne Young, an actress and singer.

Mason was divorced 14 months ago from Pamela Kellino, who had been his wife for 22 years.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The daughter of the late actor Dick Powell has been granted a divorce after testifying that the small inheritance she said her father left her may have contributed to the breakup of her marriage.

"My father did not leave me a substantial inheritance and that may have had something to do with it," said Mrs. Charles Hayward, 27, in her divorce case in Los Angeles Friday. Her husband, 45, is a film stuntman.

She said Hayward had become sarcastic and withdrawn after Powell's death of cancer in January 1963.

Local Private Joins In German Exercise

Army Pvt. George A. Whitney, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herron, reside at 2128 Ohio Ave., participated in Exercise Victory Express, a recent nine - day field maneuver in Germany, with other members of the 56th Medical Battalion. The exercise covered 1,600 square miles and included more than 25,000 men and 6,000 vehicles.

An ambulance orderly in the battalion's 417th Medical Co. near Heilbronn, Whitney entered the Army in May 1965 and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He was stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., before arriving overseas in November 1965.

The 21-year-old soldier is a 1963 graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Plane Of Firestone Given To University

ATHENS, Ohio — A twin-engine Beachcraft has been delivered to Ohio University, the gift of David Morgan Firestone, vice president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada, Limited.

The seven - passenger plane, valued at $115,000, was formerly the personal aircraft of Firestone.

The aircraft will be used to help meet increased transportation needs of faculty and staff and will serve particularly as an aid in the expanded involvement of the university with its branch campuses.

Firestone is the son of Mrs. John Galbreath and the late Russell A. Firestone. He is the grandson of Harvey S. Firestone, founder of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SUSAN'S mother is a wonderful cook. She'll teach her little girl all about garnishes and dumplings and conserves . . . and about dozens of other skills that will help Susan to be a talented homemaker herself, one day.

WE pass our own store of knowledge on to our children because we want to make things easier for them in the future. They will need all the preparation we can give them in order to cope with a life that grows ever more complex.

ABOVE all, we owe our children the opportunity to learn about their best Friend, God. Awareness of His loving presence will give them confidence and courage whatever they do, wherever they go. Through regular church attendance, they can absorb the inspiring principles of Christianity . . . the most valuable recipes for modern living that exist.

Preparation For School Play Turns Out To Be Time Of Torture For Teachers, Parents And Little Tots Inclined To Tantrums

By HARRY STEWART

THE curtain goes up, the performance begins—and a star is born!

It happens many times every year in district school programs. And when it does, Junior, who has been a veritable devil, is transformed into an angel, while little Suzie, who ordinarily acts like an untamed wildcat, becomes a princess, radiating sweetness and beauty.

School plays seem to be a necessary evil. Some think them to be a form of torture devised by instructors to get even with those who spawned the unpredictable form of life that the teachers must contend with five days a week, nine months out of the year.

A STRUGGLE FOR SANITY begins on the day Junior and Suzie announce the date for a school program. Naturally, each has been given an "important" role.

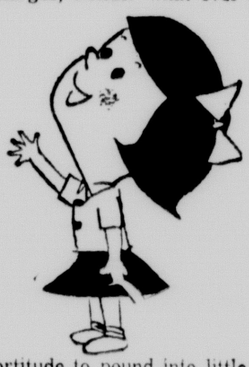

Wild enthusiasm soon turns into scathing scorn, especially when it comes to practice. Practice during the school hours is allright because it means no studying has to be done. But, practice at home, that means time away from the television or from playing outside and such a thing just isn't heard of.

With the first announcement, parents swell with pride and quickly spread the word to all friends and relatives. The "balloon" is quickly deflated, because Junior decides he is going to make an announcement. "I've decided I'm not going to be in any icky play." Suzie, in tears, also decides the same for "Janie has more to say than me, and that isn't fair."

One block away, Janie is telling her parents, "No, no, no!" Her complaint? Why should she have to memorize that long speech? Why can't she have just a few short words like Suzie? Why should the teacher pick on her? Hasn't she been good all year?

With these opening shots, the battle begins. Before it is over, mothers have devoured bottles of aspirin and fathers begin taking refuge in the basement, idly dreaming of peace and tranquility on some quiet, warm tropical island in the South Seas.

Beneath it all, the teachers normally nonplussed at the antics of their charges, wonder what ever lead them believe they have the fortitude to pound into little heads whose only thoughts are bent on destruction and torture.

WITH THE BOYS, the story is always the same. "Butch (who is the tough little leader that lives in every block) just told his mom and dad he ain't gonna do it."

Following this are the complaints of "I can't remember the words," "Me! Wear a white shirt and tie! No siree," and the old standby "I'm getting sick."

The girls always present their own special little problems. They don't mind participating, in fact they relish in it.

But, jealousy runs rampant. Close friendships come to the brink of disaster and then finally comes the war council.

All the girls in the class have a pow-wow. The type of clothing that will be worn is discussed. After many pros and cons, a united front is formed. The push is on. The end result is that the enemy—reluctant parents—gives in.

Age does have some bearing on this, but to some extent it even is found among first graders.

As the days pass, problems grow until parents believe there is no end and the time for eternal punishment has truly arrived.

The spirit begins to move the children the last few days before the "opening night." Caught up in the excitement, they relax their attack long enough to give the parents a breather before the final onslaught.

THE BIG DAY arrives. Junior realizes this it it, and becomes extremely sullen, attempting to devise a last minute plan to escape the trap.

He refuses to take a bath, and when he finally does, has to be re-washed by mother to remove stray dirt.

Suzie cries loudly she doesn't want her hair fixed in long curls, and the bow picked out by mother doesn't match her dress.

Father sits back with a fixed glaze in his eye—nothing but shellshock—listening to the faraway din of battle.

The program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Naturally, the children have to arrive at least 20 minutes early.

The room or auditorium quickly fills with parents, still in a daze. Father begins to wonder why he didn't remain single.

Then he wouldn't be seated in what seems to be an overly-warm room, wearing a stiffly starched shirt, the collar of which is beginning to chaff his neck.

Curtain time arrives, mother attempt to quiet smaller children who were brought along, and fathers have started to doze at the same time smiling as if this were the most wonderful occasion to ever happen.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

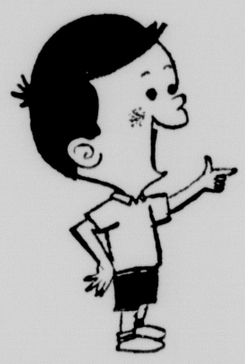

FeaturePages

East Liverpool, O., Saturday, Jan. 8 Page 8

After about a 15 minute delay—one of the children actually became ill and had to be taken to the basement—the program begins.

The time of triumph is here.

A VERY NERVOUS youngster, selected for his or her ability to speak clearly, walks on stage and in a cracked, squeaky voice, announces the play.

The procession starts. A mother and father whose child comes tromping onto the stage, beam and sit up a little straighter in their chairs.

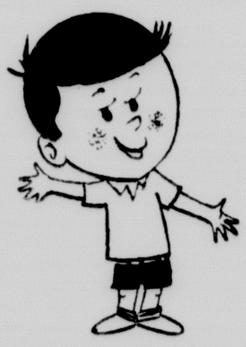

Then come the songs, poems, recitations and skits.

Children whose voices literally boomed forth during practice suddenly find they can't talk. This is a blessing that should happen in the home.

They look out into a sea of adult faces, most of whom are strangers and suddenly feel very alone.

Words fail them and they can't remember what should be said when.

Suddenly, one little girl gets the giggles. Its contagious. Soon all around her are infected. Small girls in neatly starched dresses and bows begin fluttering their fingers about their faces in a futile effort to hide themselves. Boys, sporting fresh haircuts and faces cleaner than they have been for months, start poking each other in the ribs.

SOMEHOW, THIS INFECTION seems to reach the teacher because her face becomes very red and then suddenly convulses into various expressions, most of which the children understand even though the parents don't.

The different classes troop in and out. Some boys walk so stiff, with hands down at the sides, they appear to be wooden soldiers.

They stare out into space, attempting to avoid even the slightest glance at mom and dad.

Butch, the tough kid, suddenly is the most angelic of them all. This is a surprise, but even more surprising is the fact he is even there. Most parents were convinced by their offspring that he wouldn't be.

After all, if you hear something often enough, you begin to believe it. Tiny girls prance and walk across the stage as if they had been taking lessons from their older sister.

ON THEY COME. Invariably, in the lower grades, there appears on stage a small boy who forgot he was supposed to go to the bathroom before the program.

Suddenly, out on the stage in the middle of a song, nature reminds him. He crosses his legs, bends over, goes through other contortions, all the while glancing to either side of the stage, hoping that one of the teacher recognize his plight and will signal him to leave.

They don't. He manages to endure.

Others discover they have hands. They have been there all along, but what do you do with them out in front of all those grownups?

You put them in your pockets, trying all those in the jacket or sweater along with those in your trousers, you fold them up under your arms, you hang them down at the side, put them around back or just wave them above your head.

One youngster reaches a certain place on the stage and freezes. He has gone the limit. Not one more step. All the shoving and pushing by those behind him is not going to make him budge.

Signals from teacher are ignored. Cues are useless, he can't talk.

Little Suzie saves the day by walking around him, as if it all were part of the act, and continuing with the recitation.

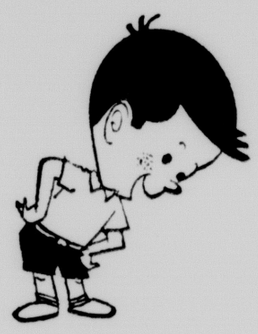

She couldn't remember her part at home, but she suddenly knows the entire program by heart.

WINGS FALL FROM angels. "Trees" lose their branches. An elf turns around in the middle of the play to wave at mother. But, the show goes on.

It's a hit. How could it miss with all the sweet, innocent expressions. There isn't a critic in the house who would pan the performance.

When the curtain rings down, there are audible sighs from parents and teachers alike. Smiles light their faces.

Church Class Extends Career

MEMORIES RECALLED. Six members of the Women's Bible Class of the Midland Methodist Church reminisce about past events of the class formed 50 years ago. Left to right are, seated, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay of Midland, Mrs. Ethel Benson of Ohio View and Mrs. Bessie Westfall and, in back, Mrs. Mary Rodfong of Midland, Mrs. Minnie Wallover of Brighton and Mrs. Glen Rowland of Ohioville.

By ROSE NUZZO

About 50 years ago a group of young women organized the Women's Bible Class of the Midland Methodist Church with the intention of meeting only for social gatherings. But as it turned out, they became known as a hard working fund raising group of the church.

Today, the class consists of 25 members, and they meet only for a social get together every second Thursday of the month in the church social rooms. During January and February the meetings are discontinued because of the weather.

Mrs. Ethel Benson of Ohio View, the only remaining charter member of the class, remarks that the fund raising projects are left for the younger women in other groups of the church — who in her opinion are doing a good job.

She mentioned five other members, all in their 80's, who could be considered charter members, because they joined the class not too long after it was organized.

They are Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay of Seventh St., Midland, Mrs. Mary Rodfong of Midland Ave., Mrs. Gean Rowland of Ohioville, Mrs. Minnie Wallover of Brighton Township, and Mrs. Bessie Westfall of Ohio View.

Mrs. Benson came to Midland in 1916, and the class was formed a year later, before the church building was erected. Sunday School, she recalls, was held in the Midland Municipal Building and also in a building on Eighth St., until the church was built sometime in 1918.

The women recall the many hours spent every year in making apple butter — as much as 150 gallons — at the various homes of the members. The project was discontinued about 20 years ago.

The class was also known for sponsoring homemade soup days at the church and also plum pudding sales.

The current president is Mrs. O. E. Edwards who has served for 12 consecutive years. Mrs. Benson has served in three capacities—president, vice president and secretary.

The first president was the late Mrs. Annie Posey of Beaver Ave.

FOOD FAVORITES

Here is a colorful and tasty salad recipe sent in by Mrs. Robert C. Hay of Bell School Rd. that can be used for a mid-day snack or to complete a regular meal.

Jello Cranberry Salad

1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup walnuts
2 packages cherry Jello
2 cup cranberries
2 cups water
2 cups sugar

Cook until cranberries crack—about 5 minutes.

Add cherry Jello, cool, and then add crushed pineapples, drained, and walnuts.

Pour into long baking dish and chill until firm. Cut into squares, place on crisp lettuce leaves, add a dab of salad dressing.

The spirit begins to move the children the last few days before the "opening night." Caught up in the excitement, they relax their attack long enough to give the parents a breather before the final onslaught.

THE BIG DAY arrives. Junior realizes this it it, and becomes extremely sullen, attempting to devise a last minute plan to escape the trap.

He refuses to take a bath, and when he finally does, has to be re-washed by mother to remove stray dirt.

Suzie cries loudly she doesn't want her hair fixed in long curls, and the bow picked out by mother doesn't match her dress.

Father sits back with a fixed glaze in his eye—nothing but shellshock—listening to the faraway din of battle.

The program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Naturally, the children have to arrive at least 20 minutes early.

The room or auditorium quickly fills with parents, still in a daze. Father begins to wonder why he didn't remain single.

Then he wouldn't be seated in what seems to be an overly-warm room, wearing a stiffly starched shirt, the collar of which is beginning to chaff his neck.

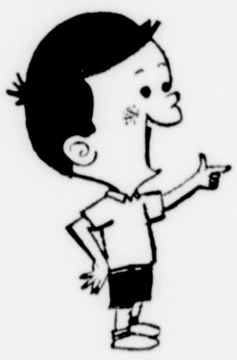

Curtain time arrives, mother attempt to quiet smaller children who were brought along, and fathers have started to doze at the same time smiling as if this were the most wonderful occasion to ever happen.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

East Liverpool, O., Saturday, Jan. 8 Page 8

After about a 15 minute delay—one of the children actually became ill and had to be taken to the basement—the program begins.

The time of triumph is here.

A VERY NERVOUS youngster, selected for his or her ability to speak clearly, walks on stage and in a cracked, squeaky voice, announces the play.

The procession starts. A mother and father whose child comes tromping onto the stage, beam and sit up a little straighter in their chairs.

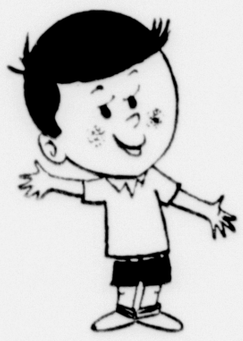

Then come the songs, poems, recitations and skits.

Children whose voices literally boomed forth during practice suddenly find they can't talk. This is a blessing that should happen in the home.

They look out into a sea of adult faces, most of whom are strangers and suddenly feel very alone.

Words fail them and they can't remember what should be said when.

Suddenly, one little girl gets the giggles. Its contagious. Soon all around her are infected. Small girls in neatly starched dresses and bows begin fluttering their fingers about their faces in a futile effort to hide themselves. Boys, sporting fresh haircuts and faces cleaner than they have been for months, start poking each other in the ribs.

SOMEHOW, THIS INFECTION seems to reach the teacher because her face becomes very red and then suddenly convulses into various expressions, most of which the children understand even though the parents don't.

The different classes troop in and out. Some boys walk so stiff, with hands down at the sides, they appear to be wooden soldiers.

They stare out into space, attempting to avoid even the slightest glance at mom and dad.

Butch, the tough kid, suddenly is the most angelic of them all. This is a surprise, but even more surprising is the fact he is even there. Most parents were convinced by their offspring that he wouldn't be.

After all, if you hear something often enough, you begin to believe it. Tiny girls prance and walk across the stage as if they had been taking lessons from their older sister.

ON THEY COME. Invariably, in the lower grades, there appears on stage a small boy who forgot he was supposed to go to the bathroom before the program.

Suddenly, out on the stage in the middle of a song, nature reminds him. He crosses his legs, bends over, goes through other contortions, all the while glancing to either side of the stage, hoping that one of the teacher recognize his plight and will signal him to leave.

They don't. He manages to endure.

Others discover they have hands. They have been there all along, but what do you do with them out in front of all those grownups?

You put them in your pockets, trying all those in the jacket or sweater along with those in your trousers, you fold them up under your arms, you hang them down at the side, put them around back or just wave them above your head.

One youngster reaches a certain place on the stage and freezes. He has gone the limit. Not one more step. All the shoving and pushing by those behind him is not going to make him budge.

Signals from teacher are ignored. Cues are useless, he can't talk.

Little Suzie saves the day by walking around him, as if it all were part of the act, and continuing with the recitation.

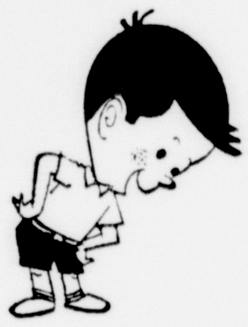

She couldn't remember her part at home, but she suddenly knows the entire program by heart.

WINGS FALL FROM angels. "Trees" lose their branches. An elf turns around in the middle of the play to wave at mother. But, the show goes on.

It's a hit. How could it miss with all the sweet, innocent expressions. There isn't a critic in the house who would pan the performance.

When the curtain rings down, there are audible sighs from parents and teachers alike. Smiles light their faces.

Church Class Extends Career

MEMORIES RECALLED. Six members of the Women's Bible Class of the Midland Methodist Church reminisce about past events of the class formed 50 years ago. Left to right are, seated, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay of Midland, Mrs. Ethel Benson of Ohio View and Mrs. Bessie Westfall and, in back, Mrs. Mary Rodfong of Midland, Mrs. Minnie Wallover of Brighton and Mrs. Glen Rowland of Ohioville.

By ROSE NUZZO

About 50 years ago a group of young women organized the Women's Bible Class of the Midland Methodist Church with the intention of meeting only for social gatherings. But as it turned out, they became known as a hard working fund raising group of the church.

Today, the class consists of 25 members, and they meet only for a social get together every second Thursday of the month in the church social rooms. During January and February the meetings are discontinued because of the weather.

Mrs. Ethel Benson of Ohio View, the only remaining charter member of the class, remarks that the fund raising projects are left for the younger women in other groups of the church — who in her opinion are doing a good job.

She mentioned five other members, all in their 80's, who could be considered charter members, because they joined the class not too long after it was organized.

They are Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay of Seventh St., Midland, Mrs. Mary Rodfong of Midland Ave., Mrs. Gean Rowland of Ohioville, Mrs. Minnie Wallover of Brighton Township, and Mrs. Bessie Westfall of Ohio View.

Mrs. Benson came to Midland in 1916, and the class was formed a year later, before the church building was erected. Sunday School, she recalls, was held in the Midland Municipal Building and also in a building on Eighth St., until the church was built sometime in 1918.

The women recall the many hours spent every year in making apple butter — as much as 150 gallons — at the various homes of the members. The project was discontinued about 20 years ago.

The class was also known for sponsoring homemade soup days at the church and also plum pudding sales.

The current president is Mrs. O. E. Edwards who has served for 12 consecutive years. Mrs. Benson has served in three capacities—president, vice president and secretary.

The first president was the late Mrs. Annie Posey of Beaver Ave.

FOOD FAVORITES

Here is a colorful and tasty salad recipe sent in by Mrs. Robert C. Hay of Bell School Rd. that can be used for a mid-day snack or to complete a regular meal.

Jello Cranberry Salad

1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup walnuts
2 packages cherry Jello
2 cup cranberries
2 cups water
2 cups sugar

Cook until cranberries crack—about 5 minutes.

Add cherry Jello, cool, and then add crushed pineapples, drained, and walnuts.

Pour into long baking dish and chill until firm. Cut into squares, place on crisp lettuce leaves, add a dab of salad dressing.

I ended the year 1965 by going fishing and I hope the results don't reflect on my success for the coming year because I didn't catch anything. However, the day was not a total loss for I witnessed a very strange sight.

The balmy day prompted a friend and me to try our luck along Beaver Creek. Although the weather was warm, the water was very cold — as I soon found out while seining for minnows in my hip boots.

We were about a mile or mile and a half above the mouth of the creek at the Ohio River.

As soon as we reached the creek, we started seining in the pockets of dead leaves that settle on the bottom near the edge of shoreline. Rotting leaves put off heat and the minnows seek refuge in them.

The water was swift and the minnows seemed very scarce, but we managed to catch a half dozen. We started fishing.

I was casting with artificial lures while my companion used live bait. Neither of us got any bites.

About an hour later, we saw a large school of shiner minnows heading upstream. In just a few minutes, there were more and within a half hour, there were literally thousands of minnows.

ALL WERE GOING upstream in a "wave" about three feet across. They were so thick the creek bottom turned gray.

The minnows seemed to have no end. We walked about a quarter of a mile downstream and checked up stream. They just kept coming.

All followed the same pattern. When they came to a rock, they would swim around one side or the other. None would break the pattern and go around the opposite side or over the top.

The minnows apparently weren't interested in feeding. Pieces of worm tossed to them were ignored. When I stepped into the water and waded towards them, they would swing slowly in a wide arc out into the deeper part of the creek. In a few minutes, after I would get out, they would be back in the original path.

We observed that none of them was attacked by larger fish.

I believe the minnows may have come from the river. Perhaps something had been accidentally spilled or dumped into the river that forced them to seek fresh water and the creek was the nearest refuge. I have no other explanation.

WHILE ALONG the creek, we picked up several worms and night crawlers by lifting rocks.

My friend also found a dandelion that must have thought spring had arrived. The yellow head had just started to open up. Nearby was a small pile of ice, left from a previous freeze.

Signs of beaver were plentiful. Almost everywhere you looked along the hillsides leading up from the water small trees had been felled. Many were dragged to the edge of the water. Some had just been freshly cut by the beavers.

Muskrats also seemed to be plentiful. Numerous holes could be seen along the banks. My oldest son was further up the creek learning to set muskrat traps from his grandfather.

A check the next day revealed two of the traps had been tripped. One contained the foot of a muskrat. It had climbed onto a rock and chewed its leg off just above the trap.

Muskrats will do this if a "drown" line is not used on the trap. This is made of wire. The wire is run through the ring attached to the end of the chain on the trap. A hook is bent in the wire so the muskrat can swim into deeper water, but cannot return to shallow water. After he tires, the weight of the trap will pull him under and drown him.

FOR YOU NATURE lovers and those who just like to take hikes, don't pass up this time of year.

There are many sights not available during the summer when the trees are in full foliage.

Interested in the old locks of the Sandy-Beaver Canal? Check them now and see how much clearer view you can get. It is easier to tell the contour of the ground and how the old waterways were dug for the locks.

If you are careful, and quiet, you can spot grouse feeding along the hillsides and in the wild grapevine tangles. Squirrels are active and this is a good season for jumping rabbits.

Wild birds can be seen quite a distance. Although the woods have a grey appearance when viewed from afar, the beauty still is there if you look for it. My only wish is that I could get out oftener.

WILLARD FURBEE of 925 Kent St. called me the other day to tell me he had the head of a big buck mounted.

He shot the buck the first day of Ohio's deer season on the Cronin Farm on Pine Ridge near Hammondsville, in Jefferson County. It weighed 194 pounds, field dressed. The rack had nine points. One was broken off. It was one of the nicer deer taken in the general area.

Several other hunters also informed me they had their deer mounted for display. After two or three years hanging in your den or some other room of the house, the trophies start looking a little drab and dusty.

About this time, the little woman suggests it be tossed out. You can give that old head—not your wife's—a new lease on life by a little cleaning.

First, go over the entire head with a vacuum cleaner. Next, remove the head from the wood panel and wash it from nose to the base of the neck, in the direction the hair, using a powder cleaner in a gallon or so of luke warm water. One or two handfuls of cleaner is sufficient.

Sponge it down until all the dirt and grime has been removed. Now go over the head again with plain water. Let it dry thoroughly and comb and brush to bring out the luster.

Replace the head on the panel, after waxing the wood, and hang back on the wall. Some even touch up around the nose and eyes with oil colors.

Be careful as not to soak the head with too much water for this can soften the skin.

You And The Law

Harry long had aspired to hold public office. When a local political office became vacant, he began circulating petitions to qualify him in the upcoming election.

Obtaining the required number of signatures, Harry took the petitions to the local Board of Elections office. There he submitted them to a clerk for proper filing.

"HOW DO they look?" Harry asked. "I'm sure I have the required number of signatures and have followed the law to the letter."

The clerk glanced at the petitions and commented, "They look all right to me. I'll file them for the board's action."

Harry left, planning his campaign for office. Disappointment was soon to set in, however.

When the board checked the petitions, it found that the instruments lacked proper notarization and, therefore, were not valid under the law. Harry could not be a candidate for the office, the board ruled.

Harry was furious. He had worked hard to qualify himself and wasn't about to be eliminated from the race.

"When I filed those petitions the clerk said they were in the proper form. I relied on his word that there was nothing wrong. Since the clerk is a spokesman for your office," Harry told the board, "those petitions should be declared valid because of his comments to that effect."

THE BOARD still refused to qualify him, so Harry filed suit.

The court ruled against Harry. It said that mistaken advice or opinions of an agent of a governmental body as to the validity of an instrument —the petitions in Harry's case —does not prohibit a public official from declaring the instrument invalid.

If the clerk's comments were to legally bind the board in its actions, the clerk would then, in effect, be changing the law.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I clean black lace?

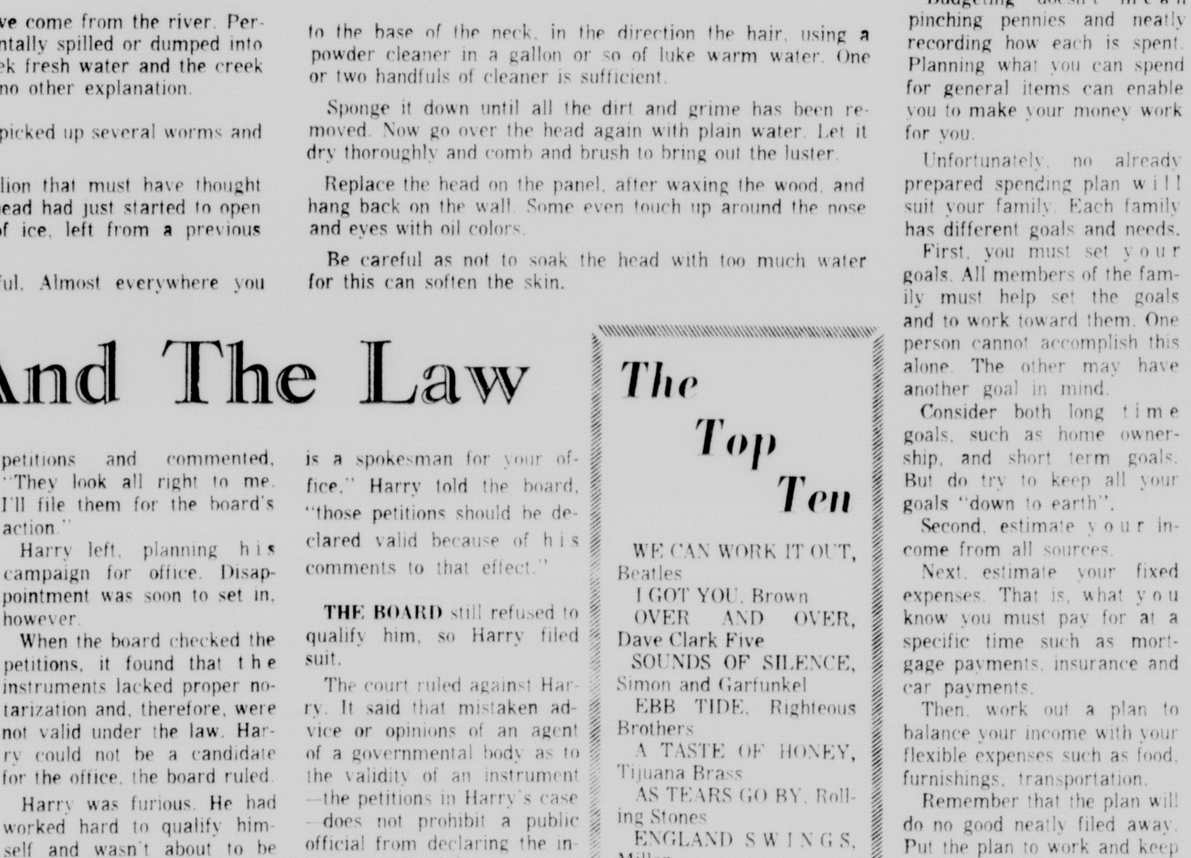

A.—Put into alcohol, and churn up and down until the liquid foams. If the lace is very dusty, repeat this operation, squeezing the lace out, slapping between the hands, pulling out the edges, and then laying between brown paper smooth and straight. Leave under a weight until dry.

Q.—How can I remove water stains from glasses or vases?

A.—By rubbing with vinegar, applied with a cloth, then washing well in hot water and soapsuds, rinsing with clear hot water afterwards. Dry on a clean towel, and your glassware will sparkle.

Q.—How can I remove ink spots from wallpaper?

A.—Most ink spots can be removed by applying a weak solution of water and oxalic acid. Apply with a paint brush, and press with blotting paper immediately, as the acid might affect the color of the paper. This routine may need repeating a second or third time for good results.

The New Year is a good time to work out a spending plan for your family.

Budgeting doesn't mean pinching pennies and neatly recording how each is spent. Planning what you can spend for general items can enable you to make your money work for you.

Unfortunately, no already prepared spending plan will suit your family. Each family has different goals and needs.

First, you must set your goals. All members of the family must help set the goals and to work toward them. One person cannot accomplish this alone. The other may have another goal in mind.

Consider both long time goals, such as home ownership, and short term goals. But do try to keep all your goals "down to earth".

Second, estimate your income from all sources.

Next, estimate your fixed expenses. That is, what you know you must pay for at a specific time such as mortgage payments, insurance and car payments.

Then, work out a plan to balance your income with your flexible expenses such as food, furnishings, transportation.

Remember that the plan will do no good neatly filed away. Put the plan to work and keep records of the amount you spend for general areas. Then compare these with your plan, to see what changes should be in your next plan.

To make any progress toward goals and needs, money matters must be faced frankly considering wishes of individuals and what resources are available.

Thinking about buying new carpeting? Even though we see a lot of promotion of specific trade names of fibers, there are really only three main fiber types used in carpeting or rugs. These fibers are wool, acrylic, and nylon.

Each manufacturer gives their particular brand name to their nylon, for instance. However, they must state which generic fiber, nylon, acrylic, or wool, is used along with their trade name. The trade names are usually in capital letters. Understanding this system of brand names can help to eliminate some confusion to the consumer.

Each fiber has its particular characteristics — some are advantages, some are not.

WOOL GIVES a feeling of luxury and warmth. It is resiliant to crushing and soiling. It does not wear as well as synthetics of the same quality. Wool is more difficult to clean than some synthetic fibers and it is more expensive. Also, very bright, clear colors can not be obtained because the wool starts as an off-white color.

Nylon lacks the feeling of warmth and luxury of wool. Some nylons have a sheen which may be objectionable to some persons. Nylon pile has a tendency to pack down in traffic lanes. Because the static electricity builds up in nylon, dust clings to its surface sometimes making it appear dirty.

Nylon also attracts greasy stains making them difficult to remove, but simple washing off of non - greasy stains is easier on nylon than wool. The long - wearing qualities of nylon are a major advantage. Also, it is less expensive. Clear, bright colors can be achieved with nylon.

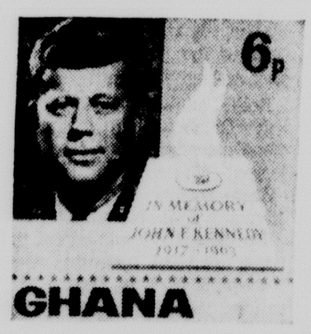

The acrylics are another generic group of synthetics but combine some of the qualities of both wool and nylon. In warmth and luxury acrylics are more nearly like wool. They are more resiliant to packing than nylon and resists staining better.

Acrylic wears better than wool. The cost of acrylics is between that of wool and nylon. Again bright, clear colors are available.

Although other fibers such as olefins, cottons are used in carpeting today, nylon, wool, and acrylics are currently used more extensively.

Stamps In The News

The deep affection which many nations throughout the world had for the late President John F. Kennedy was evidenced in the outpouring of stamp issues not only as a tribute immediately after his assasination but also on the first anniversary of his death. Some nations have even issued stamps commemorating the second anniversary of his passing.

Ghana has issued a special set of stamps honoring the second Kennedy anniversary which were placed on sale Dec. 15. There are four stamps in this set. The 6 p green, light yellow and black shows a portrait of President Kennedy and the eternal flame on his grave at Arlington, Va.

The 5 p magenta, red and green depicts a Kennedy photo and the flame in the lower left corner. The 24 p purple and black features a full-view portrait and the 30 p brown and black has a profile stylized sketch of his head. All the stamps bear the inscription "In Memory of John F. Kennedy 1917-1963."

THE REPUBLIC of Korea has issued three new stamps, one a semipostal and two commemoratives. The semipostal, 4 won plus 2, is for flood relief in that country. It depicts a man working on a flooded farm. A two-stamp set commemorates the 80th anniversary of telecommunications service in Korea.

Another commemorative hails the 15th anniversary of the recapture of Seoul, capital of the Republic. It shows the capital building and a marine hoisting the national flag.

THE POSTAL Administration of Denmark has announced the issuance of a 40 ore brown stamp to honor Dansk Fredning (Danish Preservation of Natural Amenities and Ancient Monuments). The design of the new stamp features a windmill and various symbols of Dansk Fredning.

GREECE HAS issued a new stamp to commemorate its planetarium, reports the Greek Post Office in Athens. The design shows an oval portrait of Ipparchus (190-120 B.C.), considered the greatest of Greek astronomers. He is called the "father of astronomy." At the right of his portrait is his astrolabe, an instrument used for measuring altitudes which Ipparchus invented. The value of the new stamp is 2.50 drachmas.

THE SYRIAN Arab Republic has issued a set of three new stamps honoring the 12th International Damascus Fair. The 12½ P shows a view of Damascus. The 60 P depicts items of craft ware seen at the fair. The 27½ P features a globe with two arrows pointing at each other indicating the meeting of various countries at the Damascus Fair.

You And The Law

Harry long had aspired to hold public office. When a local political office became vacant, he began circulating petitions to qualify him in the upcoming election.

Obtaining the required number of signatures, Harry took the petitions to the local Board of Elections office. There he submitted them to a clerk for proper filing.

"HOW DO they look?" Harry asked. "I'm sure I have the required number of signatures and have followed the law to the letter."

The clerk glanced at the petitions and commented, "They look all right to me. I'll file them for the board's action."

Harry left, planning his campaign for office. Disappointment was soon to set in, however.

When the board checked the petitions, it found that the instruments lacked proper notarization and, therefore, were not valid under the law. Harry could not be a candidate for the office, the board ruled.

Harry was furious. He had worked hard to quality himself and wasn't about to be eliminated from the race.

"When I filed those petitions the clerk said they were in the proper form. I relied on his word that there was nothing wrong. Since the clerk is a spokesman for your office," Harry told the board, "those petitions should be declared valid because of his comments to that effect."

THE BOARD still refused to qualify him, so Harry filed suit.

The court ruled against Harry. It said that mistaken advice or opinions of an agent of a governmental body as to the validity of an instrument —the petitions in Harry's case —does not prohibit a public official from declaring the instrument invalid.

If the clerk's comments were to legally bind the board in its actions, the clerk would then, in effect, be changing the law.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I clean black lace?

A.—Put into alcohol, and churn up and down until the liquid foams. If the lace is very dusty, repeat this operation, squeezing the lace out, slapping between the hands, pulling out the edges, and then laying between brown paper smooth and straight. Leave under a weight until dry.

Q.—How can I remove water stains from glasses or vases?

A.—By rubbing with vinegar, applied with a cloth, then washing well in hot water and soapsuds, rinsing with clear hot water afterwards. Dry on a clean towel, and your glassware will sparkle.

Q.—How can I remove ink spots from wallpaper?

A.—Most ink spots can be removed by applying a weak solution of water and oxalic acid. Apply with a paint brush, and press with blotting paper immediately, as the acid might affect the color of the paper. This routine may need repeating a second or third time for good results.

Lions Shown Film On Steel

"Steel and America," a color film tracing the history of iron, the development of steel and experiments being conducted to develop even better processes and stronger steel, was screened for the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

The film was produced by Walt Disney for the American Iron and Steel Institute of which Crucible Crucible Steel Co. is a member.

A. L. Breakiron, superintendent of community relations at the Midland Works, introduced the 28-minute film, which was screened by Earl Rankin, his assistant. Fred Kane was program chairman.

Ed Custer, president, announced that Ralph Compa has been appointed co-chairman of the sight - saving committee along with C. Frank Dales. He also announced the appointment of James Sigler as co - chairman with Dr. Myer Alpern for the annual Charter Night dinner next month. The date and place have not been set.

Austen B. Moore, a high school teacher, was introduced as a new member by Richard Walker, zone chairman.

Edgar Shingler, second vice president, reported on the possibility of chartering a bus to attend the Lions International convention July 6-10 in New York City.

Salineville Group Endorses Movie

The Salineville Ministerial Association has endorsed the showing of the film "The Restless Ones" which will be screened Jan. 17-22 at 7:30 at Westgate Auditorium.

A pre - Easter community-wide evangelistic service and an exchange of pulpits are being planned by the association.

The next meeting will be Feb. 11 at 9 a. m. at the Salineville Church of Christ. The Rev. Monte May is chairman of the group.

High School Student And Teacher To Be Guests Of Bell Laboratories

STEPHEN H. EIBLING, Ohio Bell commercial manager here, presents airline tickets to David Hargraves while his teacher, Wilbert S. Moore, looks on. Both will be guests of the Bell Laboratories in Morristown, N. J.

Dave Hargraves, a 17-year-old senior at East Liverpool High School, and Wilbert S. Moore, his science teacher, will be guests of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey Monday and Tuesday.

Sponsored by Ohio Bell, the trip is part of a 4-year-old program to foster more interest and careers in scientific fields among high school students. The New Jersey center, which now has more than 14,000 employes in some 12 locations throughout the world, is the research and development arm of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

HARGRAVES was selected for the trip because of his high academic average and acute interest in the sciences. During his three years of high school he has maintained a straight "A" average.

He is an eagle Scout, a senior patrol leader, a member of the Thespian Society, Latin Club and Key Club. He is also on the school's newspaper staff and is president of the Creative Writers Club.

Hargraves resides at 1023 Pennsylvania Ave. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hargraves.

On Monday, the young scientists and their teachers will journey by bus to the Bell Labs at Murray Hill, N. J., and tour the facilities. They will return to the labs on Tuesday and separate into smaller groups according to the student's preference for chemistry, electronics, mathematics or physics.

—:—

ADDITIONAL lectures, on-the-job demonstrations and answer sessions on the respective subjects will follow. The groups will reconvene for lunch in the executive dining room and will return home Tuesday evening.

Arrangements for the trip were handled locally by Stephen H. Eibling, Ohio Bell Commercial manager here.

Discussing the seminars, Eibling said, "We hope the visits will continue to stimulate the student's desire to learn as much as he can about his field of science."

Young Driver Cited In Case

A 17-year-old Calcutta area youth was cited by police on a drunk driving charge as the aftermath of an East End crash Friday night.

A 94-year-old motorist was involved in another minor collision and a Glenmoor teen-ager was charged in a third mishap, police said.

Robert K. Shroades of Crawford Trailer Court was cited by Patrolman S. E. Hayes on the charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor after the mishap at 9:16 p. m. on 1st Ave. near Pennsylvania Ave.

Shroades was turning off Pennsylvania Ave. onto 1st Ave. and hit the parked auto of Paul E. Smith, 536 1st Ave. The left front ends of both autos were damaged, the officer reported.

A collision at 3:41 p. m. at W. 5th and Monroe Sts. involved 94-year-old George Kilmer of 317 Market St. and Arnott Buzzard, 21, of 201 Baum St.

Buzzard told police he was turning off W. 5th onto Monroe St. when Kilmer backed into him. The elderly motorist said he didn't see the other car as he backed up on W. 5th St.

Edward Lee Taylor, 18, of Glenmoor was cited for improper backing after a mishap with a car operated by Dorothea G. Winans, 56, of 1030 Phoenix Ave., Chester, at 3:26 p. m. on Broadway at Slygo Alley.

Taylor was backing from the alley and the Chester woman was proceeding south at a slow speed, police said.

The Glenmoor youth, driving a pickup truck owned by Dave Southall of Glenmoor, told police he asked a helper, Everett Lovejoy, if it was clear. Receiving an affirmative answer, Taylor said he backed into the woman's auto. The woman said she saw the backing truck and tried to avoid it "but he kept coming."

A collision at 11:57 a. m. at Walnut and E. 5th Sts. involved card operated by Russell Lynn Poling, 17, of 2208 Ohio Ave., who was turning east onto E. 5th St., and a northbound car of Donald E. Pickering, 30, of 594 Fisher Ave.

Poling told police he was turning east and slowed to stop but drifted into Pickering's auto.

B. J. Berholter of 228 W. 4th St. reported to police yesterday afternoon a hit-skip motorist hit the left side of his car parked on W. 4th St. between 6 p. m. Thursday and 8 a. m. yesterday, tearing off the chrome strip.

3 Gas Firms Rejected On Merger Bid

CHARLESTON (AP) — A bid by three natural gas companies to combine their West Virginia retail business under one corporate structure was turned down Friday by the Public Service Commission.

The PSC said, among other things, the merger would mean higher gas bills for the 206,000 customers of the three companies in 29 counties.

Specifically, the commission refused to approve the merging of retail business of United Fuel Gas Co., Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., and Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co.

The companies maintained that the consolidation would produce more efficient operation, and result in savings to retail customers.

However, the PSC said merger of the companies' retail business into an already-incorporated new firm, Columbia Gas Co. of West Virginia would:

—Increase the bills of the firms' customers by more than $1 million a year.

—Adversely affect the public and infringe on the commission's jurisdiction over the production, transmission and storage facilities of the gas companies.

United Fuel maintains its headquarters in Charleston and serves the southern part of West Virginia. Cumberland and Allegheny operates in the eastern part of the state. Manufacturers Light and Heat serves northern and central West Virginia.

All three utilities are part of the Columbia Gas System, which has been combining its production and transmission facilities under one corporate roof and setting up separate retail companies for intrastate service.

Installation Planned By Chester Kiwanis

Installation of officers and "Ladies' Night" will be held by the Chester Kiwanis Club Tuesday at 6:10 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

Dr. B. R. Weimer of Bethany, W. Va., first lieutenant governor of Division I of Kiwanis, will be guest speaker.

Albert Kell is president.

Gambling Equipment Worth $25,000 Goes Up In Smoke

WEIRTON — Law enforcement officials destroyed more than $25,000 worth of gambling equipment at the Starvaggi dump Friday by battering it with axes, dousing it with gasoline and then setting fire to it.

The gambling devices and more than 100 bottles of liquor had been gathered from eight different establishments in Hancock County in raids conducted by West Virginia state troopers and the Hancock County sheriff's department in September and December.

Although no exact estimates of the net worth of the equipment were available, Sgt. C. W. Tighe of Paden City, formerly stationed at the Weirton barracks, noted at one time that the equipment seized at the Club Paddock alone was worth $15,000.

A contingent of five troopers, headed by Sgt. C. G. Hamrick of Moundsville and accompanied by Joe Rodak, Hancock County sheriff, and Floyd Tarr, Hancock prosecuting attorney, destroyed the equipment Friday afternoon.

It has been stored at the state police barracks and at the warehouse of Walter Nogay & Sons. Owners of the following places of business had signed waivers for destruction:

Club Paddock, Club Daily Double, Win Place & Show Bar, Jade Lounge, Latern Inn, Hilltop Inn, Cactus Bar and Club Sands.

Sen. Mansfield Lines Up Business For Colleagues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said today he will have some floor business ready for his colleagues to transact as soon as the 89th Congress reconvenes Monday.

President Johnson plans to present his 1966 program in his State of the Union speech to a joint session Wednesday night.

Both Senate and House quit last October with relatively clean calendars after cleraing a torrent of President Johnson's "Great Society" legislation in a 10-month first session.

But Mansfield pointed out that there are some measures which were approved by Senate committees last year but not passed by the full body.

He said he expected only limited new requests from the President this year.

The Democratic leader said his present intention is to call up first a bill asked by President Johnson in last year's State of the Union message which would establish a national wild rivers system to preserve beauty spots in a number of states.

This might be followed, Mansfield said, by a bill to authorize a $9.5-million U.S. contribution to the Inter-American Cultural and Trade Center in Dade County, Fla.

Top priority will be given to the expected early request from Johnson for additional billions to fight the war in Viet Nam, Mansfield added. It is understood this appropriation may run more than $12 billion.

Another measure scheduled for early consideration is the controversial House-passed measure to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Labor relations law. This bill, strongly supported by the Johnson administration, would deny states the right to ban the union shop under which a worker can be required to join a union to keep his job.

A filibuster led by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois prevented the Senate from even formally considering the bill last October. A new effort to bring it up could tie up the Senate for weeks.

Mansfield said he would discuss this ticklish issue with the Democratic Policy Committee before scheduling it definitely, but he predicted it would be before the Senate soon.

The Democratic leader said he was confident the bill would pass the Senate "if we can bring it to a vote."

Dirksen said he was ready to renew the battle.

There have been reports Dirksen might try to bring up first his equally controversial proposal — a constitutional amendment aimed at the Supreme Court's one man—one vote decision on state legislative reapportionment.

The amendment would permit one branch of a legislature to be apportioned on factors other than population.

Motorists Light Up Airport To Help Pilot Land

PARSONS, W. Va. (AP) — A Morgantown pilot was in trouble Friday night until Tucker County Sheriff Carl Hedrick recruited a group of motorists to light a makeshift airstrip.

George Fallon, the pilot, was en route from Morgantown to Elkins when ice began forming on the wings of his single-engine Cessa 175, hampering navigation. He got off course and began circling this Tucker County community at 1,000 feet.

Sheriff Hedrick was notified of Fallon's plight and took a group of motorists to the airstrip where they used their automobile headlights to illuminate the strip. After about an hour of circling, Fallon spotted the lights and landed safely.

He spent the night here and was expected to resume his trip today.

Sales Tax Revenues Show Jump In County

Columbiana County paid $725,081.62 in sales taxes, an increase of 13.1 per cent, during the first half of the current fiscal year which ended Dec. 31, 1965, according to State Treasurer John D. Herbert at Columbus.

This is $83,757.05 more than the $641,324.57 collected for the same period a year ago.

The county's motor vehicle and house trailer sales and use tax collected for the first half of the fiscal year totaled $415,274.76, an increase of $42,850.60 over the $372,424.16 collected for the same period of 1964.

Dividends Declared

PITTSBURGH — The Board of Directors of H. K. Porter Co., Inc., has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.375 per share on the 5½ per cent cumulative preference stock and a dividend of $1.0625 per share on the 4¼ per cent cumulative preferred stock. Both dividends are payable Jan. 31 to stockholders of record Jan. 18.

Motorists Light Up Airport To Help Pilot Land

PARSONS, W. Va. (AP) — A Morgantown pilot was in trouble Friday night until Tucker County Sheriff Carl Hedrick recruited a group of motorists to light a makeshift airstrip.

George Fallon, the pilot, was en route from Morgantown to Elkins when ice began forming on the wings of his single-engine Cessa 175, hampering navigation. He got off course and began circling this Tucker County community at 1,000 feet.

Sheriff Hedrick was notified of Fallon's plight and took a group of motorists to the airstrip where they used their automobile headlights to illuminate the strip. After about an hour of circling, Fallon spotted the lights and landed safely.

He spent the night here and was expected to resume his trip today.

Sales Tax Revenues Show Jump In County

Columbiana County paid $725,081.62 in sales taxes, an increase of 13.1 per cent, during the first half of the current fiscal year which ended Dec. 31, 1965, according to State Treasurer John D. Herbert at Columbus.

This is $83,757.05 more than the $641,324.57 collected for the same period a year ago.

The county's motor vehicle and house trailer sales and use tax collected for the first half of the fiscal year totaled $415,274.76, an increase of $42,850.60 over the $372,424.16 collected for the same period of 1964.

Thayer, Clark Pace 72-69 Win

Oak Glen Ends Beaver Local's Streak At Seven Games

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

An undefeated team makes a good target and Oak Glen took dead aim and scored a bull's-eye to end Beaver Local's seven-game victory streak with a thrilling 72-69 upset Friday night at Oak Glen.

An excited crowd of some 1,400 witnessed the battle, which went down to the final seconds before victory could be declared either way.

The final result shattered Beaver Local's dream of an undefeated season and the victory couldn't have come at a better time for Coach Bob Starkey's fired-up Oak Glen club.

OAK GLEN, which opened the season with two victories, found itself in a rut lately, losing its last four games, and the rousing decision last night may be just what the doctor ordered for the Golden Bears.

A fast start by Oak Glen went a long way in deciding the contest. The Golden Bears led most of the way, with Beaver Local grabbing a slim lead on three occasions, but not being able to stay in front.

Both teams used a running game and Oak Glen used a fast break effectively in the first half and shot a rousing 53 per cent for the first and second quarters.

COACH Lloyd Stockdale, rookie varsity coach at Beaver Local, was involved in his first defeat, but saw his team fight back gamely after falling behind by as much as 14-3 in the first quarter when Oak Glen made seven of its first eight shots.

Oak Glen, after holding a big edge in the opening minutes, was behind 24-22 at the end of the period, but moved on top, 42-39, at halftime.

The Golden Bears continued to hold a slight edge throughout most of the third period and took a 57-53 lead into the final period.

THE SCORE became tied at 51-51 in the third quarter and a two-pointer by Bill Barnhart put Beaver Local in front for the last time 53-51.

Tom Thayer, Oak Glen's leading scorer, tied the count at 53-53 with 1:47 remaining in the period, then Gary Ring, drawing his first starting assignment, hit two quick goals to give Oak Glen its four point lead to carry into the fourth quarter.

The hectic fourth period saw Beaver Local whittle the margin to 68-67 on a bucket by sophomore Dave Horger with 1:19 remaining in the contest.

THAYER pocketed a clutch field goal for a 70-67 edge with 1:04 showing, but Barnhart dropped in another goal to bring the count back to one with only 47 seconds left.

Beaver Local finally fouled Dan Forsythe, who took a couple of deep breaths and made both ends of a one-and-one situation to put the game on ice 72-69 with 21 seconds to go.

Both clubs came into the game equipped with solid scoring and Oak Glen's one - two combination of Thayer and Dan Clark accounted for 45 points.

THAYER was good for 24, including seven in the pressure-packed fourth period, while Clark led Oak Glen in its torrid first half, scoring 14 of his 21 points.

Larry Roberts was the ringleader of the Beaver five with 22 points on eight field goals and six of 11 fouls.

Three other Beaver starters gained the double figures, with Don Lyle hitting 15 timely points, Bill Barnhart 13 and Jeff Hall 11.

The rebounding was fairly even, with Beaver Local showing a slight 41-39 edge. Thayer grabbed 14 for Oak Glen.

THE BEARS wound up with a 4 per cent shooting mark on 31 of 70, while Beaver Local showed 37 per cent on 26 of 71.

Fans who arrived early enough also were treated to a thriller in the preliminary, which went to Oak Glen, 50-48. A tipin by Jim Gadd with only two seconds remaining was the winning bucket.

Mark Miller led the Oak Glen reserves with 17 points, while Gadd added 11. Dennis Klembara dropped in 18 and Mike Piatt 16 for the young Beavers.

Thornton Bags 34 But Tigers Lose At Toronto, 79-61

Symons Paces Red Knights By Scoring 29

Harry Thornton enjoyed the best night of his high school career with a brilliant 34-point performance but it wasn't enough to overcome a strong Toronto quintet which posted a 79-61 victory Friday night on the Red Knight court.

Coach John Pape's Knights recorded their fifth victory against a lone defeat at the hands of Steubenville Big Red. Wellsville is now 2-4.

WHILE Thornton hit the hoop for 15 field goals and four fouls, the Tigers could not stop Dick Symons and Co. Symons, a 6-3 junior and regarded as one of the top pivot men in the valley, poured in 29 points and received a helping hand from teammate Dan Allen who accounted for 23.

Wellsville stayed in the thick of the contest for almost three periods but personal fouls finally took their toll.

TORONTO led 16-15 at the first quarter and 36-33 at halftime. The Red Knights moved in front 53-46 at the end of three stanzas and breathed easy in the final eight minutes. The score was tied 38-38 with 6:30 left in the third period.

The Tigers lost Mac Comparetta on fouls in the fourth period.

Symons with 10 field goals, made nine of 11 fouls and scored 17 of his total in the second half. Allen kept Toronto alive in the first half with 14 points.

THORNTON, after scoring 22 points in the first half, added 12 in the second half.

Comparetta finished in the double figures with 12.

The Toronto reserves won 49-37.

Wellsville returns to action tonight in another Buckeye Border Conference game entertaining Springfield Local at Beacom Memorial Gym.

Western Beaver Is Victim

Midland opened defense of its Section 8 basketball title Friday night by storming past visiting Western Beaver, 84-22.

Eleven players marked in the scoring column for the Leopards as they raced to their 30th straight section win.

MIDLAND also kept in tact a home court winning streak in section play that dates back to 1957.

Employing a pressing defense at half court, the Leopards stopped the Golden Beavers cold in every quarter but the third, when the visitors tallied five goals.

MIDLAND held a 39-4 lead at the half as the Beavers tallied just two free throws in each of the first two periods.

Brent Lake paced the Leopards with 13 points as Glenn Humbert and Steve Alston followed with 12 each.

Clarence Andrews led Western Beaver with 10 markers as it dropped to a 3-6 mark.

MIDLAND raised its record to 9-3 overall as it prepares to meet one of its top challengers in section play Tuesday when the Leopards venture to Hopewell. Hopewell downed New Brighton, 62-55, Friday in winning its opener in the section and raising its overall mark to 9-2.

The Leopard reserves dumped the Golden Beaver subs, 43-21, in the preliminary. John Tillman and Jim Smith tallied 10 each to lead the win.

Mike Lacey scored eight points in the losing effort.

Visitors Gain 78-48 Verdict At Crestview

Crestview went down to its fifth defeat in six games, 78-48, at the hands of a visiting McDonald team Friday night.

Coach Bruce Webber's Rebels were in the thick of the battle at halftime trailing 35-32 but the loss of their leading scorer, Bill Kress, midway through the third period put an end to Crestview's bid for its second victory.

At the end of the third period, McDonald had moved into command 54-40.

When Kress left the game he had scored 16 points and was the key to Crestview's board game. Randy McBride also added 16 points for the Rebels.

Three McDonald cagers tied for scoring honors as Wellington, Dolsak and Wes Martin scored 16 each.

The victory was the fourth in six games for McDonald.

The McDonald reserves won, 41-30.

Dawson Five Stays On Top

Dawson's protected its lead in the Little Potters Eighth Grade League but received a scare from Eason's before gaining a 30-25 win Thursday night.

Parsons finished with 16 points to lead all scorers while Walker tallied 13 and Skidmore 11 for the losers.

Potters Bank edged Curran's 20-16 with Shaffer's 10 points leading the way. Tarver scored six points for Curran's.

In the closest game of the evening, McNutt's nipped First National, 23-22 as Kinsey paced the narrow victory with nine points. Pierson's 10 points led First National.

Ogilvie's Win To Take Over First Place

Ogilvie's took over the lead in the Little Potters Sixth and Seventh Grade League with a 26-11 win over Coca-Cola Friday night.

The two teams entered last night's game undefeated as Ogilvie's chalked up its fourth straight win while Coca-Cola stands at 3-1.

Cunningham and McVay paced the Ogilvie five with eight points each while Watson added six. Connell's five points led Coca-Cola.

Bright's raced to a 27-11 win over Hune Co. as Moore connected for 10 points. Standley's six markers paced Hune Co.

In one other contest, the Police Dept. defeated American Vit., 17-5 as Douglas scored five points and LeMasters four.

Lady Golfer Scores Ace In January

Golfing in January in this area is quite unique but shooting a hole-in-one, well that's something else.

You might think that men would be out on the course this time of year but the hole-in-one was recorded by a member of the so-called weaker sex.

Mrs. Robert Burns of East Palestine, believed to be the first woman to shoot a hole-in-one in Columbiana County in over 20 years, turned in the feat Thursday afternoon at the East Palestine Country Club.

She fired the ace on the No. 2 hole which is par 3 and measures 165 yards.

In her group to witness the golf prize were Mrs. Ethel Meek, Mrs. Anna Bell Guy and Mrs. Zelda Hulton all of East Palestine.

Thayer, Clark Pace 72-69 Win

Oak Glen Ends Beaver Local's Streak At Seven Games

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

An undefeated team makes a good target and Oak Glen took dead aim and scored a bull's-eye to end Beaver Local's seven-game victory streak with a thrilling 72-69 upset Friday night at Oak Glen.

An excited crowd of some 1,400 witnessed the battle, which went down to the final seconds before victory could be declared either way.

The final result shattered Beaver Local's dream of an undefeated season and the victory couldn't have come at a better time for Coach Bob Starkey's fired-up Oak Glen club.

OAK GLEN, which opened the season with two victories, found itself in a rut lately, losing its last four games, and the rousing decision last night may be just what the doctor ordered for the Golden Bears.

A fast start by Oak Glen went a long way in deciding the contest. The Golden Bears led most of the way, with Beaver Local grabbing a slim lead on three occasions, but not being able to stay in front.

Both teams used a running game and Oak Glen used a fast break effectively in the first half and shot a rousing 53 per cent for the first and second quarters.

COACH Lloyd Stockdale, rookie varsity coach at Beaver Local, was involved in his first defeat, but saw his team fight back gamely after falling behind by as much as 14-3 in the first quarter when Oak Glen made seven of its first eight shots.

Oak Glen, after holding a big edge in the opening minutes, was behind 24-22 at the end of the period, but moved on top, 42-39, at halftime.

The Golden Bears continued to hold a slight edge throughout most of the third period and took a 57-53 lead into the final period.

THE SCORE became tied at 51-51 in the third quarter and a two-pointer by Bill Barnhart put Beaver Local in front for the last time 53-51.

Tom Thayer, Oak Glen's leading scorer, tied the count at 53-53 with 1:47 remaining in the period, then Gary Ring, drawing his first starting assignment, hit two quick goals to give Oak Glen its four point lead to carry into the fourth quarter.

The hectic fourth period saw Beaver Local whittle the margin to 68-67 on a bucket by sophomore Dave Horger with 1:19 remaining in the contest.

THAYER pocketed a clutch field goal for a 70-67 edge with 1:04 showing, but Barnhart dropped in another goal to bring the count back to one with only 47 seconds left.

Beaver Local finally fouled Dan Forsythe, who took a couple of deep breaths and made both ends of a one-and-one situation to put the game on ice 72-69 with 21 seconds to go.

Both clubs came into the game equipped with solid scoring and Oak Glen's one - two combination of Thayer and Dan Clark accounted for 45 points.

THAYER was good for 24, including seven in the pressure-packed fourth period, while Clark led Oak Glen in its torrid first half, scoring 14 of his 21 points.

Larry Roberts was the ringleader of the Beaver five with 22 points on eight field goals and six of 11 fouls.

Three other Beaver starters gained the double figures, with Don Lyle hitting 15 timely points, Bill Barnhart 13 and Jeff Hall 11.

The rebounding was fairly even, with Beaver Local showing a slight 41-39 edge. Thayer grabbed 14 for Oak Glen.

THE BEARS wound up with a 4 per cent shooting mark on 31 of 70, while Beaver Local showed 37 per cent on 26 of 71.

Fans who arrived early enough also were treated to a thriller in the preliminary, which went to Oak Glen, 50-48. A tipin by Jim Gadd with only two seconds remaining was the winning bucket.

Mark Miller led the Oak Glen reserves with 17 points, while Gadd added 11. Dennis Klembara dropped in 18 and Mike Piatt 16 for the young Beavers.

Thornton Bags 34 But Tigers Lose At Toronto, 79-61

Symons Paces Red Knights By Scoring 29

Harry Thornton enjoyed the best night of his high school career with a brilliant 34-point performance but it wasn't enough to overcome a strong Toronto quintet which posted a 79-61 victory Friday night on the Red Knight court.

Coach John Pape's Knights recorded their fifth victory against a lone defeat at the hands of Steubenville Big Red. Wellsville is now 2-4.

WHILE Thornton hit the hoop for 15 field goals and four fouls, the Tigers could not stop Dick Symons and Co. Symons, a 6-3 junior and regarded as one of the top pivot men in the valley, poured in 29 points and received a helping hand from teammate Dan Allen who accounted for 23.

Wellsville stayed in the thick of the contest for almost three periods but personal fouls finally took their toll.

TORONTO led 16-15 at the first quarter and 36-33 at halftime. The Red Knights moved in front 53-46 at the end of three stanzas and breathed easy in the final eight minutes. The score was tied 38-38 with 6:30 left in the third period.

The Tigers lost Mac Comparetta on fouls in the fourth period.

Symons with 10 field goals, made nine of 11 fouls and scored 17 of his total in the second half. Allen kept Toronto alive in the first half with 14 points.

—:—

THORNTON, after scoring 22 points in the first half, added 12 in the second half.

Comparetta finished in the double figures with 12.

The Toronto reserves won 49-37.

Wellsville returns to action tonight in another Buckeye Border Conference game entertaining Springfield Local at Beacom Memorial Gym.

Western Beaver Is Victim

Midland opened defense of its Section 8 basketball title Friday night by storming past visiting Western Beaver, 84-22.

Eleven players marked in the scoring column for the Leopards as they raced to their 30th straight section win.

MIDLAND also kept in tact a home court winning streak in section play that dates back to 1957.

Employing a pressing defense at half court, the Leopards stopped the Golden Beavers cold in every quarter but the third, when the visitors tallied five goals.

MIDLAND held a 39-4 lead at the half as the Beavers tallied just two free throws in each of the first two periods.

Brent Lake paced the Leopards with 13 points as Glenn Humbert and Steve Alston followed with 12 each.

Clarence Andrews led Western Beaver with 10 markers as it dropped to a 3-6 mark.

MIDLAND raised its record to 9-3 overall as it prepares to meet one of its top challengers in section play Tuesday when the Leopards venture to Hopewell. Hopewell downed New Brighton, 62-55, Friday in winning its opener in the section and raising its overall mark to 9-2.

The Leopard reserves dumped the Golden Beaver subs, 43-21, in the preliminary. John Tillman and Jim Smith tallied 10 each to lead the win.

Mike Lacey scored eight points in the losing effort.

Blair's 21 Leads Victory

Lisbon Claims 4th In Row

Lisbon captured its fourth straight victory Friday night by edging a determined Louisville quint, 50-48, in a Tri - County League encounter at the winner's court.

The Blue Devils led most of the way in the tight contest, but had to rally in the final two minutes to escape with the verdict.

Louisville had moved into a one point lead late in the contest before Lisbon took control to mark up their second win in league action without a loss.

Don Blair, 6-0 junior, paced the victory with 21 points. He was assisted by Joe Pappas, who chipped in with 11.

Dick Kuhn took game honors in the losing cause for Louisville as he tallied 24 markers. Rodak backed Kuhn up with 10.

Louisville topped the Lisbon reserves, 35-27 in the preliminary.

The Blue Devils haven't lost in varsity action since Wellsville gained a decision in the season opener.

Crestview went down to its fifth defeat in six games, 78-48, at the hands of a visiting McDonald team Friday night.

Coach Bruce Webber's Rebels were in the thick of the battle at halftime trailing 35-32 but the loss of their leading scorer, Bill Kress, midway through the third period put an end to Crestview's bid for its second victory.

At the end of the third period, McDonald had moved into command 54-40.

When Kress left the game he had scored 16 points and was the key to Crestview's board game. Randy McBride also added 16 points for the Rebels.

Three McDonald cagers tied for scoring honors as Wellington, Dolsak and Wes Martin scored 16 each.

The victory was the fourth in six games for McDonald.

Visitors Come Out On Top

Home Court Doesn't Mean Much To Ivy League Teams

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This has been a big week for visiting teams in college basketball. More of them won than in any previous week since the season opened Dec. 1.

Friday night, for instance, the home court advantage didn't mean a thing in the Ivy League. All four visiting teams won as Princeton beat Yale 61-55, Columbia defeated Dartmouth 77-72, Cornell thumped Harvard 96-80 and Penn whipped Brown 91-57.

Earlier in the week road triumphs had been recorded by Chicago Loyola over Indiana, Virginia Over Maryland, Kansas over Colorado, Nebraska over Iowa State, Purdue over Notre Dame, Kansas State over Missouri, Wisconsin over Marquette, Holy Cross over Connecticut, N.C. State over South Carolina, Cincinnati over North Texas, Wyoming over Denver, Oklahoma City over New Orleans Loyola, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Providence over Massachusetts and Miami, Ohio, over Kent State.

Some of the home teams won, of course, on Friday's slim national program UCLA, Southern California, Brigham Young and Utah came through in fine style for the home crowds.

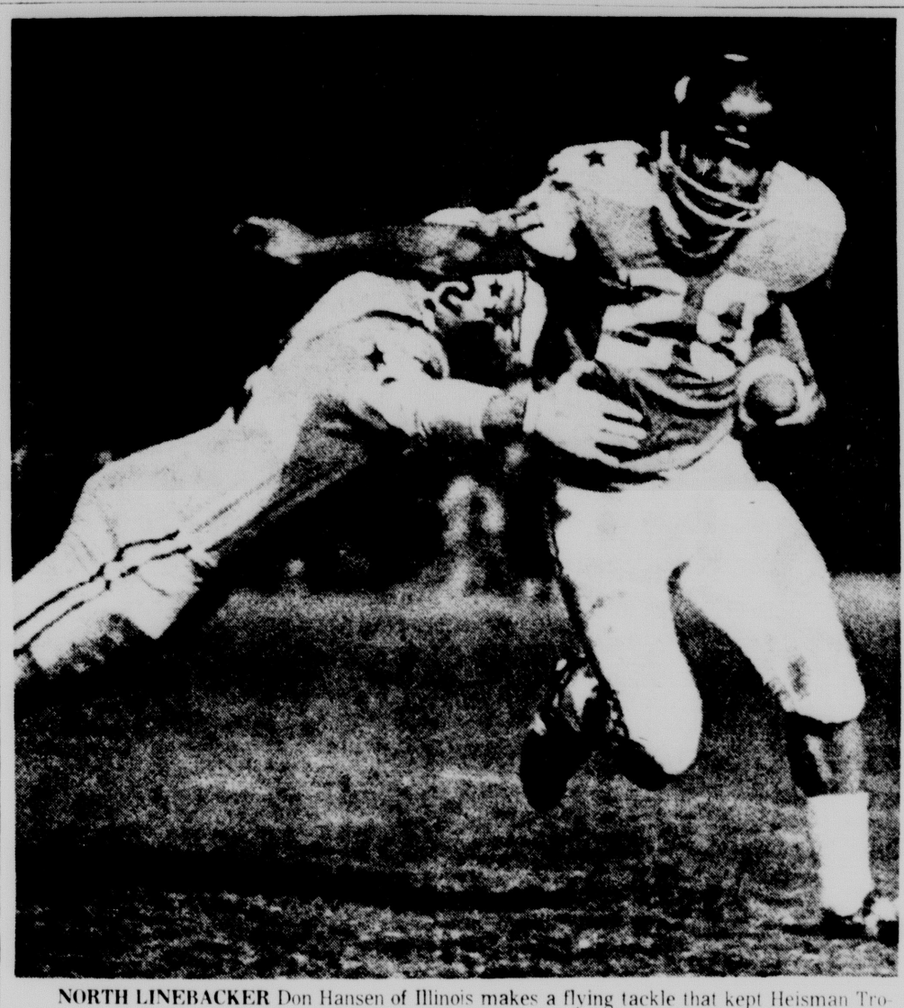

UCLA, the national champions that climed back into The Associated Press top ten this week with a No. 10 rating, crushed Oregon State 79-35. Brigham Young, No. 8 in the AP poll, downed Arizona State 95-81. Southern Cal walloped Oregon 92-66 and Utah defeated Arizona 87-78.

Stan Felsinger scored 40 points for Columbia against Dartmouth to keep the Lions on top of the Ivy League with a 2-0 mark. Princeton's Don Rodenbach paced the Tigers with 15 points as they opened their campaign for a fourth straight league championship. Stan Pawlak's 28 points paced Penn over Brown and Gary Munson's 22 led Cornell over Harvard.

Dick Nemelka threw in 29 points to lead Brigham Young over Arizona State. Dennis Hamilton and Freddie Lewis each got 27 for the Sun Devils.

UCLA's romp over Oregon State was the fifth in a row for the Bruins since their defeat by Cincinnati before the Los Angeles Classic. Edgar Lacey and Mike Warren scored 18 each as UCLA notched its 34th straight Pacific Athletic Conference victory.

Rhode Island and Gonzaga chalked up home court triumphs while Weber State and Utah State won on the road. Rhode Island romped over Vermont 97-63. Gonzaga defeated Idaho State 93-86. Weber downed Idaho 100-96 and Utah State conquered Portland 83-75.

Murphy's 33 Sets Pace In Clippers' Victory

Columbiana scored a 65-59 victory over Sebring Friday night at the loser's court.

The Clippers broke loose with a 20-point outburst in the third stanza to march away from Sebring after the two teams fought evenly through the first half.

The teams were tied 16-16 at the end of the first quarter and Sebring led 31-30 at halftime before the Clippers' spree moved them ahead 50-44 entering the final period.

Jim Murphy paced the victory with 33 points on 13 fielders and seven free throws. Don Cope added 10 points.

Tim Penrose paced the losers with 18 points. Whitacre scored 13 and Andrews, 10, to back up Penrose.

Columbiana evened its season slate at 3-3, while Sebring dropped to a 4-2 mark.

Sebring captured the reserve contest, 50-47.

Peden Hits 20 In League Setback

South Side Bows By 61-49

South Side High School dropped its second straight basketball decision in Section 22B Friday night as invading Avonworth copped a 61-49 verdict.

Avonworth led all the way in keeping the Rams winless in section frays as it evened its league mark at 1-1. The invaders held quarter leads of, 12-9, 30-27 and 42-34, enroute to the victory.

South Side's scoring ace Ken Peden took game honors with 20 points on nine fielders and two free throws in the losing effort.

Scoring balance proved the difference as Avonworth featured three hoopers in double figures. Byrne tallied 15, while Honick and Hoyt bucketed 11 apiece to spur the attack.

The visitors made a clean sweep of the cage action as Avonworth subs downed the Ram reserves, 71-26.

Weber and Matz scored 10 points each in pacing the win. Frank Scott hit for eight markers to pace Ram scorers.

North Rallies To Nip South

HONOLULU (AP) — In a tremendous second half in which they overcome a halftime deficit of 20-7 and then fought off a late enemy threat, the North All-Stars edged the favored South 27-26 Friday night in the 20th annual Hula Bowl.

An overflow crowd of 25,000 —the first sellout in the history of the bowl — thrilled to the fine quarterbacking efforts by Michigan State's Steve Juday and Texas Tech's Tommy Wilson.

Juday scored one of the North's three second-half touchdowns on a 20-yard run in the third period and had a hand in directing an 81-yard drive that produced another in the first play of the fourth period.

With three minutes to go Tommy Wilson, Texas Tech's passing wizard, engineered a drive that carried 90 yards for a South touchdown.

He passed to Nebraska's Freeman White for 43 yards and then found Donny Anderson, his Texas Tech teammate, for the final 32 yards.

South made it 20-7 after stopping the North on downs on its 19-yard line. The South touchdown drive of 81 yards was climaxed by a 33-yard scoring pass.

McPeak Is Fired As Skins' Coach

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins looked for a new head coach today and Bill McPeak turned his gaze toward Pittsburgh.

McPeak was fired Friday night after five years as Redskin coach. President Edward Bennett Williams said he hoped to pick a successor before the end of the month.

The 39-year-old McPeak, former all-league defensive end and assistant coach at Pittsburgh, is expected to become a candidate for the Steeler job, one of four National Football League head coaching posts now open.

Reached at Miami Beach, Fla., where he is attending an NFL meeting, Steeler owner Art Rooney said, "We haven't given any consideration to him (McPeak), but now that he is out of a job he will be considered along with many other candidates we have on our list."

Ironically, one of the names mentioned often as a possible new Pittsburgh coach is Ernie Stautner, another former Steeler star who currently is Washington's offensive line coach.

If he is hired at Pittsburgh, McPeak would replace Mike Nixon, the same man he succeeded in Washington at the end of the 1960 season.

Nixon was fired by the Steelers last month, shortly after Los Angeles dismissed Harland Svare. In addition to the Washington, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh vacancies, the new Atlanta team still is looking for a head coach.

One name mentioned in early speculation for the Washington job was Y. A. Tittle, former New York and San Francisco quarterback who now is an assistant coach with the 49ers.

Others included former Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson and former Cleveland Browns coach Paul Brown.

McPeak had Washington fans buzzing with title hopes after a 6-8, third place finish in the NFL's Eastern Division in 1964.

But a five-game losing streak at the start of last season swiftly erased these hopes and apparently doomed McPeak. He rallied the team to a 6-3 record in the last nine games and finished with 6-8, identical with 1964 except that this time it was only good enough for a fourth place tie.

The announcement Friday night was made here by Redskin officials, but it came after a meeting between Williams and McPeak in Florida. Williams is attending the NFL meeting at Miami Beach and McPeak has been vacationing at Ft. Lauderdale.

Jim Brown Wins NFL Golf Title

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns has made a mark for himself as a golfer.

He won the National Football League Golf Tournament Friday with an adjusted two-round score of 140.

Brown shot a 77 on the par-70 course, but it was cut to 70 under the complex Callaway System, under which players may eliminate a certain number of their worst holes.

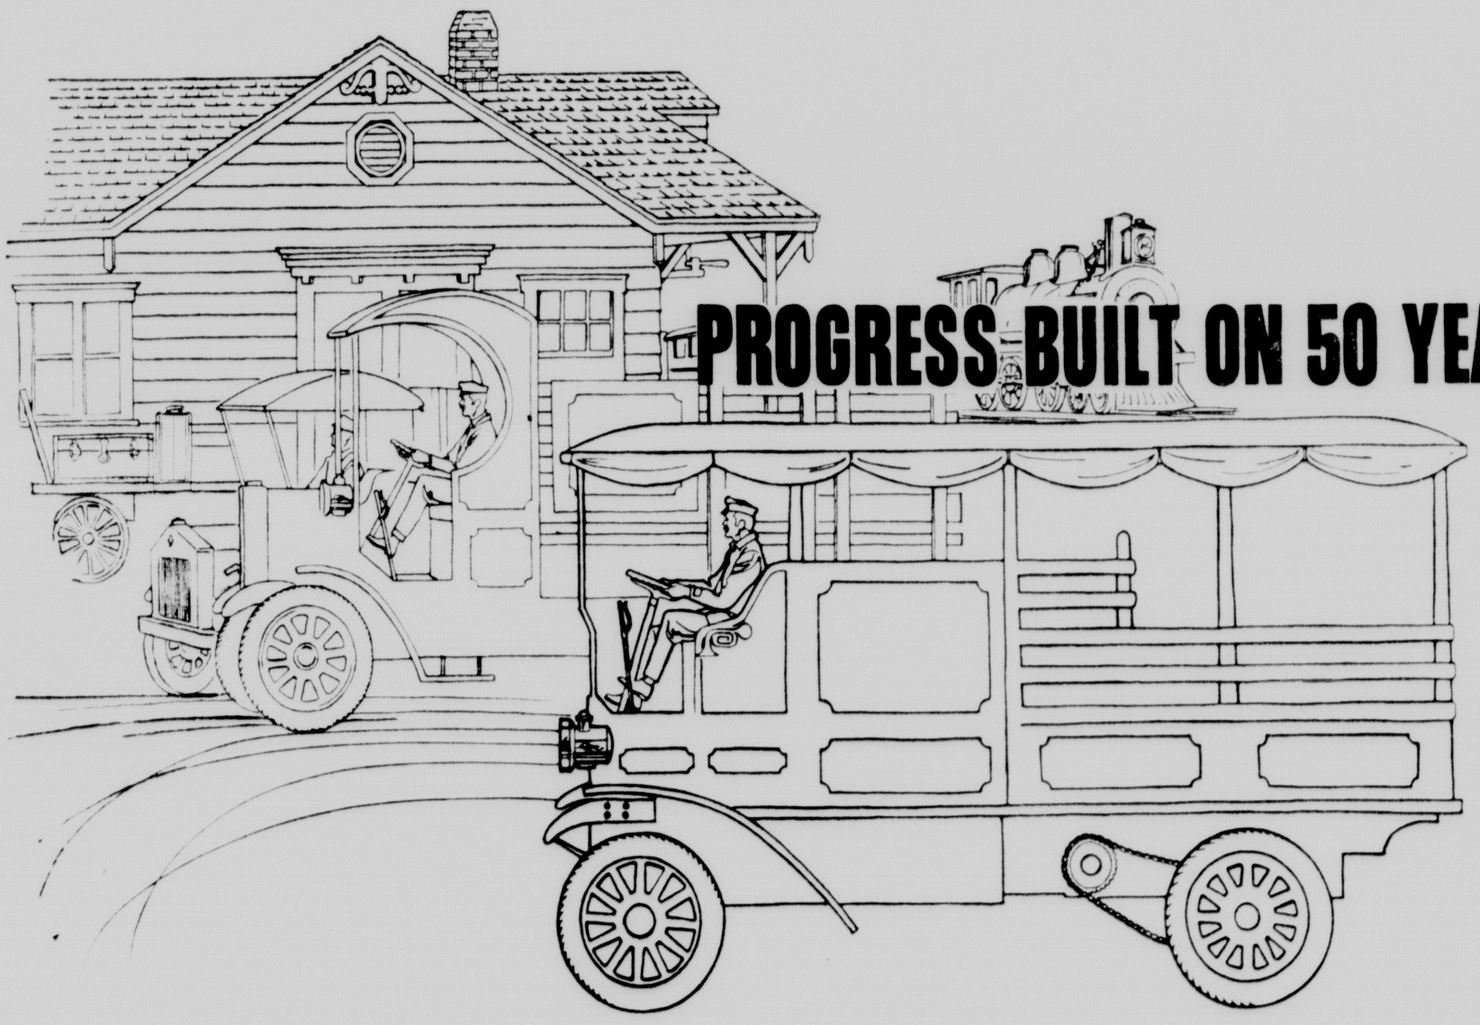

Defensive back Dick LeBeau of the Detroit Lions, tied with Brown after the first round, was pushed to second spot although his gross was 77, the same as Brown's. Lebeau's adjusted score was 72 for a 142 total. Bob Taylor of Minnesota also had an adjusted 142.

Visitors Come Out On Top

Home Court Doesn't Mean Much To Ivy League Teams

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This has been a big week for visiting teams in college basketball. More of them won than in any previous week since the season opened Dec. 1.

Friday night, for instance, the home court advantage didn't mean a thing in the Ivy League. All four visiting teams won as Princeton beat Yale 61-55, Columbia defeated Dartmouth 77-72, Cornell thumped Harvard 96-80 and Penn whipped Brown 91-57.

Earlier in the week road triumphs had been recorded by Chicago Loyola over Indiana, Virginia Over Maryland, Kansas over Colorado, Nebraska over Iowa State, Purdue over Notre Dame, Kansas State over Missouri, Wisconsin over Marquette, Holy Cross over Connecticut, N.C. State over South Carolina, Cincinnati over North Texas, Wyoming over Denver, Oklahoma City over New Orleans Loyola, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Providence over Massachusetts and Miami, Ohio, over Kent State.

Some of the home teams won, of course, on Friday's slim national program UCLA, Southern California, Brigham Young and Utah came through in fine style for the home crowds.

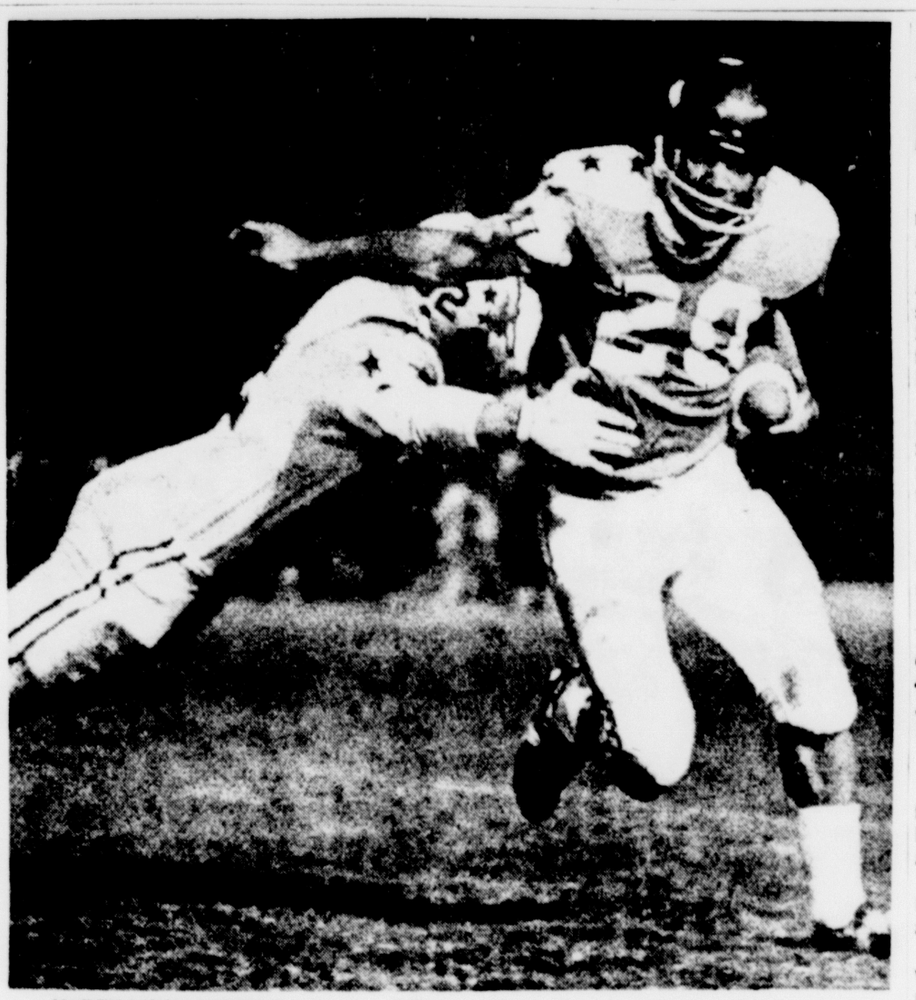

UCLA, the national champions that climed back into The Associated Press top ten this week with a No. 10 rating, crushed Oregon State 79-35. Brigham Young, No. 8 in the AP poll, downed Arizona State 95-81. Southern Cal walloped Oregon 92-66 and Utah defeated Arizona 87-78.

Stan Felsinger scored 40 points for Columbia against Dartmouth to keep the Lions on top of the Ivy League with a 2-0 mark. Princeton's Don Rodenbach paced the Tigers with 15 points as they opened their campaign for a fourth straight league championship. Stan Pawlak's 28 points paced Penn over Brown and Gary Munson's 22 led Cornell over Harvard.

Dick Nemelka threw in 29 points to lead Brigham Young over Arizona State. Dennis Hamilton and Freddie Lewis each got 27 for the Sun Devils.

UCLA's romp over Oregon State was the fifth in a row for the Bruins since their defeat by Cincinnati before the Los Angeles Classic. Edgar Lacey and Mike Warren scored 18 each as UCLA notched its 34th straight Pacific Athletic Conference victory.

Rhode Island and Gonzaga chalked up home court triumphs while Weber State and Utah State won on the road. Rhode Island romped over Vermont 97-63. Gonzaga defeated Idaho State 93-86. Weber downed Idaho 100-96 and Utah State conquered Portland 83-75.

Murphy's 33 Sets Pace In Clippers' Victory

Columbiana scored a 65-59 victory over Sebring Friday night at the loser's court.

The Clippers broke loose with a 20-point outburst in the third stanza to march away from Sebring after the two teams fought evenly through the first half.

The teams were tied 16-16 at the end of the first quarter and Sebring led 31-30 at halftime before the Clippers' spree moved them ahead 50-44 entering the final period.

Jim Murphy paced the victory with 33 points on 13 fielders and seven free throws. Don Cope added 10 points.

Tim Penrose paced the losers with 18 points. Whitacre scored 13 and Andrews, 10, to back up Penrose.

Columbiana evened its season slate at 3-3, while Sebring dropped to a 4-2 mark.

Sebring captured the reserve contest, 50-47.

South Side Bows By 61-49

South Side High School dropped its second straight basketball decision in Section 22B Friday night as invading Avonworth copped a 61-49 verdict.

Avonworth led all the way in keeping the Rams winless in section frays as it evened its league mark at 1-1. The invaders held quarter leads of, 12-9, 30-27 and 42-34, enroute to the victory.

South Side's scoring ace Ken Peden took game honors with 20 points on nine fielders and two free throws in the losing effort.

Scoring balance proved the difference as Avonworth featured three hoopers in double figures. Byrne tallied 15, while Honick and Hoyt bucketed 11 apiece to spur the attack.

The visitors made a clean sweep of the cage action as Avonworth subs downed the Ram reserves, 71-26.

Weber and Matz scored 10 points each in pacing the win. Frank Scott hit for eight markers to pace Ram scorers.

Colts Are Team Without A Quarterback

Dallas Ranks 3½-Point Favorite Over Baltimore In Playoff Bowl

By WILL GRIMSEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are a 3½-point favorite over the injury-hit Baltimore Colts in Sunday's Playoff Bowl football game, and Colt Coach Don Shula is not inclined to argue with the odds.

"You have to figure the Cowboys as favorites," the Baltimore skipper said today. "You can't go with a team that doesn't have an experienced quarterback."

As in the final two games, the Colts will go into the battle of National Football League runners-up with a converted halfback, Tom Matte, at the signal calling spot.

Matte, who had thrown only one pass as a pro, stepped in when the Colts lost their ace quarterback, Johnny Unitas, and his replacement, Gary Cuzzo, in the final two weeks of the season.

"Matte has been tremendous," Shula said. "The way he has come through has lifted the whole team. Every guy wants to put in a little extra. It has given us a lot of drive."

With Matte leading the team, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 20-17 and carried Green Bay into overtime in a playoff for the Western Conference championship before losing 13-10.

The underdog role again will be a familiar one Sunday before a crowd of 60,000 in the 72,200-capacity Orange Bowl. CBS will televise the game, with kickoff at 1:45 p.m. EST.

Although Baltimore is throttled by loss of Unitas, the contest may still develop into an aerial circus.

The Cowboys, who won five of their last seven games for a 7-7 record, have an effective passer in Don Meredith and one of football's most dangerous receivers in Bobby Hayes, the Olympic sprint champion.

Hayes caught 46 passes for 1,003 yards and 12 touchdowns.

The Cowboys have two other dangerous receivers in Frank Clarke and Buddy Dial, and a powerful runner in Don Perkins.

Shula has indicated that Matte, who stuck mostly to the ground in the last two Baltimore games, will be given more freedom to pass against Dallas.

Detroit Gains First Victory Over St. Louis

By The Associated Press

Meeting for the fourth time this season, the only playing coaches in the National Basketball Association have turned in a superlative-producing effort.

Best, worst, biggest and wildest were the superlatives as Detroit and Dave DeBusschere trampled St. Louis and Richie Guerin 137-97 Friday night.

In other games Los Angeles downed Philadelphia 126-120 and Boston nipped San Francisco 115-114.

To start with, the victory was Detroit's first over St. Louis this season. The 137 points were the most the Pistons have scored this season, and it was their biggest margin of victory as well. For the Hawks, the defeat was their worst of the season.

To top things off, DeBusschere outscored Guerin 24-22. Ray Scott of Detroit led all scorers with 25 points.

Elgin Baylor came up with his best game of the season, teaming with Jerry West for 73 points in the Lakers' victory over Philadelphia. Baylor poured in 36 points, and West whipped in 37. Wilt Chamberlain scored 49 for the 76ers, who missed 20 free throws.

Sam Jones' driving layup with 15 seconds left gave the victory to the Boston, which had never led until then. Jones led the Celtics with 33 points. Rick Barry was high for San Francisco with 25.

Steelers Get Lineman From Tennessee State

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have signed lineman Jim (Killer) Carter of Tennessee State.

Carter signed with the National Football League club Friday night while in Pittsburgh attending a sports banquet.

He was drafted No. 12 by the Baltimore Colts. Pittsburgh acquired the draft rights to Carter in a trade.

Atlanta Braves Sign Mike de la Hoz, 26

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves signed Mike de la Hoz, a 26-year-old utility infielder, to a 1966 contract Friday.

The terms of de la Hoz' contract were not announced.

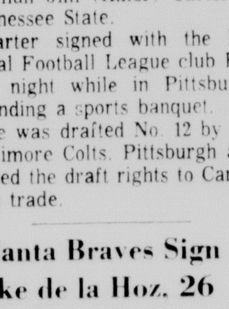

Previously, the Braves had signed shortstop Denis Menke for a estimated $22,000.

Palmer Trailing By 1 In LA Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That Palmer man — Arnold, of course — is back.

He's not on top but he's so close it could make his brother professional golfers shudder.

One stroke behind was Palmer.

And tied with Palmer was Rex Baxter Jr., who has been seeking a PGA tournament victory since he won the Cajun Classic in 1963.

Ragan held the lead through 36 holes with rounds of 67-70—137 over the par 36-35—71 Rancho Municipal Course.

Palmer bounded into contention after a first round 72 with a five-under-par 66 Friday. Baxter had a 67 in a round in which he got two eagles.

Seven were bunched at 140, including Dave Marr, the PGA champion who shot a hole-in-one on the 235-yard 17th hole. Marr used a two-iron, the ball took one hop and it contributed to his par 71.

Three former National Open champions, Ken Venturi, Bill Casper, Jr. and Gene Littler, remained in contention, along with seven others, in the 141 bracket.

Palmer carded a 34-32—66 Friday. He had but one over-par hole. And Arnie's Army was much in evidence in the gallery estimated at 10,500.

Persol Turns In Upset Over Veteran Johnson

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Johnson, more exciting in defeat than he's been in most of his winning fights, probably will get a return shot at conqueror Johnny Persol in Madison Square Garden Jan. 28.

Persol, 25, and 12 years younger than the former light heavyweight champion from Philadelphia, won an upset, close, but unanimous decision in a lively 10-rounder at the Garden Friday night.

The fight was a good one. And so was the performance of Buster Mathis, the 267½ pound blimp from Grand Rapids, Mich., that matchmaker Teddy Brenner plans to bring back too on the 28th.

Mathis dropped Chuck Wepner, 217, of Bayonne, N.J., with a short right in the first round and then went on to stop the battered and bleeding Jerseyite in 1:58 of the third round of a six rounder.

Buster, who says he's aiming for a shot at heavyweight champion Cassius Clay within two years, now has a 6-0 record as a pro, three by knockouts.

Johnson, slow and ring rusty, was making his first start in 21 months. He missed often and was tagged by lead right hands to the head in the first half of the fight. This showed he was off form. But he rallied strongly in the second half and almost pulled out a victory.

Referee Pete Della and judge Joe Eppy each had Persol, the 8-5 underdog, ahead on rounds, 5-4 with one even. Judge Frank Forbes had it 6-3-1 for Persol. The AP card had it 6-4 for Persol. A ringside poll showed a 14-10 edge for Johnson with two writers calling it even.

There were no knockdown but it was an exciting fight all the way with Johnson going to the unusual extreme — for him — of trading often with his younger and faster rival from New York.

The estimated crowd of 4,000 transit strike, cheered Johnson after the fight.

Johnson has a 72-10 record. He's had only two fights since he lost the title to Willie Pastrano 2½ years ago.

Persol's record is 14-3-1. He's the World Boxing Association's No. 7 contender. Johnson no longer is ranked because of his idleness.

Indoor Track Opens Season On West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Indoor track stages its 1966 inaugural tonight with the third annual Examiner Invitational at the Cow Palace with a field ranging from young distance stars Jim Ryun and Gerry Lindgren to veteran Olympic stars Ralph Boston and Parry O'Brien.

To start the program, Charlie Greene of Nebraska and Darel Newman, former Fresno State star, meet again in the 60-yard dash. Greene beat Newman last year in both the NCAA indoor and outdoor meets but the latter has run a record-tying 5.9 over the Cow Palace boards.

Ryun, who set the American mile record of 3:55.3 as a high school senior, attends Kansas as a freshman. His foes include Bob Day of UCLA, the NCAA champion, and Great Britain's Alan Simpson and John Whetton. All have run under four minutes outdoors.

Two years ago Lindgren came down from Spokane, Wash. virtually unnoticed to run in a two-mile race at the Cow Palace. The 119-pounder smashed the high school two-mile record by 29.8 seconds with 9 minutes flat.

That performance was voted most outstanding in a meet featuring a host of international stars.

Boston, the veteran long jumper who has held world records and Olympic titles, will compete in his specialty and also the 60-yard hurdles. O'Brien, who won his first Olympic Gold Medal in 1952, heads a big shot put field.

The program, with more than 200 performers, includes seven high jumpers who have cleared 7 feet, six long jumpers who have gone more than 26 feet, and nine pole vaulters who have soared over 16.

Youth Sentenced For Taking Part In Anti-War Riot

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A four-year prison term has been imposed on a teen-age boy accused of taking part in an anti-war demonstration in violation of a probation order.

Thomas W. Rodd, 19, of the city's Point Breeze section, was sentenced Friday by Judge Louis Rosenberg of U. S. District Court.

Rodd was arrested last week while participating in a demonstration at the Boeing Vertol helicopter plant near Philadelphia. The plant makes helicopters used in the war in Viet Nam.

In 1964, Judge Rosenberg sentenced Rodd to five years in prison for refusing to register for the draft. The sentence was suspended and Rodd was placed on probation for five years.

50,000 Are Billed For Conservancy Levy

CINCINNATI (AP) — About 50,000 property owners in eastern Hamilton County are being billed for a conservancy levy whose collection in four other counties was held up by a taxpayer's suit.

County Treasurer Robert E. Jacobs said the bills were mailed this week. Collection of the two-year levy of 30 cents per $1,000 property assessment for the Little Miami River Conservancy District was held up in other counties after a suit was filed in Clinton County Common Pleas Court by David Myers, a reporter for the Wilmington News-Journal.

Mele Hospitalized With Pains In Legs

BOSTON (AP) — Manager Sam Mele of the Minnesota Twins was hospitalized Friday night for an examination of painful swelling in his legs.

A spokesman at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital said Mele's condition "appeared to be nothing out of the ordinary" but declined to specify what the trouble entailed.

Clay Granted Divorce, It May Cost $177,500

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who complained that his wife wore a pair of pants so tight they showed "all of her," won a divorce Friday, but it could cost him $177,500.

The judge ordered Clay to pay his shapely wife, Sonji, alimony of $1,250 a month for 10 years, plus $22,500 in lawyers fees.

Sonji, 26-year-old ex-model, said she still loved the champ and had tried to live up to the demanding strictures of his Muslim religion.

But Clay, 23, suing as Mohammed Ali, said Sonji wore tight dresses and makeup and even used strong language, all contrary to his faith. He was particularly unhappy about a blue denim suit she wore in Maine when he fought Sonny Liston.

"You could see all of her," Clay told the Circuit Court. "You could see the seams of her underwear. You could see the labels. Tight pants around all those men was wrong."

On cross-examination, her lawyer held up the suit, an exhibit for the defense, and asked the judge if it would be all right for her to slip into it during a recess.

"I don't think that is necessary," said Judge Harold Spaet. "The court has a vivid imagination."

Sonji told a different story. She said she wore whatever he bought her, quit smoking and even avoided makeup — especially after he personally scrubbed her face and hair.

"I told him I would do everything he would want me to," she said. "And he told me I would have to do what his leader told him, and that the leader said I was embarrassing the nation."

The Ali Mohammeds — as they were called in court — gave two accounts of how they were married.

Sonji said they were discussing marriage while driving to a Muslim convention in California when Miami Muslim Samuel X Saxon turned around and said:

"Since we have our own laws, why don't we marry right now."

She said she and Clay repeated "I wed thee" three times, and it was done.

Clay said they were wed in a Miami hotel room, and he gave her a ring. Both agreed they were united by a justice of the peace Aug. 16, 1964 in Gary, Ind.

It lasted less than a year. Clay filed for annulment or divorce June 23, 1965.

Three Climbers OK After Nine Days In Blizzard

MT. SHASTA, Calif. (AP) — Three mountain climbers emerged unfrozen and hearty from a blizzard which stranded them for nine days on one of the nation's highest peaks and asked, "Why all the fuss?"

"They loved it. They thought it was great," Siskiyou County Sheriff Al Cottar said Friday after the climbers hiked to safety down a drift-closed highway.

Cottar said the climbers built a snow hut, ate hearty meals from ample provisions and never considered themselves in trouble as 70-mile-an-hour winds raked their campsite high on 14,161-foot Mt. Shasta.

When the weather broke, they made their way back to civilization on snowshoes and skis—and seemed in better shape than the rescue party which had been trying several days to find them.

Cottar identified the climbers as Leslie Wilson, 34, and John Crawley, 22, both of Berkeley, Calif., and Frank Daenzer, 20, of San Francisco. He said they are members of the Sierra Club, an outing and conservation group.

The climbers started up the northwest slope of the mountain Dec. 30. A blizzard stopped them at the 12,500-foot level, 3,500 feet above the timberline.

6-Month Suspension Set In Traffic Case

NEW CUMBERLAND — Everett N. Holbrook, 49, of Weirton forfeited bond of $110 and received a six - month suspension of his driver's license during a hearing Friday conducted by Squire John D. Herron.

He had been charged Wednesday with driving while intoxicated by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

A companion, Peter J. Balkun Jr. of Steubenville, forfeited $30 bond which he posted after being charged with being intoxicated.

2 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father George W. Heath who passed away 22 years ago today Jan. 8, 1944.
Altho your soul is now at rest,
And free from care and pain.
The world would seem like Heaven,
If we had you back again.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together
Sadly missed by Family,
Earl and Helen Hancock,

Charles D. Lentz In loving memory of our beloved husband and father who passed away 12 years ago Jan. 9th, 1954.
Memories are keepsakes
No one can steal
Death leaves a heartache
No one can heal
Some may forget you
Now that you're gone
But we will remember
No matter how long.
Loved and remembered by Wife, Children, Grandchildren, and Great-grandchildren.

IN loving memory of John E. Owen, who would have been 78 years old, Jan. 9th. Sadly missed by children, grandchildren, and sister.

VIRGINIA M. BUTLER. In sacred memory of our beloved mother, who passed into the spiritual world 2 years ago, Jan. 9, 1964.
Dear little mother of mine. Always loving, true, and kind.
Two long years you've been away.
And I miss you more and more each day.
Your loving Daughter, Son, and all Grandchildren.

Colts Are Team Without A Quarterback

Dallas Ranks 3½-Point Favorite Over Baltimore In Playoff Bowl

By WILL GRIMSEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are a 3½-point favorite over the injury-hit Baltimore Colts in Sunday's Playoff Bowl football game, and Colt Coach Don Shula is not inclined to argue with the odds.

"You have to figure the Cowboys as favorites," the Baltimore skipper said today. "You can't go with a team that doesn't have an experienced quarterback."

As in the final two games, the Colts will go into the battle of National Football League runners-up with a converted halfback, Tom Matte, at the signal calling spot.

Matte, who had thrown only one pass as a pro, stepped in when the Colts lost their ace quarterback, Johnny Unitas, and his replacement, Gary Cuzzo, in the final two weeks of the season.

"Matte has been tremendous," Shula said. "The way he has come through has lifted the whole team. Every guy wants to put in a little extra. It has given us a lot of drive."

With Matte leading the team, Baltimore beat Los Angeles 20-17 and carried Green Bay into overtime in a playoff for the Western Conference championship before losing 13-10.

The underdog role again will be a familiar one Sunday before a crowd of 60,000 in the 72,200-capacity Orange Bowl. CBS will televise the game, with kickoff at 1:45 p.m. EST.

Although Baltimore is throttled by loss of Unitas, the contest may still develop into an aerial circus.

The Cowboys, who won five of their last seven games for a 7-7 record, have an effective passer in Don Meredith and one of football's most dangerous receivers in Bobby Hayes, the Olympic sprint champion.

Hayes caught 46 passes for 1,003 yards and 12 touchdowns.

The Cowboys have two other dangerous receivers in Frank Clarke and Buddy Dial, and a powerful runner in Don Perkins.

Shula has indicated that Matte, who stuck mostly to the ground in the last two Baltimore games, will be given more freedom to pass against Dallas.

Detroit Gains First Victory Over St. Louis

By The Associated Press

Meeting for the fourth time this season, the only playing coaches in the National Basketball Association have turned in a superlative-producing effort.

Best, worst, biggest and wildest were the superlatives as Detroit and Dave DeBusschere trampled St. Louis and Richie Guerin 137-97 Friday night.

In other games Los Angeles downed Philadelphia 126-120 and Boston nipped San Francisco 115-114.

To start with, the victory was Detroit's first over St. Louis this season. The 137 points were the most the Pistons have scored this season, and it was their biggest margin of victory as well. For the Hawks, the defeat was their worst of the season.

Detroit also ended a four-game losing streak while extending St. Louis' to three.

To top things off, DeBusschere outscored Guerin 24-22. Ray Scott of Detroit led all scorers with 25 points.

Elgin Baylor came up with his best game of the season, teaming with Jerry West for 73 points in the Lakers' victory over Philadelphia. Baylor poured in 36 points, and West whipped in 37. Wilt Chamberlain scored 49 for the 76ers, who missed 20 free throws.

Sam Jones' driving layup with 15 seconds left gave the victory to the Boston, which had never led until then. Jones led the Celtics with 33 points. Rick Barry was high for San Francisco with 25.

Steelers Get Lineman From Tennessee State

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have signed lineman Jim (Killer) Carter of Tennessee State.

Carter signed with the National Football League club Friday night while in Pittsburgh attending a sports banquet.

He was drafted No. 12 by the Baltimore Colts. Pittsburgh acquired the draft rights to Carter in a trade.

Atlanta Braves Sign Mike de la Hoz, 26

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves signed Mike de la Hoz, a 26-year-old utility infielder, to a 1966 contract Friday.

The terms of de la Hoz' contract were not announced.

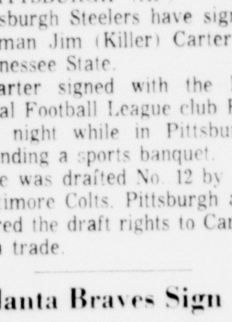

Previously, the Braves had signed shortstop Denis Menke for a estimated $22,000.

Has Knee Operation

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An operation was performed Friday on Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Bill Nelsen for the removal of knee cartilage.

Nelson had knee trouble during the 1965 National Football League season after getting hurt in the exhibition season.

Palmer Trailing By 1 In LA Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That Palmer man — Arnold, of course — is back.

He's not on top but he's so close it could make his brother professional golfers shudder.

The third round of the $70,000 Los Angeles Open Tournament got underway today, with Dave Ragan in sole possession of first place.

One stroke behind was Palmer.

And tied with Palmer was Rex Baxter Jr., who has been seeking a PGA tournament victory since he won the Cajun Classic in 1963.

Ragan held the lead through 36 holes with rounds of 67-70—137 over the par 36-35—71 Rancho Municipal Course.

Palmer bounded into contention after a first round 72 with a five-under-par 66 Friday. Baxter had a 67 in a round in which he got two eagles.

Seven were bunched at 140, including Dave Marr, the PGA champion who shot a hole-in-one on the 235-yard 17th hole. Marr used a two-iron, the ball took one hop and it contributed to his par 71.

Three former National Open champions, Ken Venturi, Bill Casper, Jr. and Gene Littler, remained in contention, along with seven others, in the 141 bracket.

Palmer carded a 34-32—66 Friday. He had but one over-par hole. And Arnie's Army was much in evidence in the gallery estimated at 10,500.

Persol Turns In Upset Over Veteran Johnson

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold Johnson, more exciting in defeat than he's been in most of his winning fights, probably will get a return shot at conqueror Johnny Persol in Madison Square Garden Jan. 28.

Persol, 25, and 12 years younger than the former light heavyweight champion from Philadelphia, won an upset, close, but unanimous decision in a lively 10-rounder at the Garden Friday night.

The fight was a good one. And so was the performance of Buster Mathis, the 267½ pound blimp from Grand Rapids, Mich., that matchmaker Teddy Brenner plans to bring back too on the 28th.

Mathis dropped Chuck Wepner, 217, of Bayonne, N.J., with a short right in the first round and then went on to stop the battered and bleeding Jerseyite in 1:58 of the third round of a six rounder.

Buster, who says he's aiming for a shot at heavyweight champion Cassius Clay within two years, now has a 6-0 record as a pro, three by knockouts.

Johnson, slow and ring rusty, was making his first start in 21 months. He missed often and was tagged by lead right hands to the head in the first half of the fight. This showed he was off form. But he rallied strongly in the second half and almost pulled out a victory.

Referee Pete Della and judge Joe Eppy each had Persol, the 8-5 underdog, ahead on rounds, 5-4 with one even. Judge Frank Forbes had it 6-3-1 for Persol. The AP card had it 6-4 for Persol. A ringside poll showed a 14-10 edge for Johnson with two writers calling it even.

There were no knockdown but it was an exciting fight all the way with Johnson going to the unusual extreme — for him — of trading often with his younger and faster rival from New York.

The estimated crowd of 4,000, transit strike, cheered Johnson after the fight.

Johnson has a 72-10 record. He's had only two fights since he lost the title to Willie Pastrano 2½ years ago.

Persol's record is 14-3-1. He's the World Boxing Association's No. 7 contender. Johnson no longer is ranked because of his idleness.

Indoor Track Opens Season On West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Indoor track stages its 1966 inaugural tonight with the third annual Examiner Invitational at the Cow Palace with a field ranging from young distance stars Jim Ryun and Gerry Lindgren to veteran Olympic stars Ralph Boston and Parry O'Brien.

To start the program, Charlie Greene of Nebraska and Darel Newman, former Fresno State star, meet again in the 60-yard dash. Greene beat Newman last year in both the NCAA indoor and outdoor meets but the latter has run a record-tying 5.9 over the Cow Palace boards.

Ryun, who set the American mile record of 3:55.3 as a high school senior, attends Kansas as a freshman. His foes include Bob Day of UCLA, the NCAA champion, and Great Britain's Alan Simpson and John Whetton. All have run under four minutes outdoors.

Two years ago Lindgren came down from Spokane, Wash. virtually unnoticed to run in a two-mile race at the Cow Palace. The 119-pounder smashed the high school two-mile record by 29.8 seconds with 9 minutes flat.

That performance was voted most outstanding in a meet featuring a host of international stars.

Boston, the veteran long jumper who has held world records and Olympic titles, will compete in his specialty and also the 60-yard hurdles. O'Brien, who won his first Olympic Gold Medal in 1952, heads a big shot put field.

The program, with more than 200 performers, includes seven high jumpers who have cleared 7 feet, six long jumpers who have gone more than 26 feet, and nine pole vaulters who have soared over 16.

Youth Sentenced For Taking Part In Anti-War Riot

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A four-year prison term has been imposed on a teen-age boy accused of taking part in an anti-war demonstration in violation of a probation order.

Thomas W. Rodd, 19, of the city's Point Breeze section, was sentenced Friday by Judge Louis Rosenberg of U. S. District Court.

Rodd was arrested last week while participating in a demonstration at the Boeing Vertol helicopter plant near Philadelphia. The plant makes helicopters used in the war in Viet Nam.

In 1964, Judge Rosenberg sentenced Rodd to five years in prison for refusing to register for the draft. The sentence was suspended and Rodd was placed on probation for five years.

50,000 Are Billed For Conservancy Levy

CINCINNATI (AP) — About 50,000 property owners in eastern Hamilton County are being billed for a conservancy levy whose collection in four other counties was held up by a taxpayer's suit.

County Treasurer Robert E. Jacobs said the bills were mailed this week. Collection of the two-year levy of 30 cents per $1,000 property assessment for the Little Miami River Conservancy District was held up in other counties after a suit was filed in Clinton County Common Pleas Court by David Myers, a reporter for the Wilmington News-Journal.

Mele Hospitalized With Pains In Legs

BOSTON (AP) — Manager Sam Mele of the Minnesota Twins was hospitalized Friday night for an examination of painful swelling in his legs.

A spokesman at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital said Mele's condition "appeared to be nothing out of the ordinary" but declined to specify what the trouble entailed.

Clay Granted Divorce, It May Cost $177,500

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who complained that his wife wore a pair of pants so tight they showed "all of her," won a divorce Friday, but it could cost him $177,500.

The judge ordered Clay to pay his shapely wife, Sonji, alimony of $1,250 a month for 10 years, plus $22,500 in lawyers fees.

Sonji, 26-year-old ex-model, said she still loved the champ and had tried to live up to the demanding strictures of his Muslim religion.

But Clay, 23, suing as Mohammed Ali, said Sonji wore tight dresses and makeup and even used strong language, all contrary to his faith. He was particularly unhappy about a blue denim suit she wore in Maine when he fought Sonny Liston.

"You could see all of her," Clay told the Circuit Court. "You could see the seams of her underwear. You could see the labels. Tight pants around all those men was wrong."

On cross-examination, her lawyer held up the suit, an exhibit for the defense, and asked the judge if it would be all right for her to slip into it during a recess.

"I don't think that is necessary," said Judge Harold Spaet. "The court has a vivid imagination."

Sonji told a different story. She said she wore whatever he bought her, quit smoking and even avoided makeup — especially after he personally scrubbed her face and hair.

"I told him I would do everything he would want me to," she said. "And he told me I would have to do what his leader told him, and that the leader said I was embarrassing the nation."

The Ali Mohammeds — as they were called in court — gave two accounts of how they were married.

Sonji said they were discussing marriage while driving to a Muslim convention in California when Miami Muslim Samuel X Saxon turned around and said:

"Since we have our own laws, why don't we marry right now."

She said she and Clay repeated "I wed thee" three times, and it was done.

Clay said they were wed in a Miami hotel room, and he gave her a ring. Both agreed they were united by a justice of the peace Aug. 16, 1964 in Gary, Ind.

It lasted less than a year. Clay filed for annulment or divorce June 23, 1965.

Three Climbers OK After Nine Days In Blizzard

MT. SHASTA, Calif. (AP) — Three mountain climbers emerged unfrozen and hearty from a blizzard which stranded them for nine days on one of the nation's highest peaks and asked, "Why all the fuss?"

"They loved it. They thought it was great," Siskiyou County Sheriff Al Cottar said Friday after the climbers hiked to safety down a drift-closed highway.

Cottar said the climbers built a snow hut, ate hearty meals from ample provisions and never considered themselves in trouble as 70-mile-an-hour winds raked their campsite high on 14,161-foot Mt. Shasta.

When the weather broke, they made their way back to civilization on snowshoes and skis—and seemed in better shape than the rescue party which had been trying several days to find them.

Cottar identified the climbers as Leslie Wilson, 34, and John Crawley, 22, both of Berkeley, Calif., and Frank Daenzer, 20, of San Francisco. He said they are members of the Sierra Club, an outing and conservation group.

The climbers started up the northwest slope of the mountain Dec. 30. A blizzard stopped them at the 12,500-foot level, 3,500 feet above the timberline.

6-Month Suspension Set In Traffic Case

NEW CUMBERLAND — Everett N. Holbrook, 49, of Weirton forfeited bond of $110 and received a six - month suspension of his driver's license during a hearing Friday conducted by Squire John D. Herron.

He had been charged Wednesday with driving while intoxicated by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

A companion, Peter J. Balkun Jr. of Steubenville, forfeited $30 bond which he posted after being charged with being intoxicated.

2 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father George W. Heath who passed away 22 years ago today Jan. 8, 1944.
Altho your soul is now at rest,
And free from care and pain.
The world would seem like Heaven,
If we had you back again.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together
Sadly missed by Family,
Earl and Helen Hancock,
Wilber and Bernice Heath

Charles D. Lentz. In loving memory of our beloved husband and father who passed away 12 years ago Jan. 9th, 1954.
Memories are keepsakes
No one can steal
Death leaves a heartache
No one can heal
Some may forget you
Now that you're gone
But we will remember
No matter how long.
Loved and remembered by Wife, Children, Grandchildren, and Great-grandchildren.

IN loving memory of John E. Owen, who would have been 78 years old, Jan. 9th. Sadly missed by children, grandchildren, and sister.

VIRGINIA M. BUTLER. In sacred memory of our beloved mother, who passed into the spiritual world 2 years ago, Jan. 9, 1964.
Dear little mother of mine. Always loving, true and kind. Two long years you've been away. And I miss you more and more each day. Your loving Daughter, Son, and all Grandchildren.

MANAGEMENT CAREER OPPORTUNITY

Our company is growing by leaps and bounds. We never get our fill of good people, therefore we are offering a management career potential for aggressive, hard-working men. We promote from with-in, if you prove yourself. In fact, our general sales manager, just 9 years ago, answered this same ad. We offer job security, top pay, reorder commission, profit sharing, and many plus benefits. If you think you can qualify, then call Weirton 748-7390 for appointment. Men who qualify will be placed in management training class on Feb. 15.

Men with cars for light delivery work, full or part time. Top pay. Must know E. Liverpool and surrounding areas. Apply Broadmoor Associates, Travelers Hotel, Room 103.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Jan. 8, the eighth day of 1966. There are 357 days left in the year.

On this date in 1918, President Woodrow Wilson enunciated his 14 points to achieve world peace, in a speech before Congress.

On this date:

In 1679, the French explorer La Salle reached Niagara Falls.

In 1815, Gen. Andrew Jackson defeated the British in the Battle of New Orleans, saving the Mississippi valley from invasion.

In 1894, buildings of the World's Fair in Chicago were destroyed by fire.

In 1916, the British evacuated Gallipoli.

In 1945, Allied artillery was pounding the last Nazi escape route out of the Belgian bulge.

Ten years ago — Four earthquake shocks hit Acapulco, Mexico.

Five years ago — The voters of meteropolitan France overwhelmingly approved President Charles De Gaulle's Algerian reform program.

Junior Editors Quiz on COLOR IN SPACE

QUESTION: Why is the sky in space black?

ANSWER: Our picture shows a highly dramatic contrast in sky effects. The landscape on top is typical of that on our cheerful earth. The trees, mountains and houses are all bathed in sunlight, with the sky a beautiful light luminous blue, through which it seems you could forever. The same light, in the lower picture, is falling on the harsh landscape of the moon. Soon, astronauts will be landing in such a landscape, and even if the sun is shining, they will see the sky jet black, as in the picture. The explanation is that the earth is surrounded by an atmosphere of various gases. Billions of particles float in this air belt, specks of dust, droplets of water vapor and so on. The molecules of these specks catch and break up the light rays coming from the sun, scattering them in different colors. The sky looks light because of sunlight glinting on such particles as suggested in the diagram, and it looks blue because the short blue rays are more widely scattered through the sky than those of other colors. There is no atmosphere in space or around the moon and no specks for the sun to flash on; consequently the sky out there looks black, which is not a color by itself, but the absence of light.

FOR YOU TO DO: Emphasize the contrast in our picture by putting a delicate blue sky in the top part, with blue green over the hills and trees. The mountains of the moon should be bright orange or red brown hues, without any blue to make them look soft and distant.

8 Plats Recorded During December

LISBON — Eight plats in Columbiana County were recorded in December, according to a monthly report by John P. Wargo, recorder.

Two of the plats recorded vacatings — one of a street in the Seyford W. Kurtz Lincoln Way home sites of West Township and the other part of Acorn Lane in the Morningside addition to Liverpool Township.

Others recorded include Subdivision One of the Minerva-East Development Co. of West Township, No. 3 of the Russell C. Gibbs addition to Perry Township, No. 1 of Raymond and Helen Weingart to Perry Township and No. 1 of the Bentley allotment to Salem.

Also recorded were a re-platting of lots in the Seyford W. Kurtz Lincoln Way home sites in West Township and an amended plat of Edgewood Acres fifth addition to Salem.

8 More Treated At City Hospital

Three men injured while at work were among eight treated Friday and early today at City Hospital.

Howard Smith of Salineville R. D. 3 suffered contusions and abrasions of the left hand when a chunk of clay fell on him while he was working at the H. K. Porter Co. shortly before noon yesterday.

Ermal Hunley of Trentvale St. was treated last night for a laceration of the left hand, suffered while working as a meat cutter at Billingsley's Foodland.

John Gilson of Sherwood Ave. suffered a lacerated lip when a piece of metal fell and struck him as he was working on a tractor at home.

Robert Andrew Longwell, son of Jack Longwell of 1st St., Newell, suffered a laceration of the forehead in a fall at home.

Thomas Wolfe, son of Walter Wolfe of 2113 Michigan Ave., was bitten on the right leg by a dog.

Carol Mayes, daughter of Robert Mayes of Chester R. D. 1, sprained her left wrist when she fell from bed.

Evelyn Fitzsimmons of R. D. 2 cut her right ring finger on a broken cup while washing dishes.

Samuel Everhart of 529 Bridge St. was treated shortly after midnight for a laceration of the scalp when a car jack handle fell and hit him.

Freight Terminal Will Serve Area

CANTON, Ohio —(Special)—A new terminal was formally opened here today by Commercial Motor Freight, Inc., at 4310 Southway St., S.W.

It is the newest and most modern of Commercial's 21 major distribution centers, William Cain, Canton branch manager said.

The new terminal will serve as the distribution hub for 29 Ohio and West Virginia points and will replace the old facility at 1630 Cleveland Ave., S.W.

The Canton terminal will provide daily distribution service to:

Bayard, Dalton, East Canton, East Greenville, East Liverpool, East Rochester, East Union, Elkton, Fredericktown, Greentown, Hanoverton, Laughlin, Lisbon, Louisville, Massillon, Millrock, Minerva, Newell, North Canton, North Industry, Power Point, Reedurban, Robertsville, Wellsville, West Point and Yellow Creek in Ohio and Arroyo, Chester and Globe in West Virginia.

Robert Reasbeck is the district sales representative in the East Liverpool area.

1 Killed, 4 Injured In Car-Truck Crash

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A man was killed and four other persons were injured Friday night in a collision of a car and a pickup truck on Route 5 in Erie.

Killed instantly was Frederick Phelps, 51, of nearby Fairview R.D. 2, a passenger in the car.

Police said an auto operated by Phelps' daughter, Karen, 23, swerved on the slick highway into the path of the truck coming from the opposite direction.

Miss Phelps was hospitalized. Her condition was not considered serious.

Presentation School Evacuated

Investigation Continued In Midland 'Bomb' Scare

An investigation was being continued today by Midland police, Pennsylvania state police and officials of the Bell Telephone Co. in an effort to learn the identity of the caller whose report of a bomb planted in the Presentation Parochial School Friday caused the school to be closed.

To safeguard the 450 pupils, about 100 of whom were in the building when the call was received shortly before 8 a.m., and to allow the thorough search of the building and grounds to continue unhampered, Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri asked Fr. Stephen Burdis, pastor of the Presentation Church, to dismiss classes.

D'Itri, who also is a police sergeant, said police and officials of the utility are checking in an attempt to learn where the call originated and the identity of the woman who made the call.

The caller telephoned the school shortly before 8 a.m. and told the principal, Sister Jean Mary, "There's a bomb planted in your school." The caller repeated her warning and then hung up, the chief said.

The principal immediately contacted Fr. Burdis, who notified Police Chief Ed Stefl, who turned the call over to D'Itri.

D'Itri said he, David Schwerha, Civil Defense director, and about 12 firemen went to the building.

The early arrivals, who already were in the building were evacuated and other children were prevented from entering.

The firemen then were split into teams and the building and surrounding area were checked thoroughly, but nothing could be found, Chief D'Itri said. Each classroom was checked along with other possible places where a bomb might have been planted.

Th fire chief said no evidence could be found of anyone entering the building. John Boyle, custodian, told the chief that all was secure in the building when he arrived for work.

D'Itri and school officials emphasized that a report sweeping the borough that the janitor had chased a stranger out of the building "definitely is untrue."

Patrol Reports Minor Accidents

Two Columbiana County motorists were involved in separate minor accidents Friday night, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Cars operated by Richard Allen Kyser, 22, of Howard St., Columbiana, and Edward E. Buckley, 23, of 212 High St., Lisbon, were involved in a collision at 7:45 p.m. on Route 7, a tenth of a mile south of Route 14.

Officers said Kyser was slowing for an intersection when he lost control on a bridge and halted sideways in the road. Buckley, who was following, struck the right side of the Kyser car. Buckley was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

A car operated by Inez Jean Roberts, 18, of 507 W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, skidded on ice and went into a ditch along Route 45, six-tenths of a mile south of Salem at 6:15 p.m. Slight damage resulted to her 1964 coach, officers said.

Mammoth Landslide Blocks U.S. 50 Area

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A mammoth landslide has blocked a section of U. S. Rt. 50, a major highway through southeastern Ohio, and the highway patrol says it will be at least two days before it is reopened.

The patrol reported that tons of dirt poured down on a 150 foot section of the two-lane highway Friday, about two miles east of the Ross County line in Vinton County.

Traffic was being rerouted. Highway department crews were on the scene through the night, removing the dirt which was piled as high as 15 feet in some places.

The patrol reported the cause of the landslide was not known. No one was hurt.

8 Plats Recorded During December

LISBON — Eight plats in Columbiana County were recorded in December, according to a monthly report by John P. Wargo, recorder.

Two of the plats recorded vacatings — one of a street in the Seyford W. Kurtz Lincoln Way home sites of West Township and the other part of Acorn Lane in the Morningside addition to Liverpool Township.

Others recorded include Subdivision One of the Minerva-East Development Co. of West Township, No. 3 of the Russell C. Gibbs addition to Perry Township, No. 1 of Raymond and Helen Weingart to Perry Township and No. 1 of the Bentley allotment to Salem.

Also recorded were a re-platting of lots in the Seyford W. Kurtz Lincoln Way home sites in West Township and an amended plat of Edgewood Acres fifth addition to Salem.

Samuel Everhart of 529 Bridge St. was treated shortly after midnight for a laceration of the scalp when a car jack handle fell and hit him.

Freight Terminal Will Serve Area

CANTON, Ohio —(Special)—A new terminal was formally opened here today by Commercial Motor Freight, Inc., at 4310 Southway St., S.W.

It is the newest and most modern of Commercial's 21 major distribution centers, William Cain, Canton branch manager said.

The new terminal will serve as the distribution hub for 29 Ohio and West Virginia points and will replace the old facility at 1630 Cleveland Ave., S.W.

The Canton terminal will provide daily distribution service to:

Bayard, Dalton, East Canton, East Greenville, East Liverpool, East Rochester, East Union, Elkton, Fredericktown, Greentown, Hanoverton, Laughlin, Lisbon, Louisville, Massillon, Millrock, Minerva, Newell, North Canton, North Industry, Power Point, Reedurban, Robertsville, Wellsville, West Point and Yellow Creek in Ohio and Arroyo, Chester and Globe in West Virginia.

Robert Reasbeck is the district sales representative in the East Liverpool area.

1 Killed, 4 Injured In Car-Truck Crash

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A man was killed and four other persons were injured Friday night in a collision of a car and a a pickup truck on Route 5 in Erie.

Killed instantly was Frederick Phelps, 51, of nearby Fairview R.D. 2, a passenger in the car.

Police said an auto operated by Phelps' daughter, Karen, 23, swerved on the slick highway into the path of the truck coming from the opposite direction.

The truck driver, Robert Colburn, 39, of nearby Millcreek; his wife Florence, 40; and their daughter Diana, 9, were treated for minor injuries.

Miss Phelps was hospitalized. Her condition was not considered serious.

Investigation Continued In Midland 'Bomb' Scare

An investigation was being continued today by Midland police, Pennsylvania state police and officials of the Bell Telephone Co. in an effort to learn the identity of the caller whose report of a bomb planted in the Presentation Parochial School Friday caused the school to be closed.

To safeguard the 450 pupils, about 100 of whom were in the building when the call was received shortly before 8 a.m., and to allow the thorough search of the building and grounds to continue unhampered, Fire Chief Vincent D'Itri asked Fr. Stephen Burdis, pastor of the Presentation Church, to dismiss classes.

D'Itri, who also is a police sergeant, said police and officials of the utility are checking in an attempt to learn where the call originated and the identity of the woman who made the call.

The caller telephoned the school shortly before 8 a.m. and told the principal, Sister Jean Mary, "There's a bomb planted in your school." The caller repeated her warning and then hung up, the chief said.

The principal immediately contacted Fr. Burdis, who notified Police Chief Ed Stefl, who turned the call over to D'Itri.

D'Itri said he, David Schwerha, Civil Defense director, and about 12 firemen went to the building.

The early arrivals, who already were in the building were evacuated and other children were prevented from entering.

The firemen then were split into teams and the building and surrounding area were checked thoroughly, but nothing could be found, Chief D'Itri said. Each classroom was checked along with other possible places where a bomb might have been planted.

Th fire chief said no evidence could be found of anyone entering the building. John Boyle, custodian, told the chief that all was secure in the building when he arrived for work.

D'Itri and school officials emphasized that a report sweeping the borough that the janitor had chased a stranger out of the building "definitely is untrue."

Patrol Reports Minor Accidents

Two Columbiana County motorists were involved in separate minor accidents Friday night, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Cars operated by Richard Allen Kyser, 22, of Howard St., Columbiana, and Edward E. Buckley, 23, of 212 High St., Lisbon, were involved in a collision at 7:45 p.m. on Route 7, a tenth of a mile south of Route 14.

Officers said Kyser was slowing for an intersection when he lost control on a bridge and halted sideways in the road. Buckley, who was following, struck the right side of the Kyser car. Buckley was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

A car operated by Inez Jean Roberts, 18, of 507 W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, skidded on ice and went into a ditch along Route 45, six-tenths of a mile south of Salem at 6:15 p.m. Slight damage resulted to her 1964 coach, officers said.

Mammoth Landslide Blocks U.S. 50 Area

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A mammoth landslide has blocked a section of U. S. Rt. 50, a major highway through southeastern Ohio, and the highway patrol says it will be at least two days before it is reopened.

The patrol reported that tons of dirt poured down on a 150 foot section of the two-lane highway Friday, about two miles east of the Ross County line in Vinton County.

Traffic was being rerouted.

Highway department crews were on the scene through the night, removing the dirt which was piled as high as 15 feet in some places.

The patrol reported the cause of the landslide was not known. No one was hurt.
